Pinchot Spurns Alliance With Senator; Davis Denies Illinois Residence

Charges and counter-charges, interspersed with bitter personalities, flew thick and fast today as the battle of the Republican factions for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations was formally drawn with the filing of petitions by all principal candidates.

1—Senator Grundy accused W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and member of the Republican National Committee, of being the "directing mind in a conspiracy to grab control of the state government and to dominate relationships with the federal government."

2—Labor Secretary Davis blamed "Grundy propaganda" for charges he is a legal resident of Moosecheart, Ill.

3—Gifford Pinchot, spurning a Grundy alliance and lashing at the Davis-Brown combine, denounced the "divine right of gang leaders" to select candidates and dictate policies.

4—Herman Blum, American Tariff League associate of Grundy, likened the Senator to "a bull in a china shop" and declared he should "accept the fall of his house of cards as complete" and retire from a contest in which he "cannot possibly be nominated."

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and a member of the Republican National Committee, was accused of being the "directing mind in a conspiracy to grab control of the state government and the public treasury; dictate the personnel and policy of the Public Service Commission, and dominate all the important relationships of this great state with the Federal government," by United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who is a candidate for election to the office to which he was appointed last December.

The senator was likened to "a bull in a china shop" by Herman Blum, manufacturer and associate of Grundy in the American Tariff League, in a hot retort to the accusation against Gen. Atterbury.

Senator Grundy should "accept the fall of his house of cards as

A City of Gold.
Japan Gets a Bargain.
Even Bees Will Drink.
Giants, Eternally Silent.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.

FINE weather here, clear sunshine, bracing air.

San Francisco, established on a foundation of solid gold, dating back to the days of '49, and long before, looks upon other Western cities, as Bernard Shaw looks on other writers, with some condescension. Other places are interesting, but THIS IS SAN FRANCISCO.

THIS is the city of finance, a city enormously rich. San Francisco's stock exchange ranks second in the country, ahead of Chicago.

Needless to say, old "Father" Wall Street stands first, with its galaxy of multiple billion dollar banks.

San Francisco hears that another financial colossus is hatching, to eclipse in billions the Chase-National - Equitable Trust amalgamation. Charles E. Mitchell, of the National City, is said to be the obstetrician in this case.

ON THE calm Sabbath, at breakfast, San Francisco talks about oil, overwhelmingly important here now, as gold was once.

California has been able to establish a conservation policy to cut down waste. But a gasoline price war worries important men.

OUR government, which says American Oil Companies may not unite, even to meet competition of invading foreign companies, may be interested in Japan, which last week asked bids on oil for her navy.

The companies all competed. British Shell won, with a bid of fifty-four cents a barrel, less than a cent and a half a gallon.

THUS American oil will be supplied to Japan's navy, a British-owned corporation getting the profit, while our United States oil supply drops lower.

A smart man is Deterding, born in Holland, managing the aggressive Shell company for British capitalists.

NEXT week, when Uncle Sam requests oil bids for his Navy, it will be interesting to see how much the old native born gentleman has to pay. The cheapest oil he ever bought cost sixty-four cents, about 20 per cent more than Japan will pay Shell.

IF THE British company should win this bid, supplying Japan and America, and Great Britain as a matter of course, that might persuade United States authorities to take the archaic Sherman law ball and chain off the leg of American industry.

Meanwhile, Standard Oil might reorganize as a British company, then, presumably, our laws would allow "Standard Oil of Great Britain," to compete here on even terms with the British Shell. Much virtue in those words "Great Britain."

WE SEEM to be turning British, in various ways. The Associated Press prints a London cable saying "the idea of a consultative agreement for the benefit of France has been fully approved by President Hoover."

That consultative agreement, unwrapped and put in plain language, means an agreement to send our young men and gold dollars to be killed and spent in Europe, in case France should get into another war, WHICH FRANCE WILL DO, in due time.

THE "highest authority," on which Associated Press makes this announcement, is WHAT do you suppose?

It is the authority of English newspaper correspondents in Washington.

"A very docile people," was Lord Northcliffe's description of the American people, when Americans were letting themselves and their money be shipped to Europe. Northcliffe was right.

CLARENCE DARROW, of Chicago, back from Europe, finds America a three-ring circus of puritanism, politics and prosperity, with 120,000,000 performers taking it all very seriously. Europe, says he, is more amused at us than ever.

We can stand that, while our 25,000,000 automobiles continue running.

But Darrow and others are right in their suggestion that prohibition should not monopolize ALL of government and public attention.

MR. SAMS, apiarist of North Carolina's State College, says corn liquor is killing off honey bees. They find the secret stills, accept no bribe, tell their friends about it. All drink from the mash, may die.

Bees cannot read, are not bound by the Constitution and they have an excuse that men lack.

THE apiarist says bees can find whisky stills with deadly certainty. That might help in prohibition enforcement, government agents taking with them trained bees confirmed corn liquor addicts, held in leash on silken threads. Tugging at the leash, they would lead toward the still.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oakland and other cities near the Golden Gate have a possession never to be duplicated.

On high hills, to the east and

AGREEMENT TO DISBAND REPORTED

England Refuses to Meet France's Security Pleas; 5-Power Pact Hope Fails

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, March 31.—Political discussions between Great Britain and France, aimed at giving the latter nation sufficient security guarantees to enable her to reduce her tonnage demands, have virtually ended in failure, it was reported on good authority today.

Experts of both nations, it is understood, are drawing up an official report admitting their inability to reach an agreement.

Further "last-minute" efforts are expected, but present indications are that the death-knell of the London naval conference as a five-power body has been sounded.

Heads of the various delegations met for 15 minutes today, after which the American contingent held an hour's conference. Spokesmen for the American delegation refused to declare themselves hopeful that a five-power treaty would eventuate, saying merely that they were "working hard in that direction."

OVER BY EASTER

It was learned from Italian sources that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has issued what amounts to an ultimatum that the conference must be concluded before Easter, whether a five-power or three-power pact materializes.

Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, was greatly annoyed today over the British government's communique, in which it was stated that Britain could not make further military commitments, even for the sake of a disarmament treaty. Briand said he had

MARSHALL NOW WALSH'S AIDE

A sweeping change in police, fire and other bureaus in the Department of Public Safety today pushed Ben R. Marshall into the assistant superintendency of police. He succeeds Leo D. Coleman, supporter of James F. Malone in the recent political fight, who resigned.

James M. Clark, Director of Public Safety, announced 63 changes, Marshall's among them. A former traffic inspector, Marshall is a veteran policeman, and was a dark horse for the position. Thomas A. Malone, lieutenant of detectives, and a candidate for council, had been slated for the job.

Jacob Dorsey, formerl lieutenant of traffic, succeeds Marshall as inspector.

Many of the appointments will take care of Carrick, Overbrook and Knoxville, new police districts due to annexation.

FIRE CHIEF NAMED

Chief among the appointments in the fire department announced by Director Clark was that of John Zollinger named as battalion chief.

MRS. HARVEY SINDORF (LEFT) AND HER AUNT

Two Women in Triangle Case Face Each Other; One Grilled on Stand

Mrs. Harvey Sindorf, comely wife, sued for divorce by her husband, Glenshaw draftsman and Carnegie Tech student, admitted on the stand today that she had visited the apartment of the "other man" in the case with a girl acquaintance and the girl's "boy friend."

The testimony was given while the wife of the man named as co-respondent, Mrs. Roland G. Glover, listened. She burst into tears when the attorney for the suing husband turned to her and said: "It's too bad we can't call Mrs. Glover to testify against her husband."

Attorney Edward B. Goehring, representing Sindorf, attempted to force an admission from Sindorf's wife that she was in love with Glover.

"You are in love with Mr. Glover?" he asked Mrs. Sindorf on the stand.

"Well, we are friends," replied the witness.

Goehring insisted upon a yes or no answer and appealed to Judge Joseph M. Swearingen.

"Can you answer the question?" Judge Swearingen asked the witness.

Mrs. Sindorf appeared as if she

COAL RATE CUT BY RAIL-RIVER

Pittsburgh coal operators won a victory today in their fight to secure low combination rail and river freight rates to the Youngstown district.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that the proposed rate of the railroads on bituminous coal shipped by river to Colona and Conway, Pa., and from there by rail to Youngstown, O., was unjustifiably high.

For more than a year the coal operators have been trying to get lower rates to Youngstown to permit more favorable competition with producers in other districts.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company first proposed to build its own railroad from Smiths Ferry, on the Ohio River, to Youngstown. The commission refused to grant permission for this when the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Railroads offered to give the desired rail-river service.

The rate named by the railroads, however, was so much higher than that originally in-

DAGUE PLEA BLAMES BLONDE

'Domination by Bad Woman' Charged, Life Term Asked; Case Goes to Jury Today

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 31.—The fate of W. Glenn Dague, charged with the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, was to be placed in the hands of the jury this afternoon.

Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti was making the closing argument for the commonwealth, leaving only the charge of Judge R. L. Hildebrand before the jury took the case.

The commonwealth demanded the death penalty for Dague, the same doom as meted out to his sweetheart-accomplice, Irene Schroeder.

DOMINATION BY IRENE

Defense counsel made no pretense at seeking an acquittal, pleading only for mercy and life imprisonment, on the ground that Dague was dominated by the blonde waitress who, they said, took the lead in their joint career of banditry.

"You will be told that if evidence is conclusive, Dague is guilty of murder in the first degree," District Attorney John S. Powers told the jury. "That is what we ask, first degree with the death penalty."

Dague entered the courtroom smiling blandly. He nodded cheerfully to his aged father. His wife, Mrs. Theresa Dague, listened intently as Powers asked for her husband's death.

LIFE TERM ASKED

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, in behalf of Dague, made a strong plea for life imprisonment instead of the death penalty.

"Dague now realizes he shouldn't have left his wife," Dickey told the jury. "I don't

Hurley Says Irish Fight For Peace

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—Members of the American-Irish Historical Society agree with Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, as to why Irish fight. They "applauded when he said at a reception: "We admit the Irish are fighters, but they fight from necessity and not through choice. Ireland never has raised an army to invade another country. Whatever fighting it has done has been to defend the peace of the homeland."

Policeman Halting Motorist Shot Dead

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—(AP.)—James Costello, 27, a policeman, was shot and killed today by a motorist he attempted to stop for questioning on a downtown street. After firing three bullets into Costello's body, the motorist tried to run down Elmer Hoffman, another policeman, and then escaped in his speeding car.

Costello and Hoffman were questioning motorists about robberies earlier in the night.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Application has been made to the Immigration Bureau to permit Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who claims to be the youngest daughter of the late Czar Nicholas, of Russia, to continue her visit in this country. No action has yet been taken by the bureau. The woman came to the United States on a visitor's visa which has expired.

OFFICER'S SON TURNS SLEUTH

Bobby Zener, 6, son of Patrolman Bliss Zener of the Wilkinsburg police force, halted before an automobile with headlights burning and a front window shattered at Hays street and School way, as he and his mother were on their way to church yesterday.

"Mother I believe that car is stolen" remarked Bobby, who pointed to the lights and the window.

"Bobby, you're just like your father, a regular policeman," responded his mother. "He sees something wrong with everything."

Bobby said no more at the time, but upon his return from church, he awakened his father, who is on night duty, and told him of the car with the headlights burning.

Zener arose, went to the scene, noted the license number and called the owner, Anthony Cost, 315 Pacific avenue, Forest Hills.

"That's my car," Cost told Zener. "It must have been stolen. I thought it was in my garage." He later claimed the machine at the Wilkinsburg Police Station.

Today on the records at Wilkinsburg Station, Bobby Zener is credited with the recovery of the machine.

And Bobby, at his home, 1457 Marlboro avenue, Wilkinsburg, proudly displays a police badge which was presented to him a year ago by Chief Wallace Bishop, of the police force.

Mrs. Hoover Adopts Horse Back Riding

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—Despite the abolition of the White House stables at the outset of the Hoover administration, Mrs. Hoover has taken up horseback riding as her favorite form of exercise. She is frequently seen along the bridle paths of Rock Creek and Potomac Parks. Today she took advantage of the spring weather and canvered her mount through West Potomac Park for nearly two hours. Cavalry horses were used by Mrs. Hoover and her party. The "First Lady" choosing for herself a handsome chestnut horse.

Sinclair Lewis Rebukes Apologetic Minister

KANSAS CITY, March 31.—(INS.)—The apology the Rev. Dr. William L. Stidger, former Kansas City pastor and now pastor of Copley Methodist Episcopal Church of Boston, wrote to Sinclair Lewis, the author, withdrawing his allegation that "Lewis was drunk while he wrote 'Elmer Gantry,'" has received only a stinging rebuke from Lewis.

The letter Dr. Stidger wrote recently to Lewis and the author's reply were read here yesterday by the Rev. L. M. Birkhead in his sermon at All Souls Unitarian Church. Dr. Birkhead is an intimate friend of Lewis.

In his letter, Dr. Stidger told Lewis he would repeat the apology publicly while visiting Kansas City last week. Dr. Stidger left here today without having mentioned the author.

"I want to do what I should have done long ago . . . and that is, to apologize to you for saying that you were drunk all the time you were writing 'Elmer Gantry,'" began Dr. Stidger's letter to Lewis.

The reply of the author as read by Dr. Birkhead was, in part, as follows:

"If you have any more apologies to make, don't make them to me, but to the God in whom you so loudly proclaim a belief."

LASHES AT RAILROADS

Leading up to his charges against Gen. Atterbury, Senator Grundy declared "the most corrupt period in American politics was that in which the big railroads of the country dominated elections, controlled state legislatures, bought or repealed laws at their own will, strangled industry and shook down the public."

The people of the nation finally arose and threw off the yoke of the railroads and passed laws curtailing their activities in such a determined manner that railroad executives dropped out of politics [illegible] the junior Pennsylvania that time, until W. W. [illegible]y," Senator Grundy continued, "no railroad head has dared even to bring the railroads of the country back into the political affairs of the states or the nation.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

"By the grace of the political machine now guided by the so-called 'war board,' composed of Tom Cunningham, Charles Hall, Sam Salus, et al., Mr. Atterbury now is the Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and Mr. Atterbury is the directing mind in the conspiracy being carried out by Cunningham, Hall, Salus and their pawns," asserted Grundy.

In another counter-charge State Senator Salus declared Arthur Townsend, state budget officer at Harrisburg, had sold to the state a tract of land near Washington Crossing in Bucks County, which was supposed to have historical value, that did not have any historical value. Townsend is a lieutenant of Grundy's.

C. F. Armstrong Only Pinchot Running Mate

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, running independently for another term, will not ally himself with Senator Grundy, seeking to succeed himself, or any other candidate for United States senator.

Pinchot's only running mate, he declared here yesterday, is C. F. Armstrong, of Armstrong County, a candidate for lieutenant governor. Armstrong was chairman of the Law and Order Committee in the Legislature during Pinchot's former term.

[illegible] arrived here yesterday [illegible] a continuous stream of [illegible] to his suite in the William [illegible] tel.

HITS 'GANG LEADERS'

Pinchot's attention was called to the support the Davis-Brown ticket is receiving from the political organizations of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties. He said:

"These sudden political changes of gang leaders in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia makes a man wonder where the people come in.

"These leaders act as if all they have to do is to jump where their personal advantage directs and every other voter in the commonwealth should drop all other business to jump with them.

"If all that is necessary is for Kline and Armstrong in Pittsburgh and Cunningham and Hall in Philadelphia to make up their minds in order to settle an election, what is the use of our republican form of government?

"There seems to be quite a lot of people in this state who do not recognize any divine right in gang leaders to dictate policies to them."

Davis Declares Illinois Residence Listing Error

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for United States Senator in opposition to Grundy, left Pittsburgh for Washington, after denying and blaming Senator Grundy for "propaganda" attacking his eligibility for the Senate on the grounds that he is a resident of Mooseheart, Ill. He spoke last night at "Welsh Night" exercises in the Church of the Ascension, Ellsworth avenue.

The labor secretary admitted he was listed in the Congressional Record as a resident of Mooseheart, Ill., as a result of a letter addressed to him there that eventually was received by him. The address then was inserted in the Record.

Davis explained that his commission as secretary of labor fixes his residence in Pennsylvania. During his 40 years in this state he has voted in Pittsburgh 22 years, he said.

TO SELECT CHAIRMAN

He was expected to be in Philadelphia tomorrow to meet other candidates on the Davis-Brown slate and their supporters for the primary purpose of selecting a state chairman, who, from all indications, will be Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell are expected to attend the meeting and if they do it will be the first time in years that they were at the same conference.

State Senator M. G. Leslie was quoted last night as declaring for the Davis-Brown ticket and stating that he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

GRUBBS HEADS PINCHOT DRIVE

W. Clyde Grubbs, attorney, has been selected to be permanent chairman of the Pinchot-for-governor campaign committee in Western Pennsylvania, it was announced today at a meeting in the William Penn, following which the candidate and former governor addressed a group of supporters.

Other officials of the committee include Harry Bastow, vice chairman; Frank I. Gollmar, chairman of Allegheny County; Maj. William T. Rees, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, treasurer.

Charging gang rule in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Pinchot reiterated his platform in his talk today. He promised to abolish the Public Service Commission and the coal and iron police, and accused public utilities of practicing extortion upon the people of the state to the extent of tens of millions of dollars yearly.

"Above all other cities in the commonwealth," he said, "Philadelphia and Pittsburgh know the meaning of 'gang rule.' I am in the field to prevent the Philadelphia political machine from extending its control, its excessive taxation, its protection of crime."

Police Here Seek Rockview Fugitive

tended by the coal companies that the service would be worthless, shippers contended.

While Youngstown was the point at which the coal operators were aiming in their original plan, it is known they hoped to obtain rates later which would help this district in reaching lake ports.

The commission said that if rates are to be established on this ex-river coal which will induce its freer movement from the river mines to Youngstown and nearby points they must not be any higher than the level of the all-rail rates from the producing districts.

77 CENTS MAXIMUM

Any rate which is established, the commission said, must afford a basis for the subsequent establishment of rates from Conway and Colona to Cleveland, Canton, Toledo and other large consuming points or for trans-shipment at lake ports to the head of the lakes.

The commission held that a reasonable maximum on the ex-river coal would be 77 cents to Youngstown. This is only slightly higher than the rate originally contemplated by the Pittsburgh Coal Company on the line it wished to build.

SQUAW SCORES AT TRIAL

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 31.—(AP.)—The jury trying Lila Jimerson for complicity in the murder of Clothilde Marchand was told by Percy W. Darby, a banker and handwriting expert, that there was a "very great dissimilarity" between the letters which the old Indian, Nancy Bowen, has said induced her to kill Mrs. Marchand as a witch, and the handwriting of the 35-year-old consumptive Indian, Lila.

With this testimony, the defense struck at the keystone of the state's charge that Lila, desiring Henri Marchand, artist and sculptor for herself, conspired to kill his wife.

The defense opened its case this morning with the routine motion that the indictment against Lila Jimerson be dismissed. This was denied.

King Moves Court To Windsor Castle

LONDON, March 31.—(AP.)—The British court moved from Buckingham Palace to Windsor this afternoon, King George and Queen Mary motoring to Windsor Castle, where they plan to remain five weeks.

DRUGGIST SUED BY GIRL AFTER DISMISSAL

Louis Boreman Is Accused In $10,000 Action; Bill Says She Spurned Him

Louis Boreman, proprietor of two downtown drug stores, was sued for $10,000 damages today by a 21-year-old girl who contends that she was discharged from his employ after she had repulsed his advances.

The girl, Gladys J. Hastings, of Watt avenue, Ben Avon, charged that Boreman, as he passed her behind the counter of the drugstore, tried to embrace her.

"TRANSFERRED—FIRED"

She was transferred from the Fifth avenue store to the Liberty avenue store, she says, after she had refused his advances and after he had complained that the cash register was "short." A week later she says she was dismissed.

The girl charges Boreman said, in the presence of others: "The cash register was short often and I found out Gladys was taking money," and "If you want to know more about her, her record is in the courthouse." All these alleged accusations, Miss Hastings said, were false.

"OUTRAGEOUS"

In the suit, which was filed by Attorney E. E. McMonigle, Miss Hastings contends that her name and reputation have been damaged and that she has "suffered grevious mental agony."

Boreman said the suit was "outrageous."

"She was fired by my brother, not me, because her services were not liked," Boreman said. "There is absolutely no truth to any of her charges."

Hoover Outfitted For Gold Hunt; Needs Burro

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Save for a burro, President Hoover was equipped today to go prospecting for gold—in a "small way."

The Chief Executive, who has done quite a bit of "roughing it" in many lands as an engineer, was presented with a miniature prospector's outfit by Harry Morrel, of Verdi, Nev., who has tramped over much of the West in his search for precious metals.

The miniature set included picks, a shovel, drills and a pan to shake the gravel.

Morrel was introduced by Representative Arentz, of Nevada.

America Sees No Hope For Security Pact

LONDON, March 31.—(AP.)—Extreme pessimism over the outcome of the Anglo-French negotiations concerning a security pact was expressed in American conference circles this afternoon. It was generally understood the British and French have virtually reached an impasse.

Secretary of State Stimson visited Foreign Minister Briand, of France, during the afternoon and expected to see Premier MacDonald this evening. The nature of his discussions with the French foreign minister was not divulged.

French conference circles also were extremely gloomy late today.

Briand, however, thus far has declined to put himself on record as being pessimistic.

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy and a member of the United States delegation, today ordered the return of Rear Admirals W. A. Moffett, H. E. Yarnell and J. E. Pringle to the United States.

Washington Believes Naval Parley Will Fail

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The London naval conference, which set out with such high hopes and lofty ambitions 10 weeks ago, probably will "make or break" this week, according to Washington's opinion. And the belief is preponderant here that it will "break."

Great Britain's publicly announced resolve to undertake no further military committments to guarantee France's security is expected here to prove the last straw to the sagging back of the conference.

U. S. HOPES FOR FAILURE

It can be said authoritatively that the administration views the collapse of the consultative pact project with something akin to relief.

Even the most ardent supporters of the conference have never been more than lukewarm toward Secretary of State Stimson's entering any kind of a political pact at London, however innocuous, and that lukewarmness has been steadily chilling under the frosty reaction of powerful Senate leaders in both parties.

Acting Secretary of State Cotton said today that this week's negotiations would determine the course of the conference. He refused to amplify his statement.

DAGUE'S PLEA BLAMES BLONDE

know why he did it and I don't offer an excuse for it. There is this about it I do know. At the bottom there is this reason—Irene Schroeder."

Irene was painted in flamboyant colors as the bandit leader and master mind in Dickey's argument.

"Irene went into the Butler store first," Dickey declared. "Irene took the money from the cash register; Irene fired the first shot at Corp. Paul, according to commonwealth witnesses; Irene divided the money they got at Butler, and in Arizona it was Irene to whom Dague turned for a decision as to whether they should surrender. 'I will do what you want,' he has testified he told her and they gave up to the Arizona officers."

WIFE BREAKS DOWN

Dickey closed by calling attention to Dague's wife and children and his father.

"There sits his wife who has found it in her heart to forgive and why shouldn't you?

"Can you send this man to his death while his children cry for him? Will not justice be appeased by putting him away some place instead of taking his life?" Dickey demanded.

Mrs. Dague broke into tears at the conclusion of Dickey's argument and was assisted from the courtroom by friends during a recess called by Judge Hildebrand at this point.

Attorney Benjamin Jarrett, also representing Dague, denounced Irene as a "bad woman" and accused her of wielding a "wicked influence" over a "weak man."

Dague's service in the army during the World War was referred to by Jarrett, who wound up his plea for mercy with the statement that Da[illegible] was deserving of consideration.

BRANDED "MURDERER"

Prosecutor Margiotti began the closing argument for the commonwealth at the afternoon session with a eulogy of Corp. Brady Paul who, he declared, was "brutally murdered."

"There," said Margiotti, pointing to Dague's aged mother in the courtroom, "sits the mother from whom was taken one of her dearest possessions—a loving son.

"And there, members of the jury (pointing to Dague) sits an unwelcome visitor in our midst, a hardened criminal, a murderer who seeks mercy at your hands."

Four-year-old Donnie Schroeder, son of Irene, will be returned to the jurisdiction of West Virginia courts tomorrow afternoon, it was learned this morning.

U. S. BUILDING BILL SIGNED BY HOOVER

$230,000,000 Fund Made Available for Public Work Throughout Country

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—President Hoover today signed the Keyes-Elliott bill authorizing the appropriation of $230,000,000 for public buildings.

Half of the amount is to be allocated to public buildings throughout the country; the other half is for the District of Columbia building program. The funds now authorized will increase nation-wide expenditures from $25,000,000 annually to $35,000,000 and the annual District allotment from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

FUNDS NOT ALLOCATED

The act makes no specific provisions as to where the money is to be expended. The allocations will be decided upon by the interdepartment board of officers of the Postoffice and Treasury departments.

In regard to the District of Columbia the officers of this board have said part of the money would be used for the new Commerce Department building, the new Justice Department building, the archives building and a municipal center for district government.

FIVE PENS USED

Five pens were used by President Hoover in signing the bill.

One was handed to Secretary Mellon of the Treasury, another to Assistant Secretary Heath of the Treasury, who is in charge of the public buildings programs; one each to Senator Keyes (Rep.), of New Hampshire, and Representative Elliott (Rep.), of Indiana, authors of the bill, and the last to Representative Lanham (Dem.), of Texas, ranking minority member of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

was going to break into tears. Then she said:

"No, I cannot."

Mrs. Sindorf admitted that she had gone with Glover to look at three apartments.

"You wanted to be his companion?" Goehring asked.

"Yes, a friend, and so I went with him," Mrs. Sindorf replied.

"He never kissed you?" persisted Goehring.

"No," replied the wife.

"Didn't Glover ever ask you why you were leaving your husband?" said Goehring.

"No," replied Mrs. Sindorf.

"The only thing you ever did was to leave a note on your pillow telling him you were going?" queried Goehring.

"Yes," said Mrs. Sindorf.

Mrs. Sindorf admitted that Glover left his laundry on her doorstep and that she took care of it for him. She also admitted that she frequently had dinner with Glover at Haddon Hall and that she later visited Glover's apartment with a Miss Cook and Miss Cook's "boy friend."

According to the husband's bill of complaint, Mrs. Sindorf showed signs of becoming friendly with Glover when both young couples lived in Brookline and held nightly bridge parties.

Glover took the stand and, under cross-examination, was asked by Attorney Goehring:

"You were in love with Mrs. Sindorf?"

"I was fond of her," he replied.

"Have you ever kissed her?" asked Goehring.

"No," said Glover.

He then was asked if he had ever put his arm around her, and replied:

"Oh, I might have put my arm around her."

Mrs. Ida Cook, of 7944 Tacoma street, Wilkinsburg, aunt of Mrs. Sindorf, testified that her neice resides with her and that she has been at home every night since she separated from her husband. She excepted, however, a period when Mrs. Sindorf was in Virginia.

Navy Opposed to Honoring Ace Refusing Sea Duty

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—The Navy Department, while ready to admit Lieut. Alford J. Williams, Jr., Navy speed king, "has brought great credit to the Navy," is opposed to the Fitzgerald bill which would place him on the retired list with the rank and allowances of a captain.

Williams, recently ordered to sea duty for the first time in his naval career, beginning in 1917, resigned to devote time to development of a racing airship to bring back to the United States the Schneider speed trophy. The trophy was won by England last year after Williams' racer, Mercury, had failed to take the air in tests.

Acting Secretary of Navy Jahncke, in a letter to Chairman Britten, of the House Naval Committee, said:

"He (Williams) is unquestionably one of the Navy's best individual fliers, particularly in acrobatic maneuvers and in racing. However, Lieut. Williams has had no experience on sea duty or with organized combatant units, and is not proficient in such essentials of military aviation as tactics with gunnery."

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 31.—(AP.)—Mildred Kauffman, Kansas City aviatrix and holder of the woman's world record of 46 inside loops, escaped with a few slight scratches and bruises after she was catapulted from her plane at a height of 3,200 feet yesterday at the Buffalo Airport. She was attempting to break her own record.

She landed safely with the aid of her parachute while the plane crashed to earth, its motor wide open. The accident was witnessed by several thousand persons.

Miss Kauffman said she was making the thirty-first loop when she was thrown from the cockpit as the ship went into a partial stall. Helplessly, she dangled upside down from the plane with her feet caught in the safety strap. After several attempts to climb back, the diminutive aviatrix kicked herself free and pulled the parachute cord.

FIVE DEAD LOCATED IN MINE

Dense Gas Forces Workers Back Without Identifying Men as Anxious Kin Wait

KETTLE ISLAND, Ky., March 31. — (AP.) — The bodies of five of 16 miners entombed in an explosion in the Pioneer Coal Company mine Saturday were discovered by mine rescue workers today 1½ miles from the entrance.

The workers were forced to leave the bodies in the mine and immediately return to the surface without identifying them because of the density of the carbon monoxide gas.

John F. Daniel, chief of the State Department of Mines, said it was a practical certainty that the 11 other miners also are dead. He expressed opinion the remainder of the bodies would not be reached before Wednesday, because accumulated debris caused by the explosion hampers the workers.

TAXICAB KILLER DIES IN CHAIR

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, Bellefonte, Pa., March 31.—(INS.)—Ralph Russell Sloat, 29, today paid with his life in the electric chair for the murder of John Lowry, Scranton taxicab driver, whose body was found early last year in a little creek in the Keyser Valley.

While Bert Lowry, father of the murdered man looked on, Sloat was strapped in the death chair this morning. Robert Elliott, of New York, executioner for several states, threw the switch.

Sloat's trial was one of the most sensational in Pennsylvania history. It was charged he engaged Lowry to drive him out of Scranton and murdered the driver and stole the machine simply to obtain transporiation to Camden, N. J., to visit his sweetheart.

Sloat lost his nerve as the death march started. He had to be supported by the Rev. P. N. Osborne, prison chaplain, as he walked, crying, to his doom. When he entered the death room, Sloat recognized one of the witnesses. "Good-bye, Joe," he said.

The body was unclaimed and will be buried here.

Diet for 'Brain Workers' Captivates Congressmen

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—A daily "dietary platter," an entirely new thing under the old Capitol dome, has leaped into popularity in the House of Representatives dining room.

Here's a sample menu:

"Mould of tomato aspic with vegetables (raw carrots, raw cabbage, chopped small) rye toast, Philadelphia cream cheese, baked apples, choice of drinks."

The drinks dispensed with the platter are weak tea with one lump of sugar and lemon, equal parts of boiling hot milk and coffee, and plain milk or buttermilk.

Cup custards, celery, brocoli, beets, tomatoes, string beans, and especially spinach are prominent on the menus.

HEARST PARLEY LETTER TO MACDONALD STIRS BRITAIN

DUAL DEALING WITH HOOVER CHARGED

Newspapers, Shaw, Palace Spokesman Comment on Demand Delegates Return

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE.
Universal Service Special Radio

LONDON, March 31.—Editorializing on the Hearst newspapers' open letter to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, asking him to close the naval conference, the Sunday Express said:

"The bitter attack made on Mr MacDonald throughout America in the Hearst press is an awkward new element in the protracted naval conference. It is not couched in language often used in this country, but amounts to a demand that the American delegation should be recalled because the United States is not receiving what is expected from the conference.

"If this view is popular in the United States it must be traced to Mr. MacDonald's visit. Mr. MacDonald gave the United States reason to suppose that he was making some form of settlement with them. He knew perfectly well what they desired. They desired to be on equal terms with us on the seas without paying for it. They desired cheap parity.

"Now, if the Americans want to reap where they have sown, and find the crop barren, we cannot be surprised at their chagrin and annoyance. We have combinations against us in Europe which make it impossible to give them the parity they expected, and blame for the state of mind represented by the Hearst newspapers must be attributed to the expectations which Mr MacDonald's visit aroused."

SHAW HITS TIMIDITY

Interviewed at his country home, "Wellyn" in Hertfordshire, George Bernard Shaw, famous playwright and England's best-known Socialist, said:

"Anybody really understanding will regard Mr Hearst's outburst against Mr MacDonald as a compliment to MacDonald. The notion that Mr MacDonald is in any way hostile to America is rather feeble and without support, inasmuch as the United States came into this conference of its own free will, and by so doing may be said to be meddling in European affairs.

"Even so, the United States had better leave Mr MacDonald to manage affairs in his own way. He is not going to betray the United States or anybody else.

"America's timidity as to foreign enfanglements is something she must learn to cure herself of. the sooner she learns this lesson the better for her. The people of the United States elected President Wilson for the second time to keep them out of war, and the first thing he did, after reassuming office, was to pitch them boots and breeches into the war.

"All that George Washington stuff about avoiding foreign entanglements is obsolete and outmoded. What America ought to do is to try to get into as many foreign entanglements as she can so she will know in advance what to expect when circumstances beyond her control pitch her into them anyway."

TO STRIVE FOR PEACE

The unofficial uproar and the newspaper protests following the publication of the open letter brought a statement from the British official spokesman at St James Palace. Commenting on the meeting between Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, head of the Italian delegation, and Prime Minister MacDonald at the latter's country home, Chequers, he said:

"Mr. MacDonald made Great Britain's views clear. The British view is that Great Britain in the future will do its utmost to improve the machinery, which is already existing, for keeping the world at peace, and will always give her help to an scheme for security against war, and, as far as Britain is concerned, will do everything possible without any further military or naval commitments.

"To commit herself further would be tantamount to trying ourselves to engage in military and naval operations to control a situation over which we have no concern whatever. No British government would be prepared to make such a commitment, either now or in the future. It would be contrary to the feeling and wishes of the whole British public."

Editorially the Sunday Times says:

"The attempts at giving artificial respiration to the naval conference, which are still going on, will not be helped by the remarkable outburst of the Hearst newspapers in America against Premier MacDonald.

"There are already suggestions that President Hoover does not favor the notion of a consultative pact, and this tirade of the Hearst press may be an attempt to Scotch any chances of one as far as that lies in Mr. Hearst's power."

NEEDED IN COUNCILS

The Daily Herald, the Labor Government's sole organ, under the headline "Hoover, Not Hearst," today will say:

"Those caring for peace and mutual respect between nations will do well to forget at once the personal attack in the open letter, upon Great Britain. It is, after all, incidental to the letter's purpose. it is the froth of journalism rather than the with of the matter.

"The great mass of Americans will read it only to repudiate it.

"But the main purpose of the letter has a graver aspect. It is the culmination of an attempt to make further progress in naval disarmament impossible.

"The presence, the good-will, the active co-operation of America are the very conditions of successful disarmament. The world needs America at her council table as she heed; nobody else. We believe America is willing to respond to that need.

"We are certain Mr. Hearst does not speak for America. American public opinion has developed, moved forward, and reached a position of courageous statesmanlike co-operation in common-world problems, and Mr. Hearst is unaware that the tide has moved beyond him.

"It is not Mr. Hearst, but President Hoover who speaks for America. And the President is today, as he always has been, a staunch friend of world peace."

GALE OVER ATLANTIC

The Daily Express says:

"The Hearst press in America has succeeded in the difficult task o' making sensational reading out of the naval conference. In an open letter to Mr. MacDonald the Prime Minister is accused of unscrupulous trickery towards America.

"Oversensitive souls are afraid that the Hearst letter may torpedo the conference finally. That is hardly likely. But even if it did we should retain our sense of values. Every decent thinking man and woman in the world wants to see the conference succeed—but even worse things could happen than its failure.

"To achieve success by embroiling Great Britain in any future Mediterranean conflict would be sheer madness. We hope that Mr. MacDonald will not be deflected from his firm attitude by the gale which Mr. Hearst has blown across the Atlantic."

The Daily News says:

"The personal attack on Mr MacDonald is not worth the dignity of a reply. Its chief importance being that it expresses once again the deep-rooted Amerieen antipathy—by no means confined to would-be conference records—to anything that even looks like a political 'entanglement' in Europe. That is an attitude of mind which the statesmen of Europe will seek in vain to challenge or ignore."

south of the bay, the state has established a park with 9,000 acres of magnificent giant redwood trees.

This park, to be perpetually maintained for all the people, is the most magnificent in the world.

PROUD man, dressed in a little brief authority, feels small among those silent giants.

Even Mussolini, or the original Caesar would have no inclination to say "How great am I," looking up 360 feet to the top of a tree five thousand years old, still growing, although fire has burned within it a chamber in which fifty men can stand.

THE shy, dark deer, protected, made tame by safety, come from behind a huge tree trunk, to accept your offering. They and the eternally quiet tree giants are in harmony.

Man, with his foolish questions, attaching human names to the giant trees, McKinley, Harding, Fremont, is as much out of place in that forest as he would be in the ocean's depths.

OURS is a marvelous earth dwelling, far too good for those that inhabit it, except the children, spirits of light, and the very old, made humble by life's trials.

You should come to this country.

Better to see a giant tree declaring the glory of God through tens of centuries, than wander off 10,000 miles to see a Taj Mahal, built by sensuality in honor of a dead mistress.

AWAIT CAPONE IN FLORIDA

CHICAGO, March 31.—(INS.)—Florida today awaited the arrival of Alphonse Capone, gang chieftain who has decided to visit his pretentious estate at Miami Beach despite Gov. Carlton's order for his arrest.

Sheriffs of 20 Florida counties on the route from the Georgia line to his Palm Island estate were served yesterday with temporary restraining orders issued by the Federal Government preventing Capone's arrest. The word was relayed here to the Lexington Hotel, where Capone has tended to the affairs of his gang since his release from Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia.

Gov. Carlton two weeks ago ordered Capone's arrest and banishment if he is caught inside the state. In the face of a Federal injunction issued a week ago the Governor held to his stand, but offered no suggestions of how the restraining order might be avoided.

Capone's lieutenants refuse to say whether their chieftain has left as yet for Florida.

PEPPER SCORES LEAGUE COURT IN DEBATE

Points to Dangers Facing U. S. as He Tilts With Pioneer of Kellogg Pact

By FRASER EDWARDS.
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, March 31.—"This is the last stand of the upholders of the American tradition."

That was the closing sentence of George Wharton Pepper, former senator from Pennsylvania, in a momentous debate on the League Court.

Pepper was appealing to an audience of 1,200 in Chicago Forum in debate with Salmon Levinson, distinguished Chicago attorney, a pioneer of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

PLEA FOR PEACE

Pepper made an appeal for peace. It was also an appeal for isolation from European entanglements and for America to mind its own business. It had a direct relation to the struggle over the Republican Senatorial nomination in Illinois.

That fight is between Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, representative at large, and Senator Charles S. Deneen. Questioning the wisdom of American entry into the League Court, Mr. Pepper said:

"But for the objection raised by the United States Senate in the famous Fifth Reservation, the United States would long ago have been in the League Court. The Senate has stood its ground on that."

In conclusion, Senator Pepper set down the solid American doctrine on foreign policy in three sentences, as follows:

"1.—Interfere as little as possible in the affairs of European nations.

"2.—Discourage as much as possible interference by European nations in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere.

"3.—Settle our own disputes peacefully and encourage the peaceful settlement of the disputes between other nations as far as we can do so consistently with the two foregoing propositions.

LEVINSON OPPOSED

"I never have been for the League of Nations," said Levinson. "I never have been and I never will be for it."

"What are we afraid of?" cried Levinson, in a later reference to the League Court. "It is the only inferiority complex the American people have. Let's go into the court and take a chance.

"I am for peace and opposed to war. In a serious matter of peace or war it is almost disgusting to talk about technicalities.

"But what we are afraid of with the court, I do not know. We do not want any disadvantages, but why should we want any advantages. There seems to be some idea that we are going to get cheated. We are spending our time arguing tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee and the world is going to pieces."

NOTED DOCTORS TO VIEW CLINIC FOR CANCER

College of Surgeons Names Commission to Pass on Coffey-Humber Discovery

Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—Doctors of national distinction, coming under the auspices of the American College of Surgeons, are expected to arrive on the Pacific Coast shortly to spend six weeks studying the work of the Coffey-Humber cancer clinics, it was announced here.

The Chemical Foundation, which had planned to send a delegation of experts to Los Angeles and San Francisco, has turned over its arrangements to the American College of Surgeons, which will send a commission of skilled physicians to watch the progress of the work.

MEXICO INTERESTED

Indicating that interest in the experiments has taken on international scope, it was also announced that the Mexican government has been informed by Consul Alfonso Pesquiera of the clinics being held in Los Angeles, with the suggestion that delegates be sent from Mexico City to observe the work.

Letters and telegrams have also been received from the University of Athens, Greece, and from Italian physicians, including a leading doctor of Rome, who numbers Premier Mussolini among his patients.

PATIENTS RELIEVED

More than 100 patients are now receiving treatment through the Los Angeles clinic and in Southern California hospitals. Scores of cases today reported improvement. One woman, who walked briskly into the clinic, was confined to a hospital bed only a few weeks ago. Another said that she was no longer obliged to rely on drugs to ease her pain, and there were many similar cases.

PRAISES CLINIC

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 31.—The new cancer treatment developed by Drs. Coffey and Humber in California is the subject of commendation by Dr. Richard H. Wilson, Wheeling district surgeon, who is now en route home after visiting the institution where the experts are treating hundreds of sufferers. Dr. Wilson's wife is taking the course.

Mrs. Wilson is remaining in California to continue the treatment. Although a sufferer for several years, she is improving and has made her first gain in weight in many months.

CHARGE 50,000 FAKE VOTERS

CHICAGO, March 31.—(INS.)—Charging that 50,000 "floaters" were registered for the April primaries, the state's attorney's office today was to seize the records of the Board of Election Commissioners on a subpena and submit them to the scrutiny of the county grand jury.

Several arrests already have been made, according to State's Attorney John Swanson, and judges and clerks of election in 250 precincts are to be subpenaed before the grand jury to testify to the alleged frauds.

Politicians attached to all factions have complained of asserted irregularities and demand the investigation, according to Swanson.

DIVORCEE JOINS FILM COLONY

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 31.—(INS.)—Declaring she was "very much interested" in talking pictures "and not at all in husbands," Mrs. Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Butt, daughted of the late Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, was in the film colony today.

The sister of Tallulah Bankhead, noted actress, was recently divorced from Lawson Butt, Jr., University of Nevada football star. She sued for a divorce at Reno after she and Butt spent a brief honeymoon at Honolulu.

The former Miss Bankhead married Norton Hoyt in 1920. They were divorced in 1928 and re-married. They were again divorced at Reno last December. Nine days later she was married to Butt.

VICTORY SEEN FOR COSGRAVE

DUBLIN, March 31.—(INS.)—Assuming the re-election of William T. Cosgrave as president of the executive council a foregone conclusion, Dublin apparently refused today to become excited over the newest and most unusual turn in Free State political affairs.

The sudden resignation of President Cosgrave, who had held office so long, was a shock for the moment, but when it was remembered Cosgrave could muster a majority in the Dail Eireann without any difficulty, fears that the change might cause a serious situation were brushed away.

The Dail reassembles Wednesday with a full attendance of members promised. Cosgrave will have the full support of the Government Independent and Farmers' parties. These muster 81 votes, while the Fianna Fail (Eamonn de Valera's Republican party), the Labor and National League groups total only 71.

Granting some cross-voting and a few absentees, Cosgrave seems assured of at least a small majority.

Helen Kane Contest Slated for May 14

Joining forces with the Little Theater of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Radio Artists' Bureau, the Pittsburgh Musical Comedy Club announces that it will stage a "Helen Kane Contest," open to any exponents of Kane style of singing.

The finals will be staged at the Davis Theater on May 14, at 8:15, during the "Radio Revue" being staged by the Radio artists of the Tri-State district. Entries are being received at 707 Little Theater lane, on Watson street.

Albanians Desert Islam for Methodism

Mohammedans are going Methodist in Albania, offering less resistance to conversion than has been experienced in any other country, Dr. Samuel W. Irwin, superintendent of Methodist missions in the Balkans, told Pittsburgh ministers of that denomination at their weekly meeting today.

Freed from Turkish rule only 17 years ago, Albania is so backward, Dr. Irwin said, that sixth grade school books are the most advanced the people have. But the government gave the Methodist mission 500 acres and $10,000 last year to establish a college.

12 TRICHINOSIS CASES HERE

Discovery of 12 cases of trichinosis in Pittsburgh today resulted in C. B. Maits, Director of Health, issuing a warning for the thorough cooking of all fresh pork and sausage. Trichinosis is a severe illness caused by the eating of uncooked or improperly cooked pork or sausage.

"The preventive measure against trichinosis is simple," declared Dr. Maits.

He said it is not necessary to change diet or to avoid pork and sausage, but merely to cook it thoroughly.

King Albert Visits Daughter in Italy

TURIN, Italy, March 31.—(AP.)—King Albert of the Belgians arrived here incognito today to visit his daughter, Princess Marie Jose, and his son-in-law, Prince Humbert. Since it is purely a family visit, royal honors were omitted.

2 DIE DESPITE AID BY PLANE

SIDNEY, Neb., March 31.—(AP.)—Despite the use of serum rushed by airplane from Denver, two children died here, and their parents are in a critical condition at a hospital. They are believed to be victims of food poisoning.

Audrey, 4, and Russell, 8, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crowe, farmers living near Peetz, Col., are the two to die. Physicians late last night held little hope for the father's recovery.

Capt. Arliss France of the Colorado National Guard, flew here with serum after doctors had wired medical supply houses throughout the Middle West.

The food which is believed to have resulted in the twin deaths, was eaten by the family Saturday afternoon. Early Sunday the youngest child became violently ill at the farm home. Crowe placed the entire family in an automobile and rushed them here. En route the father and Russell also became ill. The little girl died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Physicians diagnosed the cases as botulism poisoning.

Stunt Flier Killed, Takes Air When Ill

HUTCHINSON, KAN., March 31.—(AP.)—C. R. Moore, pilot for the Baby Ace Airplane Company at Wichita, Kan., was killed at Albright Field near here late yesterday in a plane crash. His ship fell 2,500 feet in a tail spin. Moore was said by field attendants to have complained of illness before the flight and was urged not to take the air.

He insisted on going up, however, in order not to disappoint a crowd which had gathered for the demonstration of the small one-place plane.

Women Oppose Men in Town Election

ALTAMONT, Mo., March 31.—(AP.)—Altamont has two new political parties, one called "Women" and the other "Men."

At the recent caucus a man nominated another's wife and that started a campaign of retaliation. Finally, the woman's ticket had to be pared down to an even dozen to oppose the twelve male nominees for the five places on the village Board of Trustees. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dulin, both candidates, are in opposite camps.

Men folk have dominated public office at a monthly salary of 50 cents each as long as the oldest of the 349 inhabitants of the village can remember.

The election is to be held tomorrow. Urbandale, Mo., elected women trustees three years ago.

SHOW CARVINGS JULY FOURTH

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP.)—Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor of the Mount Rushmore Memorial, told the South Dakota Society here last night that the head of George Washington, which will form one portion of the work, would be ready for unveiling on July 4.

By that time, too, he said, the first two paragraphs of the brief history will have been carved on the granite of the memorial. Borglum said he had received a telegram from Calvin Coolidge saying that the two paragraphs had been almost completed.

Other speakers at the annual banquet of the society were Rowland B. Mahoney, a former representative from New York; Charles Burk, a former commissioner of Indian affairs; Representative Christopherson, of South Dakota, and G. Deming Seymour, of the Associated Press.

RANKIN FIRE INVESTIGATED

Rankin police today were investigating a fire which routed families from apartments in two buildings and damaged a drygoods store and grocery in Hawkins avenue early yesterday. The loss was estimated at $4,000 by Fire Chief Daniel O'Connell.

The fire started, police said, in the drygoods establishment of Mrs. David Seldman on the first floor of a two-story building at 314 Hawkins avenue. The apartment of Mrs. Seldman, on the second floor, was damaged by water.

While combatting the flames, firemen were compelled to turn streams of water on the building at 316 Hawkins avenue, where three families were forced to flee. The grocery of Joseph Sobel, occupying the first floor, was damaged by water.

VICE DRIVE NETS 62 ON HILL

A vice cleanup in the Hill district late Saturday and early yesterday netted Center avenue police 62 prisoners, 36 of them women, who were arraigned before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court yesterday.

Twenty-four women, all Negroes, were arrested in the streets, in a cabaret and in five houses which were raided in the drive ordered by Police Inspector Albert Beebe.

Fines ranging from $50 to $5 were imposed on most of the prisoners and most of the women who were rounded up in the streets were ordered held for the State Health Department.

ROB GEM STORE, GET $5,000

Thieves entered the store of the Krason Company, jewelers, 733 East Ohio street, early today, and escaped with jewelry valued at $5,000 police were notified. A brick was thrown through the front transom, enabling the robbers to enter.

The loot included nine watches, 10 diamond rings, nine trays of less expensive cigaret and compact cases, Joseph Kraus, manager, reported.

Mrs. Catherine Miller, who resides above the store, reported she was awakened by a noise, but saw nothing when she looked out of her window.

Pawnbroker Beaten, Man Seized in Chase

Severely beaten on the head with a lead pipe while frustrating a holdup today, Moe Kurtz, 55, loan and jewelry shop proprietor, at 453 Water street, was in the Allegheny Hospital.

John C. Wilson, 23, of Chicago, was arrested after a chase to a rooming house at 516 Second avenue by Lieut. Edwin Goodman and Patrolman Louis Keebler. Wilson was alleged to have entered the shop and attacked Kurtz. He fled when Kurtz battled with him, police said.

5-STORY LEAP KILLS ACTRESS

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP)—Allyn King, southern beauty who became a Follies star, died in Bellevue Hospital yesterday from injuries suffered Saturday when she jumped from a window of her bedroom on the fifth floor of an apartment house.

Miss King had suffered a nervous breakdown, relatives said, as a result of continued dieting to keep the slim figure demanded by the stage. She had been a patient in a private sanitarium for nearly three years. About 18 months ago she left the sanitarium apparently much improved, and resumed the study of voice, hoping to return to the stage.

Air Company Acts To Boost Project

The Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation has decided not to solicit the management of the City-County airport because such action would hamper the co-ordination of aviation industries in this section, the company informed Council today.

The new airport should be regarded as the hub of such activities, the letter said, adding that the corporation feels its airport at Butler should supplement the municipal field, not compete with it.

A conference of city and county officials is asked to arrange a comprehensive program.

Finds Why Food Sours The Stomach

Pretty Rae Van Strong of 21 W. 81st St., New York, N. Y., is one of the happiest women in the country now. It is not hard to understand why either. She is able to eat again without suffering afterward from indigestion which was caused by a stomach which could not digest rich and starchy food she liked so well. "Rich or heavy food and my stomach didn't get along at all," she says. "I guess I would be that way yet if I hadn't heard about Acidine. It relieves me quicker than anything I ever heard of. I can take a dose of it now, and in a few minutes my stomach is settled, the gassy belching is gone, and so is that burning sensation in my throat."

Stories like this have caused the fame of Acidine to spread until more than two million people are already using Acidine when there's too much acid in the stomach, and appetite is gone—you'll like the taste of Acidine, and it costs so little. Get it at any drug store.

Filipino Dance Hall Quiz Stabbing Cause

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 31.—(INS)—Two police officers were near death here early today as the result of attacks. C. P. Moore, a detective, was stabbed in the back by a Filipino when he sought to question white girls at a Filipino dance hall. Patrolman Alfred W. Doyle was found with a crushed skull in a district notorious for its bootleggers.

Washington Mill Owner Dies at 80

2,000 CARRIERS AT HARRIS

It was a mighty fortunate thing that the Sun-Telegraph carrier boys' theater party at the Harris theater yesterday was scheduled for Sunday. Had it happened any other day in the week, traffic would have been tied up for an hour or two on Diamond street, with more than 2,000 happy, restless youngsters waiting for the doors to open.

The big show was announced for 3 o'clock. At 2 o'clock Diamond street was jammed. Three policemen and 20 men from the home delivery department of the Sun-Telegraph were there. It was no easy crowd to handle, but Manager William C. Pearce, of the Harris, moved these 2,000 youngsters through the door like clockwork.

It was a fine show for the boys—"Vengeance," a thrilling all-talking drama of the Congo. Plenty of action in an atmosphere new to the youngsters. The jungles of North Africa, the wild animals, the natives in war togs, the thrilling story of "Vengeance" with Jack Holt and Dorothy Revier, kept the audience on its toes for nearly two hours.

Chief Hunts Thief Who Took Auto, Gun, Badge

Chief Charles G. Renner, of the East Deer Township police, today was seeking what he termed the meanest thief. The prowler made away with the chief's automobile, revolver and badge of office from his garage in the rear of his home in the Freeport road, Creighton, last night.

The chief was in the front part of his home at the time, he told county detectives.

WIFE OF NOTED 'BAD MAN' DIES

BALTIMORE, March 31.—(INS)—Mrs. Kitty Hart, 35, wife of the notorious Jack Hart, jail-breaker and fugitive from justice, was dead here today from spinal trouble and softening of the brain.

She died in Volunteers of America Hospital with a locket containing a picture of her husband clasped in her hand, and calling "Jack." She had been in the hospital since last December.

Hart escaped from the Maryland penitentiary a year ago this month. Three weeks ago he was arrested in San Francisco on a charge of grand larceny and was released on $250 bail. He disappeared before his case was called and his identity learned.

The wife gained notoriety through her loyalty to her husband.

Cathedral Stair Climber Sets Record

For the purpose of settling a long controversy as well as a side wager, the 40 flights of stairs at the Cathedral of Learning have been climbed in 6¾ minutes.

Elevators have not yet been installed in the building, and it had been argued that it would be impossible for a person to climb the steps to the top in less than eight minutes.

Bud Post, a watchman at the Cathedral on Saturdays and Sundays, has settled the question. Dashing at top speed and stopping on the way up to punch a time clock, Post set a record that has discouraged other contestants.

Property Owners May Take Appeal

A number of McKees Rocks property owners are arranging to take appeal from the schedule handed down by the county viewers in connection with damages to be allowed property owners for land taken for the construction of the McKees Rocks, Wood Run bridge. In many instances the property owners declare the viewers failed to take into consideration the merchandise loss suffered.

TENTH STREET AND PENN AVENUE

Million-Dollar Estate of Local Coal Magnate Dwindles in Decade

ONE of Pittsburgh's foremost coal operators died about 10 years ago, probably confident that his family was amply protected financially.

He left a very large estate, and also $200,000 life insurance.

The insurance executive who paid that $200,000 to the widow remarked to us recently that most of that million-dollar estate has been lost.

The widow had to shoulder the responsibility of investing it and she had no training to save her from the many pitfalls.

"How different things would be in that family now if that $200,000 had been placed in an Insurance Trust with The Colonial Trust Company," the insurance man remarked.

The Insurance Trust is the modern plan for protecting and improving the capital a man leaves through his insurance.

Make The Colonial Trust Company trustee for your insurance. This company will collect it, invest it and pay it out as you direct.

The money will not be wasted, and your family will not have the worry of investing it.

One Reason for Insurance Trusts

If you have a wife and one child and you leave them your life insurance money in a lump sum, there is only one chance in 25 that both of them will keep that money and benefit by it.

If you have a wife and two children, there is only one chance in 125.

For years Rosenbaum's and shoes have been synonymous! "The Store Ahead" has been, and is now, the criterion for shoes. And the department throughout the years has kept pace with the modern trends. Right now the most outstanding transformation has been made. It is the largest and most modern Shoe Department in Pittsburgh. A model of completeness and perfection for both comfort and service. The architect and designers themselves have created this department as a standard for their future efforts. The last word in modern shoe departments. Six individualized shoe shops. Six specialized shoe shops. And the shoes are as modern—as new—as fresh—as the shops. The shoes say right fashion in every detail.

As you step from the elevators, you'll find cheerful harmony everywhere. A sense of rightness. New carpetings. New chairs. New fixtures. Everything so new—so bright.

DEBS SPONSOR SHOE OPENING

Pittsburgh's younger social set will act as hostesses at the opening of Rosenbaum's remodeled shoe department tomorrow. In addition, some of the debs will model the latest fashion shoes on display.

Rosenbaum's shoe department is really a salon of six individualized shops, six specialized departments within one large shoe department. Besides all the latest creations for young and old, it has an orthopedic salon where foot troubles are diagnosed and corrective measures suggested.

Rosenbaum's store is the only store in the country that uses color to distinguish one salon from another within the shoe department. Soft green mohair distinguishes the Debutante shop and blue graces Lady Pitt's quarters.

SEEK KIDNAPED TRIO IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, March 31.—(AP.)—Captured by brigands, who Thursday raided and looted Yuanchow, Western Kiangsi province, three foreign workers of the British China Inland Mission today were the objects of an intensive search by fellow missionaries.

Much concern was felt for the safety of the trio, the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteus, of England, and Miss N. E. Gemmel, of Girard, Kan., since they were believed to have been captured by the same bandits, who on February 3 kidnaped and presumably murdered three Finnish missionaries.

Three other missionaries, two women and a man, escaped the bandit attack on Yuanchow by fleeing. Those who escaped were two British women and an American, the Rev. R. H. Glazier.

Foreign News in Press Held Aid To Peace

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—Praise for the American and European press in giving increasing space to foreign news was voiced by Titus Filipowicz, Polish ambassador to the United States, at a dinner last night of the Association of Foreign Press Correspondents.

He said that "this news," with the rarest exceptions, has the constant effect of removing prejudices which have existed in Europe concerning America, and in America concerning Europe."

Emil Klaessig, of the Wolff Telegraph Bureau of Germany, was elected president of the association.

CONGRATULATIONS!

DORMONT BOROUGH

on your 21st BIRTHDAY

Just a few of the 50 homes built and sold by Theo. Dangelico on Crosby Avenue, Dormont.

It is with extreme pleasure that we note the advancement achieved by this progressive borough since its incorporation twenty-one years ago today. Dormont citizens, we salute you! You are fortunate, indeed, to be a part of an important unit in Metropolitan Pittsburgh's finest residential community—the beautiful South Hills.

We Are Proud of Our Part in the Development of the South Hills

It is a far cry from the South Hills of two decades ago to the picture of modern progress and general prosperity presented today—a gratifying picture to us, because as pioneers we played a part in this drama of development. Rugged ground was cleared, swamps were filled, and hillsides graded. Upon these new-made sites homes were constructed to make possible the coming of people. To date we have built 150 houses in the South Hills, and, in doing so, have brought as many families into this section, who are still happily engaged in the task of living in and aiding the progress of this great community. And that's why we are proud.

Model Homes for Modern People

Most anyone can build a house . . . we build HOMES. Our constant aim has been to create the type that instills pride in the heart of the owner. Serious attention is given to each little detail of comfort, convenience, and "hominess." Details that result in leisure hours of contentment, and enrich the working hours with happiness and ambition.

A view on Dan Drive, one of Mt. Lebanon's most beautiful streets and one of the outstanding Dangelico developments.

Each Home Complete in Every Detail

DANGELICO model homes are exceptional examples of modern architecture, without faddish extremes . . . in good taste today or ten years from today. Each is built from an individual plan, and no two are alike. They are complete in every detail, including tasteful interior decorations, "quality-famous" wall paper, and the well-known "Tontine" window shades to harmonize. Roomy garages are attached, and grading and shrubbery add the finishing touch to the exterior.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

GRACE HAYES, "whispering soprano," will sing "Little by Little" and "Song of the Dawn" for radio fans tonight as guest of the General Motors Family Party over WCAE at 9:30. The program will be broadcast from the glass studio atop the New Amsterdam Theater in New York.

"Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta" will be an offering by Lottice Howell on the Filmland program, WJAS at 7:30. The featured movie stars will be Gwen Lee and Eddie Nugent.

Eddie Dowling, composer famed for his part in "Honeymoon Lane," will face the WCAE microphone at 11:30 during the Warner Revue.

Grab the telephone and ask for the police if you see a tire cover with the letters KDKA painted in white on a black background. It may be a clue to locating thieves who sometime ago stole Don Woodward's automobile. The automobile came back but not the tire cover, lamentieth the KayDee operator.

Both broadcasting systems will relay President Hoover's address before the Thirty-ninth Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D. C., on April 18.

Everything added to the WJAS thousand-watt transmitter is tested first on a 50-watt set by (Red) McCoy, chief engineer.

A new program will be introduced by KDKA tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

Honorable J. Ezra Butternut, air-cartoonist extraordinary and self-styled authority on all international and domestic affairs, will speak over WOR and WLW at 7:15 tonight.

"Cheerio" will horoscope Omar Khayyam, poet-astronomer who wrote the "Rubaiyat," when fans sit down to the American Home Banquet, WCAE at 6:30.

TODAY'S TID BIT:
Paul Dumont, Dutch Minstrels "end man," claims to be able to "do more Negroes" than any other NBC artist. In a recent Alpha and Omega program Dumont played the roles of three Negroes, made a speech as a state governor, personally operated all sound effect equipment and directed the program. Oo-wah!

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

U. S. Steel Leads Rally

Industrials Gain Here

RALLY CHECKS PROFIT-TAKING ON MARKET

Many Issues Reach New 1930 Highs as U. S. Steel Common Shares Mount

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—The stock market, which moved into new high ground for the year last week, turned irregular today under a heavy wave of profit-taking.

A score or more issues dropped 1 to 5 points below Saturday's quotations, with a sprinkling of specialties down 6 to 17 before the decline was checked in the early afternoon by a spirited demand for U. S. Steel common, which was marked up to another new 1930 high.

Earlier in the session, 50 or more stocks had attained new peak prices for the year on gains running from fractions to 8 points.

VOLUME IS LARGE

Trading was again in enormous volume, with the ticker running about half an hour behind the market, the hourly average of sales running well over 1,000,000 shares.

The mid-day reaction apparently was based on technical considerations, the recent brisk advance in many issues obviously having weakened their market position and rendered them vulnerable to selling pressure.

When word was passed back from the Stock Exchange to the brokerage houses that prices were lower on the floor than those appearing on the tape, which was far behind, there was a rush on the part of many traders to take profits.

SHARES REBOUND

J. I. Case fell 17 points to 253, but quickly rebounded to 266½. Worthington Pump broke 12½ and Columbian Carbon, Houston Oil, Western Union and Vanadium fell 4 to 6 points before they met effective buying support.

General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Power & Light, Underwood-Elliott-Fisher and Checker Cab were carried down 2 points or more, but most of them recovered at least part of their losses by the end of the third hour.

The day's business news was rather meagre in character. Chicago steel mill operations were reported as being maintained around 90 per cent capacity. The Inspiration and Miami copper companies reported a substantial increase in earnings last year. One of the most unfavorable developments of the day was the announcement that Sears-Roebuck sales from February 27 to March 26, had dropped more than $3,000,000 below the corresponding period last year, the first decrease since January, 1927.

CALL MONEY RATE

Call money renewed at 4 per cent with the supply of funds rather limited. Time money, commercial paper and bankers acceptances rates held firm.

Radio was an active feature in the afternoon trading, crossing 55 to a new high record for the year. Blocks of 5,000 to nearly 15,000 changed hands at frequent intervals. Publication of the annual report showing earnings of about $1.60 a share was in line with Wall Street's expectations, but the sharp reduction in inventories since the first of the year was regarded as the chief bullish factor in the report. American Telephone, American Can, Sinclair, Paramount Famous Lasky, Liggett & Myers issues, Columbia Gas, North American, United Corporation, United Gas Improvement, Southern California Edison and Adams Express were among the many other issues to reach new high levels.

Buying of the rails slowed up somewhat, although Pennsylvania, Wabash, Chicago Great Western common, New York, Ontario and Western and Allegheny Corporation all registered new 1930 peaks.

Gold Standard for China Recommended

SHANGHAI, March 31.—The Kemmerer commission of financial experts in its report recommends the gold standard for China and redemption of Chinese money by formation of a gold standard trust fund equivalent to 35 per cent of the value of coins circulated. The fund would consist of gold and foreign credits maintained in New York and London and provision is also made for a central reserve bank of China with a monopoly of bank note issue.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 31.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 5 to 13 points in response to relatively steady cables and some further spot house buying of the near months. Trading was moderately active and the initial demand for May and July seemed to be supplied on the moderate advance, which carried May up to 15.59c and July to 16.00c, or 9 to 11 points net higher.

Reactions of several points followed under realizing, but the buying continued through on smaller volume and the general market held steady at the end of the first half hour with the active months selling about 5 to 10 points net higher. There was scattered buying of new crop months which may have been prompted by an idea that the weather in the South was too cold for planting or germination, although not unfavorable for farm work otherwise.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental buying with a scarcity of contracts in that market. Reports from Manchester indicated increased sales of cotton cloths to Egypt and the Near East and a broadening demand for yarn.

Contracts became comparatively scarce after the early offerings were absorbed and prices made new high ground for the movement later in the morning with May selling at 16.11c and July at 16.12c while the new October contracts appeared in 15.48c or 16 to 23 points net higher. The volume of business tapered off on the advance and the market was quiet but steady within two or three points of the best at midday.

LIVERPOOL, March 31.—Cotton—Spot in fair demand; prices higher. American strict good middling, 9.57d; good middling, 9.22d; strict middling, 8.87d; middling, 8.57d; strict low middling, 8.27d; low middling, 7.77d; strict good ordinary, 7.17d; good ordinary, 6.77d. GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 31.—Forecasts of rain or snow southwest had an early bearish effect today on wheat market prices here. Unlooked-for setbacks in Liverpool wheat quotations operated also as a weight on the Chicago market. Starting ⅝ to 1¼c off, Chicago wheat underwent an additional drop later. Corn and oats were relatively firm, with corn opening at ⅜c decline to ⅛c gain, and afterward hardening somewhat. Provisions went lower.

Counting as a decided influence toward lower prices on wheat today were comprehensive reports that Kansas, the leading wheat state, had the largest wheat acreages in its history, and that the condition of the crop was as good as at this time in 1914, when Kansas produced its record bumper yield. Today's reports added that not to exceed 5 per cent of Kansas wheat acreage would be abandoned this season, as against a 5-year average of 13.5 per cent. Under such circumstances, speculative selling in Chicago took on fresh force at times, and buying was restricted largely to execution of standing orders to purchase at declines.

Word of increased selling of Russian wheat abroad also received considerable attention today. Dispatches at hand said price declines at Liverpool were largely due to the fact that both North and South Russia were continuing to offer wheat, and were accepting low bids. Meanwhile, world shipments of wheat showed 2,040,000 bushels increase today, as compared with a week ago.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—Last week's sharp advances invited heavy profit taking in today's curb market, but the selling was fairly well absorbed, and the market maintained a firm undertone. Stocks generally opened higher, sagged during the morning and turned upward again during the early afternoon.

Utilities mostly offered firm resistance to selling pressure, and several worked up into new high ground.

Indian territory was a strong feature of the oils selling up a few points to a new peak price on announcement of the offer of rights to purchase shares of the new class A stock at $17, and in response to the bringing in of a gusher in the Oklahoma City pool.

American Chain and American Cyanamid B sagged in realizing, and Agfa Ansco and Technicolor were under considerable pressure, the latter touching a new low for the year.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Trade Recovery Outrun by Wall St.; The Reason.

By B. C. FORBES

MARCH is ending with the downward movement in farm products arrested, with average stock quotations at a new peak for the year, with money abundant and cheap, with industry and trade covering sufficiently to reduce unemployment at least a little.

Frankly, however, the first quarter's progress has been disappointing in virtually all important directions except in the stock, bond and money markets.

That the second quarter will make a distinctly better business showing is the popular, but not the universal belief.

WHY are stocks soaring to new heights? And why are we again witnessing speculation reaching 5,000,000 shares in one day on the New York Stock Exchange?

The real answer is not that a vast number of people have become bullish, on the general outlook.

The answer, rather, is that here, there, everywhere, funds not needed for immediate business purposes have become available and are being employed in the stock market.

WEALTHY corporations and individuals who willingly sent money to be rented out in Wall street at very high rates are not attracted by the current very low rates. A good part of such money has been invested in bonds, causing quotations to advance impressively. Part of the money has gone into stocks.

Not a few investment trusts have added to their stock holdings this year. Also, foreign buying has exercised considerable influence.

MY own investigations reveal that the market's behavior last week is not altogether liked in the highest financial circles. Each day the market closed higher, with an unusual outburst of enthusiasm toward the close. Both industrial and railway average quotations were lifted to new peaks since the panic. Although railway shares have advanced little more than 10 points from their early-January minimum, industrials have shot up more than 20 per cent. And trading volume has greatly swelled, causing the ticker once again to run far behind.

INDUSTRY and business have shown no corresponding betterment, of course, and leading bankers argue that, while stocks may be carried temporarily to still higher levels, while money is in oversupply, a reaction of some proportions must be expected. Some of them are taking advantage of the sharp rise in various stocks to reduce their holdings on the theory that fresh accumulation will be possible in the not-distant future.

It is reasoned that the quarterly reports which shortly will begin to appear will make depressing reading and that this cannot fail to have more-or-less sobering effect upon speculation. That not all dividends have been earned in the first quarter is certain. That an unusual number of dividends will be reduced or omitted in coming months is accepted as a foregone conclusion. Hence the belief that the bullish outburst will not long be maintained and that more attractive buying levels will become available before the summer is over.

TURNING to industry, those who control purse-strings are hopeful that somewhat better progress will be made in the second quarter; but they admit privately that no very impressive rebound should be counted upon. The buying power of our far-flung agricultural population has been seriously reduced. Unemployment has cut down the buying power of several millions of families. Other millions of families have become less eager to incur obligations by buying on installment plans. Overproduction, actual and potential, has tended to bring down the general price level — and, consequently, profits.

NEVERTHELESS spring is expected to stimulate at least some quickening of the business pace. Large-scale construction projects are ready to be launched in almost every part of the country by public utility (including natural gas) and other corporations, as well as by federal, state and municipal governments. The motor industry, one of our very largest employers, will expand operations. Although railway traffic and earnings are disappointing, very substantial orders for rails and rolling stock have been placed. The oil industry is at least strengthening its position. Shipping is enjoying an incipient boom.

Wheat, cotton and other principal farm commodities cannot decline indefinitely; it is conceivable that a turn for the better is at hand. Unemployment cannot fail to be reduced. Foreign buyers cannot long continue to withhold normal orders for American products necessary to their existence.

Then, too, the very substantial enhancement in stock prices has done not a little to repair the shattered finances of many. Cheap money encourages borrowing for improvements, extensions and new enterprises.

UNLESS Wall street invites a fresh setback, drastic enough to disturb confidence, there is no reason to doubt moderate progress toward the attaining of a rational measure of prosperity.

Rail Valuation Cases Still Unsettled

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

TEN years ago the Transportation Act gave the Interstate Commerce Commission the right to recapture half of the railroad earnings in excess of 6 per cent of the valuation. At present no one knows any more about what the railroad systems of the United States are worth than at the time the act was passed. This is in spite of the fact that the commission was previously authorized to determine the value of railroad properties as of 1913 for rate making purposes.

When the original legislation was passed it seemed a simple matter to allow railroads to make a specified return on their investment. It is doubtful if the senators and congressmen who favored the bill realized the problems involved. It is quite certain that many of them believed that the determination of railroad values would give the Interstate Commerce Commission grounds for widespread rate reductions. From what little has been determined about railroad values it has become apparent that they were mistaken in this supposition except in a few cases.

After years of work and the expenditure of millions of dollars nothing more has been obtained than conflicting sets of figures on the worth of railroad systems.

Valuation Troubles

RAILROAD valuation troubles have arisen from the fact that there are several ways of determining what the properties may be worth. One way is to compute the original cost. The railroads objected to this since most parts of the lines were built at pre-war prices. As these properties wear out they will have to be replaced at higher existing prices. Naturally the carriers do not want to have their profits limited by basing them on a low scale of values which no longer exists.

On the other hand the commission does not consider it fair to value railroads at the present replacement value when this is far greater than the actual amount of capital put into the transportation systems. The fact that current replacement costs would vary from year to year also makes such a basis impractical both for rate making and for recapture purposes.

O'Fallon Decision

WITH the viewpoint of the railroads and the commission at such great variance both sides have been anxious to have the questions definitely settled in the courts. So far little progress has been made in this direction. It was hoped that the famous St. Louis and O'Fallon case would result in specific rules which could be followed in the future, but the Supreme Court decision was negative rather than positive.

The Interstate Commerce Commission had valued this small road at its pre-war cost and demanded half the earnings in excess of 6 per cent of this figure. The Supreme Court ruled against the commission. It stated that the commission must pay attention to the portion of the Transportation Act requiring weight to be given to present replacement values. The court failed to say just how much of a bearing changing prices should have. It was a victory for the railroads but still left the entire question up in the air.

New Policy Followed

RAILROAD operators have been vitally interested in the ruling recently made by the commission on the value of the Brimstone Railroad and Canal Company. In this case recapture was figured on the replacement value of the railroad in each year of its operation. The line is only nine miles long, so that this procedure could be followed without difficulty. It would not be such a simple matter in a system as large as the Pennsylvania Railroad. The work of keeping the books would be too difficult a task.

If this policy is allowed to stand it will mean an enormous increase in the amount of money which the carriers are allowed to earn. It will only have an immediate effect on the strongest lines, however. The vast majority of railroads are not making enough to pay recapture. But if the improvement in railroad earnings of the past few years continues, the final outcome of the recapture case will have a very important bearing on the values of railroad stocks in future years.

Stock Exchange Topics

Signs Point to Ascending Prices on New York Stock Market.

FROM the purely technical standpoint, there is no doubt that the sign-posts on the New York stock market highway point to higher prices. Establishment of new high prices, on heavy volume, for the representative industrial, railroad, utility and composite stocks, as recorded by all of the principal statistical agencies, clears the way for higher values, until such time as new barriers are encountered. These may appear either in the form of unexpected unfavorable developments in trade or in the realization that business recovery has not "caught up" as expected. The stock market has been stimulated by cheap money, the influence of which is always more quickly reflected in the action of the security markets than in the recuperation of industry and business after a sharp recession. The impression is gaining that the stock market will not have as clear sailing in April as in the last two months. First quarter reports, to be issued next month, will make an unfavorable comparison with the same period last year, but that need be no bugaboo to investors who have bought their stocks after thorough and diligent searching of the facts for the long range investment.

Throughout last week there was good buying noticeable in Lehman Corporation, one of the best managed investment trusts listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The strength was doubtless due to the sharp market appreciation in some of the securities in the Lehman portfolio and the resultant increase in the break-up value of the shares. A while ago, one of the leading lower Broadway brokerage houses prepared a comprehensive analysis of Lehman Corporation and pointed out the advantages to be obtained by making commitments in its shares. The trust was organized around the time when the stock market was going through the worst storm of its history, but nevertheless weathered the storm in good shape.

THE sensational upward pace which has been followed by leading stocks representing the highest grade corporations, has increased to a material extent the value of the portfolio holdings of Continental Insurance, which is essentially an investment trust. This stock has not done anything particularly striking since the turn of the year, and several quarters have turned extremely bullish on its near term market prospects. The annual dividend rate of $2.40 per share is amply covered by earnings.

Although on Saturday U. S. Industrial Alcohol rallied from the low levels established earlier in the week, many traders who are following the stock are not entirely satisfied with conditions in the industry, and for this reason a sharp downward revision of early earnings estimates are being made. In fact, one market student goes so far as to state that, in his estimation, the company will do well in 1930 to earn between $1 and $2 above its common dividend requirements. The unsettlement in the trade is said to have made necessary a change in the plans of the leading companies.

SINCE the publication of its annual report, General Electric has dominated the spotlight insofar as the electrical equipment companies are concerned. However, in the past two weeks Westinghouse Electric did not participate in the important markets, and is thought to be lagging behind the other leaders. There is pronounced strength in the public utility stocks as a group, and this is taken to mean better business for such companies as Westinghouse and General Electric.

The material improvement in Worthington Pump's physical and financial condition is finding reflection in income betterment and its earnings are holding at a record pace. Orders booked so far in 1930 are approximately 30 per cent ahead of last year and present indications are that Worthington will earn in the neighborhood of $7.50 a share in the initial half of the current year. Realization of this income would mean a gain of over 35 per cent compared with the corresponding period of last year.

California Utility Deal Involves Big Sum

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—An agreement has been approved by the directors of North American Company and Pacific Gas and Electric for the acquisition by the latter of all the former company's public utility properties in the state of California. An application for authorization of the merger will be filed today with the California Railroad Commission. The deal will create a $650,000,000 corporation.

Pacific Gas and Electric Company will acquire Great Western Power Company, San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, Midland Counties Public Service Corporation and minor subsidiaries of these companies.

Month's Renewal Rate Average Low

NEW YORK, March 31.—The average renewal rate for call money in March was 3.726 per cent, the lowest since November, 1927, when the average was 3.567 per cent. The average renewal rate in February was 4.214 per cent, and in March, 1929, it was 9.516 per cent. Call money rates during March ranged from 2 to 4 per cent.

Appalachian Gas Forms Subsidiary

NEW YORK, March 31.—The Appalachian Gas Corporation has organized the Texas Gas Utilities Company as a subsidiary to construct and operate a natural gas distributing system in the southwest. The company will control certain gas rights in approximately 215,000 acres of land in Maverick, Dommit and Zavalla counties, Texas. The property is expected to add more than $7,000,000 gross assets to the Appalachian organization which recently announced the consolidation of several large companies in the eastern field.

JANE MOORE, 11, daughter of R. J. Moore, the chief clerk of Common Pleas Court, and Elsie Harrington, 10, were in Washington the other day with the Rosslyn Farms Girl Scouts. They visited Mrs. Hoover and presented to her a quilt. A gracious host, Mrs. Hoover conducted them through the White House.

As they were leaving, Jane whispered to Elsie, "I wonder why Mrs. Hoover didn't show us the upstairs."

"Oh," Elsie suggested, "guess the beds weren't made up."

We have a recipe for prosperity that is astoundingly simple and yet bombproof, although we are not quite certain what a bombproof recipe is. Our scheme simply is to do things on a bigger scale. Let the National Tube Company make bigger tubes. Let Heinz turn out 157, not 57, varieties. Double the price of everything, and in a short time we will all have more money than we can spend.

LAST Wednesday we wrote a piece chastising the Pennsylvania Railroad for allowing its clock to become so unclean that we couldn't tell time by it, and Friday we wrote a second piece chastising the railroad a little bit more. But when we wrote the second piece we didn't know the clock had already been bathed. We looked out of our window after the bath and still couldn't tell the time, so we rushed to our trenchant typewriter, presuming that this powerful corporation had ignored the demand of the peepul.

We have a communication from Mr. Bertrand Sisson, the railroad's editor, in which he concedes that the clock might do with radium hands or bigger numerals. Mr. Sisson reports that no sooner had our first demand been made than a squad of professional clock bathers swept into action.

That encourages us. It is no mean feat to write something that arouses a squad of professional clock bathers to action. If you personally minimize this accomplishment, ask yourself if you have ever written anything which aroused a squad of professional clock bathers. The clock was washed at 7 a. m. Thursday, which is why we were not a witness of the ceremony. How, in these days, is one to tell when it's 7 a. m.?

Despite our victory (the victory is really the peepul's) we feel slightly foolish. Here we were on Friday crusading for an improvement which had been effected on Thursday. Does the powerful Pennsylvania Railroad believe that it can defeat our aim by placing us on the pedestal of ridicule? Is this Russia, or Denmark, or pretty little Norway? It is true we asked that question the other day, but nobody answered.

* * *

WITH our victory over the Pennsylvania Railroad we now list the accomplishments we have effected in Sidewalks:

(1)—Forced the Pennsylvania Railroad to bathe its clock.

Mifflin Policeman Joins State Force

Patrolman Arthur A. Ragon, a member of the Mifflin Township police for the past six months, resigned last night, and left for Harrisburg, where he will enter the state service as a state trooper.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 31.

I SEE by the newsprints that Secretary Cotton says that Mr. Hoover says, "We are with the American delegation," and he is right, too. From the looks of things we are coming nearer being with them every day. I look for 'em on any boat now. If they can just get out of there before war is declared they will be fortunate. We can charge the whole thing off as a business loss, but a social success. It will go down in history as a dressmakers triumphal conference.

Yours,
WILL.

DORMONT PUPILS BARRED FROM FETE

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Secret Service Man Follows Puzzled Gangsters

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XXIII.

IT WAS by some acquaintance made on a visit to the market that Q was presented with a pig. Wilkins, the houseman at the Presidential mansion, well remembers him. He was brought to the White House on the hoof, and tethered in the garden. Soon he had eaten a bare circle completely around the stake, and the problem of victualling him without spoiling the garden, had to be solved by Q and an interested pantryman, by carrying out real food to him.

He greedily consumed all that was tendered him, and, always, grunted for more, until Q almost exhausted himself, going back and forth, between pig and pantry.

Finally, as a gesture of conciliation, Q untied him and took him through the basement, into the elevator, and up to the great second-story hall there to be shown off. Members of the family were not present, however, and Q and the pig rooted about the hall, hopefully waiting, for an audience that never came.

This pig is not to be confused with another that Q sold—at the substantial profit of 25 cents—to Schmid, the animal man. Everything that could be desired was to be found in Schmid's store: guinea-pigs, parrots, goldfish, canaries, rabbits, monkeys, lizards, little Florida alligators and puppies of all breeds and degrees of appeal. One of the monkeys was always chattering at us, and we at the monkey. Next to the Center Market, and far more pronouncedly than the Zoo, the fragrance of the place was more delightful than any rendezvous within our knowledge. Nor were they mere animal odors that we apprehended. With them were blended the imagined aromas of savage camp-fires under the stars, of rawhide, of saddlery, of pipe-clayed pith-helmets, blistering in tropic heat, of the bilge of tramp steamers, that call from far-away ports, hidden among the mangroves, of the perilous jungles.

Roaming Spirit
Aggravated by Visits to Pet Shop

Wanderlust had now attacked the Gang and every visit to Schmid's served greatly to aggravate it. Only in part could it be appeased in Washington, but that part we brought, to its fullest extent, within the cruising radius of our bicycles. As members of the Gang now look upon a map of Washington, this roaming carried them east, as far as the Library of Congress, north, up the hill to Columbia road, west, to Pennsylvania avenue bridge over Rock Creek, south, to the Washington Monument. But we rarely followed a straight course, and so covered many additional miles of rectangular street intersections, upon which I was supposed to be a standing authority, my father having been surveyor of the District of Columbia.

In this latter fact lay one of the subtle considerations of which boys are capable, appreciated then, and in a large measure now. While the Gang spared few feelings, minced no words, rode roughshod over every conceivable sentiment, yet, when it came to the mention of my father, they spoke with the most consummate tact.

Bicycle Rides
Boys Able to Dodge Other Traffic

He had but recently died, and although I said nothing to emphasize the fact—it was too poignant to mention—my comrades did not forget. They felt, perhaps, that they were fortunate in having their own fathers still with them, and that if they reminded me of my loss, it must be in some manner, complimentary to my father. . . . So they assumed my superior knowledge of the topographical dimensions of Washington. Once a Gang member happened to speak lightly, almost laughingly, of someone who had recently died. "You fool!" Quentin said, in a fierce undertone. I distinctly heard, and bumped him off his bicycle. I was so affected that I promptly wept; then, feeling ashamed, I fell from my own bicycle, holding my knee, to explain the tears. With fine consideration the Gang refused to notice them, but laughed at my fall.

By this time, the Gang could take care of itself; yet the corporate Gang was, really, Q's best protection and, at last resource, he was ours. Washington streets were much safer then; a boy, on a bicycle, had no difficulty in outspeeding and dodging carriage and wagon traffic, and motor cars were, as yet, regarded as things to which all concerned gave a wide berth. We did, however, have the disquieting impression of being followed by a man on a bicycle and, one day, Q hailed us to discuss the matter in the shadow of the tower of the Church of the Covenant at the corner of Eighteenth and N streets.

Mystery Man
Proves to Be Secret Service Man

This particular spot held a peculiar charm for us, because the great, four-square tower had crashed down, in the middle of the night some years before. The church was being built at the time, and although the collapsed tower filled Eighteenth and N streets with great blocks of greenish stone, and fragments had fallen across the car tracks, on Connecticut avenue, not a single person had been injured. Quentin said, that seeing the tower had collapsed once, it might do so again, and that in the event of such occurring it might be an advantage to be right on the spot. Half-facetiously, yet with a certain measure of apprehension, it was our custom always to assign a Gang member to watch the tower. But now, we were watching for the man on the bicycle.

"I think," said Q, "that I just caught sight of him at the corner of M street, hiding behind the bushes, on the other side of the triangle. Don't look back, anybody! In just about a minute, we'll all ride out into the middle of the street and circle around for a while, as if we were getting ready to go somewhere, but hadn't exactly decided. That'll give him a good chance to see us and get ready to follow. Then we'll beat it up Eighteenth, just as fast as we can, as if we were going to school—all except Dick. Dick'll turn into that little alley on the

BOARD FAILS TO DISMISS SCHOOLS

Borough Holds Birthday Celebration With Festival; Pageant Queen Crowned

Dormont, celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of its incorporation today, held its jubilee without the official participation of the thousands of children in the borough's public schools.

Classes were held as usual and the pupils were kept in school during the parade and other festivities, it being declared that the school board declined to excuse pupils to march in the procession.

QUEEN IS CROWNED

Following an automobile parade, the queen of the celebration was crowned with elaborate ceremony in the Harris South Hills Theater at 12:30 p. m. Miss Kathleen Homer, selected queen, was presented with the pageant crown by little June Fairman, 4, who acted as princess. Helen Marsh was maid of honor and Betty Kunde and Mary Louise Dix were the ladies of the court of honor.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Burgess Chamberlin was to present Miss Homer with the key of Dormont in appreciation of services rendered by her in making the event a success.

CUT BIRTHDAY CAKE

At the same time a huge birthday cake, containing 21 candles and standing four feet high, was to be cut and portions distributed to prominent residents. Baked and donated by Mrs. Minnie Henze, of 2245 West Liberty avenue, this example of the baker's art occupied a prominent place in the procession and later was placed on exhibition at the theater.

Under the auspices of the South Hills Council of Republican Women, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and a number of other fraternal and civic organizations, the celebration has been planned for the past several weeks. It is the most pretentious ever attempted in the South Hills sector, according to committee spokesmen. The grand ball will start at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

TRUCK SAFETY CONTEST ENDS

The interfleet commercial drivers' safety contest, sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee and the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, comes to an end today, according to Fred C. Schatz, contest committee chairman. A total of 73 fleets, including 3,563 vehicles, have been taking part in the contest. The fleets and drivers who will be given awards and the nature of the prizes is to be announced within a few days.

Another interfleet safety contest will be started immediately with plans slightly revised to take into consideration betterments of records over those made in the contest just closed. The new contest will continue for a period similar to that of the last six months.

Mothers At Carrick To Hold Election

The Mothers' Club of Carrick will hold its annual meeting and election in the clubhouse, Spokane avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Reports of various committees will be received. A contest on the year book and by-laws also will be a feature.

HILL TOP BOMB MYSTERY

Police today were unable to determine why the home of Posario Magrino, at 556 Wyola street, Mt. Washington, was bombed yesterday while Magrino, his wife and four children slept.

The bomb, probably placed under a basement window, ripped out the rear of the two-story frame house and caused damage estimated at $1,000.

The Magrino family, roused from sleep, rushed from the house. No flames followed the blast.

Magrino said he had not been threatened, police reported.

Emerson Telephone Exchange to Open

The new Emerson exchange, located in the Montrose central office building of the Bell Telephone Company, North Highland avenue, was to be placed in operation today, according to William Bradford, division manager. It was established at a cost of $350,000, and was made necessary by the increase of subscribers in the Montrose and Highland central offices.

Special United States Deputy Walter C. Edge, of Philadelphia, will address the members of Pennsylvania Association No. 18, National Association of Power Engineers, Thursday evening, April 3, in the Tudor room of the Fort Pitt Hotel. Safe and Sane Fools' Day Outlaws Trick Candy

Chocolate coated onions, red pepper bonbons, chewing gum powdered with quinine and other varieties of "fool candies" have been ruled off the shelves of stores throughout the country, Federal health authorities say it is a pardox that the rule goes into effect on All Fools' Day, tomorrow.

Trick candies were given a black eye in Pennsylvania several years ago when Dr. F. W. Kellogg, a director of the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, placed a ban on their sale.

Action by the Federal division having jurisdiction over the sale of foods and drugs was taken only recently, and in the meantime the country is said to have been flooded with the stuff, imported from Germany.

Under the federal ruling the importation and sale of trick candies are regarded as a violation of the pure food act and injurious to health. Frank Wallard, a director of this district, with headquarters in Buffalo, N. Y., has issued an edict that the law will be rigorously enforced.

Boy Gets Clothes, Job, But Haunts Empty Houses

Rather than work, Arthur Smith, 16, "no home," preferred to sleep in vacant houses, Inspector James N. Hoey testified in Morals Court where the boy was arraigned yesterday.

Only a few weeks ago the police bought the boy a suit, then got him a job and a room, when they found him sleeping in an unoccupied house in Oakland after learning his father was dead and his mother was in a hospital.

The boy was held for the welfare department after Hoey testified that he quit his job and went back to sleeping in vacant dwellings.

Parachute Leap 200 Feet From Earth Saves Flier

An air-mail plane was spinning downward to certain destruction from an altitude of 2,000 feet.

Pilot Harry Sievers, facing death, tried to step away from the ship to parachute to the earth, but the plane's twisting motions held him prisoner.

Two hundred feet above the ground Sievers managed to jump. His parachute unfolded and he sailed to earth. He was unconscious when his feet touched the ground. The plane crashed to ruins.

That was to be Sievers' last ride as an air mail pilot. He had resigned his job with Clifford Ball's Cleveland-Pittsburgh air mail route.

This happened yesterday between Warren and Parkman, O. The plane crashed on a farm. Sievers escaped with bruises and the mail was saved from the plane's ruins.

Once before Sievers qualified for the Caterpillar Club of fliers who have saved their lives by parachuting. Last October, over Beaver Falls, he jumped when his motor developed trouble. A few weeks ago, lost in a snowstorm over Cleveland, he managed to land in Edgewater Park.

The plane, fairly new, had cost Ball, whose line operates from Bettis Field, $13,000.

Sievers had resigned his job to join the aviation division of Standard Oil Company.

S. C. Felix, of 154 Orchard street, Fair Oaks, and Steven J. Drew, of 412 East avenue, Sharpsburg, will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace Vincent Lewis, of Ambridge, as a result of an automobile collision in front of 246 Merchant street, Ambridge, in which a child was seriously hurt last night.

Felix, according to Ambridge police, tried to avoid striking Joseph Visokul, but the machine hit Robert Scatchs, 5, of Ridge road, Ambridge Heights, who was with him. The boy sustained a fracture of the leg and concussion of the brain, police said.

The car driven by Felix then swerved into that of Drew, police said. Both motorists were arrested on charges of reckless driving.

RED HEN LAYS GIANT EGGS

Walter Valetta took the three seven-ounce eggs laid by his Rhode Island Red hen to Carnegie and started a flood of animated discussion.

Such eggs never had been seen by citizens of Carnegie. Some even went so far as to say that the eggs were the largest in the nation. But all that means little to Valetta. Every chicken on his place in Washington Pike received the same treatment.

Why the red hen produces such marvels remain a mystery. Valetta's discription of the bird goes something like this:

"I bought her from a man in Carnegie about a week after she was hatched. When she began to lay eggs I noticed that the majority of them were double yoked, but that was not so unusual. Then in February she laid one weighing seven ounces and measuring 9¾ inches round from end to end and 8 inches around the center. On March 20 she laid another egg that almost touched the seven-ounce mark. Last week she repeated the performance. The average egg is two ounces."

The hen's deportment is not unlike that of her sisters except for the fact that she spends a little more time on the nest than do the others. She is fat, slow moving, has a single comb and age—one year.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Is a married couple consistent who contends that modern conditions are such that they cannot afford children, but who, at the same time, own an automobile?

MRS. LOUISE McQUAID, McKeesport: "Children should be more desired than an automobile. I know I think more of my two children than any automobile on the market. Even if a couple has two or three children there is nothing preventing them from buying a car. A couple could have both if they were economical enough."

Mrs. McQuaid

ALFRED KLINE, East End, printer: "I'm not so sure that such a couple is inconsistent. Everybody knows that children are an expensive proposition, especially today when hospitals charge such high rates to bring a baby into the world. An automobile is cheaper for the reason that it does not demand the attention a child does."

Alfred Kline

SAMUEL PRICE, Washington place, accountant: "If married people can afford to operate an automobile they surely can afford to raise a couple of children. If you consider the price of an average car and then consider the sum required to store, operate and maintain it, I believe you would find it as expensive as a child."

Samuel Price

MRS. MYRTLE ISER, Greenfield: "Any couple that says that they cannot afford children, but can afford an automobile, are very inconsistent. To my mind there is no married couple that cannot afford to have children. It is their duty to society and themselves to have children. I'm sorry I haven't a dozen instead of only one."

Mrs. Iser

JOHN NUTTRIDGE, North Side, heating inspector: "I have two children and an automobile. If I could not afford both the automobile would go. The comfort of my children would not be sacrificed for my pleasure. Children are a necessity while automobiles are not. Any married couple can afford children and should have them."

John Nuttridge

BERTHA NAVAGE, Mt. Washington: "Even though I'm not married I believe I can say that such a couple is inconsistent. A normal baby is no great expense. Of course, if the child is sick all the time it requires quite a bit of money. An automobile always requires something new. When I'm married I know I'll be able to afford a baby.

INDUSTRIAL USE SEEN FOR NEW MATERIAL

Holds Valuable Properties Lacking in Old Product; Manufacture Described

Mellon Institute announced another miracle of science today—the making of glass from natural gas. The material has been given the name "vinylite."

Dr. W. A. Hamor, assistant director, showed various samples of the product—a large cylindrical mass looking like a cake of ice, a sheet of it, and beautifully-tinted ornamental boxes molded out of the material.

Though it looks like glass and has valuable properties that ordinary glass lacks—for instance, it is not fragile, and does not stop the ultra-violet rays of the sun—vinylite, it was said, is hardly likely to be used in windows because it does not weather well.

USEFUL AS COATING

One of its chief uses will be as a plate or coating for metal and other materials. Dr. Hamor remarked that metal containers were not to be recommended for sour kraut because the acetic acid in the kraut would corrode the metal. But if the container is coated with vinylite it may be used for kraut, the vinylite not being affected by acetic acid.

Vinylite is produced in this way: Ethane, a gaseous constituent of natural gas, is extracted by a process devised by Mellon Institute, passed through a red-hot tube, and thereby transformed into a gas called ethylene. The ethlyne is treated with sulphuric acid and transformed into an ester which, mixed with water, gives vinyl alcohol, along with other products. The vinyl alcohol is treated with hydrochloric or acetic acid and is then easily converted into a vinyl resin.

FIND BIG MARKETS

"Thus," said Dr. Hamor, in detailing the process, "an organic glass, a solid substance of unique properties and commercial promise, is made from natural gas."

Dr. Hamor added that 20 other substances have been derived from natural gas and are finding big markets in the industries.

The process by which vinylite is produced was developed by Ernest W. Reid, R. B. Frazier and coworkers in a multiple industrial fellowship on organic synthesis at Mellon Institute.

SUSPECT HELD IN DEATH

George E. Sills, 29, of 231 Meredith street, was being held today by homicide detectives for questioning in connection with their investigation of the death of Edward Hunter, 53, of 616 Jackson street, in Allegheny General Hospital Saturday.

Hunter was said to have been beaten and robbed in his home by a stranger whom he had befriended Tuesday when the man told him he was without funds. Detectives reported the victim was robbed, but not beaten. From other occupants of the house, the detectives said they learned the victim was ill and had refused aid. He was taken to the hospital Friday and died from pneumonia.

The suspect, aged 29, from Carrick, is a former workhouse inmate, according to detectives.

Matrons Here Consider Needlepoint Guild

By PENELOPE REDD

There is a needlepoint guild in the making under the stimulating influence of Miss Betty Tebbetts, of Sheridan avenue, who has transcribed the Tudor roses and honey-suckles of Queen Elizabeth's petticoat to the most exclusive fireside hassocks in Pittsburgh.

Penelope Redd

Needlepoint is a luxury that is enjoying an active revival upon the part of Pittsburgh matrons, young and old, and not a few maidens for that matter.

The mother superior, so to speak, of the embroyo needlepoint guild, is a woman who has studied at the Royal School of Needlework in London. Consequently, her influence in Pittsburgh has resulted in the emulation of English designs.

Indeed, in needlepoint the pattern has been almost always a variation of old forms, altered and renewed by the changes in the period adapting them.

Miss Betty Tebbetts has sympathetically redesigned needlepoint patterns from their original Elizabethan sources on gowns, sweete bagges, psalm bags, surcoats, and hangings, to fit modern decorative needs.

Despite this change to modern needs, the "tent" stitch used to paint the color on canvas with the needle and polychromatic wool, is the same old half-cross or "cushion" stitch which was used by Mary Queen of Scots whiling away long hours of captivity.

Needlepoint is a direct challenge to modernist design, inasmuch as it has employed from Tudor days onwards, a naturalistic rendering of form, with flower motifs dominating. Needlepoint has been, is now, and will ever be a gentlewoman's personal and patient art. It seems to be directly associated with the present day's passion for gardens.

Pittsburgh's most distinguished woman painter is a skilled worker in needlepoint. She does "cushion" work from her own original garden and landscape designs.

Another prominent woman has made needlepoint chair covers for a set of Georgian chairs which was brought to Pittsburgh by her ancestor who was a friend of Washington's.

The majority of the women devoted to needlepoint demand individual designs. Therefore, the first exhibition of the needlepoint guild, which will be presented at the Misses Tebetts studio in November under the auspices of prominent needlepoint devotees, will be a stimulating occasion for this ancient and honorable art.

DAVIS PLEADS FOR OLD-TIME RELIGION

Labor Secretary Speaks At Welsh Night Service At Church in Oakland

Speaking on "The Conquest of Science and Religion," Secretary James J. Davis, of the Department of Labor, last night declared that "the hymn, 'Rock of Ages,' to me gains new meaning every day."

He was the principal speaker at the annual observance of Welsh night in the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Ellsworth avenue and Neville street, attended by Welsh residents from points in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

"This hymn seems to embody the whole spirit of the genuine, simple, old-fashioned religion that has lived in the hearts of men for 2,000 years," he said. "If that old religion is not the Rock of Ages to the human soul, then I am much mistaken. This is a day of doubting and cynicism. The immense amount of scientific knowledge we have amassed flatters us into the belief that we have mastered every secret of life. Yet there is one secret that defies every scientific analysis. That is the aspirations of the human soul. No scientist has yet penetrated into the real essence of human existence. Only religion can answer that eternal question. And if humanity is to be saved from despair, it must be brought back to a sense of its desperate reliance in God."

Special music was furnished by the Welsh chorus of 400 voices and the church choir of 60 voices, under direction of Herbert C. Peabody.

That is what a great many people are wondering among those who visit the dressmaking salons of Yvonne May, where the temperamental French girl is now making another kind of racket.

She refuses to throw out even a hint about the giver and since young Baldwin seems to be nowhere about for the moment, he can't be asked. Suzanne will talk all she can about her new work, about which she is very enthusiastic, but not one word about that brilliant.

She is personally responsible for each model of the sports department and appears to be an expert in the new field which she has chosen.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENING

Pittsburgher Engaged To Wed

WITH the sun shining again, everyone is assuming a lighter mood, and events suddenly present themselves, and there's social news of all sorts, engagements, weddings, proms and the ubiquitous travel gossip.

First of all, I have an engagement that I know Pittsburgh folks will be interested in, for the bride-to-be will come to live in Pittsburgh.

From Glen Ridge, N. J., comes news of the engagement of Irene C. Stevens, daughter of the Ralph C. Stevenses of Douglas road to Dr. Lyle M. Nelson, Jr., son of the L. M. Nelsons of Missouri. Dr. Nelson, who was graduated from the University of Missouri and Jefferson Medical College, now lives in Pittsburgh on Forbes street.

His fiancee attended Rosemary Hall and the Finch School.

I might add that no date has been set for the wedding.

ANOTHER prom has come and gone. The one just past is the annual Princeton junior promenade, which made this weekend a memorable one for the younger set.

Junior Prom

Two orchestras played for it Friday night and played until 5 o'clock Saturday morning in the university gymnasium. Teas and informal dances marked Saturday afternoon and on Saturday night came the echo dance.

Nancy Allerdice, daughter of the Taylor Allerdices, was one of the guests of honor, and Lollie Evans, daughter of the Howard Salisbury Evanses, was too.

Other Pittsburgh girls at the ball were Alice Beatty, Catherine Grubbs and Alice McDonough.

ANOTHER event of the weekend was the marriage of Janice Townsend Jefferson, daughter of the Floyd Wellman Jeffersons of Short Hills, N. J., and John Stoddard, of New York, which took place Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Christ Church, Short Hills, N. J., with the Rev. Allan Evans, of Christ Church, Cedarhurst, L. I., a cousin of the bride, officiating. There was a reception in the Short Hills Country Club after the wedding.

Wedding In East

Ellen McClay, daughter of the Samuel McClays, was one of the bride's attendants. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white satin made with quaint short, puffed sleeves, now in vogue, and a long full skirt with a train. Her veil of tulle was held by a cap of rose point lace, and her flowers were lilies of the valley.

* * *

MRS. CARROLL PARKER, of Covington, W. Va., the matron of honor, and Adele Entz, of New York, the maid of honor, wore peach tulle with tight-fitting bodices and long full skirts. Ellen McClay and Lucia Higgins, of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. George Starke, of Scarsdale, and Eleanor McEwen, of Tarrytown, all of whom were bridesmaids, wore similar gowns of sea green tulle, fashioned like those of the matron and maid of honor. And all the bride's attendants wore small tulle hats matching their gowns and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

Lovely Gowns

Julian Mason, of New York and Washington, was best man, and Floyd W. Jefferson, Jr., brother of the bride. Lefferts Suydam Hoffman, of New York; B. W. Dudley, Jr., of Short Hills; Charles Platt, of Philadelphia; Richard Holden, of Bennington, Vt., and William Hallows, of Jacksonville, Fla., were ushers.

On their return from a motor trip through the South the Stoddards will live in Short Hills.

Paris Says "Capes"

Pattern 1907

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

The newest and most delightful fashion this Spring is the cape ensemble. The model shown today consists of a sleeveless and collarless frock with surplice bodice and gracefully flared skirt. A narrow band fitting the cape neatly about the neck, continues to form a tie that holds the cape in place. Small buttons add a smart touch on the bodice.

Design 1907 is perfectly ravishing made of printed silk crepe or pique. Dark grounds strewn with colorful flowers of opaline pink, yellow, orange or green, are favorites among smart women.

Designed only for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 requires 3¼ yards of 40-inch material.

Wilkinsburg B.P.W. Gives Dinner

MORE than 150 were in attendance at the friendship dinner given Saturday night in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel by the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club, guests including members of the Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Kittanning, Latrobe, Punxsutawney, New Castle and Grove City Business and Professional Clubs, and the Wilkinsburg Civic Club, the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club, the Congress of Clubs and the Quota Club.

Mrs. Janet M. Snyder, president of the hostess club, welcomed the guests and introduced the visitors, one of whom was the state president, Dr. Mildred Rogers, of New Castle, who spoke concerning the symbolism of the B. P. W. emblem, and the objectives of the national federation in education, health, vocation and ligislation together with the hope of having a club in every county in Pennsylvania by 1931 and the establishment of national headquarters in Washington within 10 years. Assistance for the younger business woman in health, education, thrift and spiritual stability is another activity of the organization, Dr. Rogers stated.

Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, former state president and honorary president of the Pittsburgh Club, and Miss Nellie Lysle, former West Virginia president, were also introduced by Mrs. Snyder.

MISS ELLA KING VOGEL, of the Pittsburgh Club, made an original and witty introductory speech for the special guest of the evening, Miss Lutie Stearns, of Milwaukee. Miss Stearns in speaking of the Milwaukee club of 300 members said they were "trying to make Milwaukee famous for something else." In her characteristic serio-humorous talk, Miss Stearns discussed the many problems, world and national, in which all women should interest themselves—politics (which she said are only Christ's principles translated into the law of the land), law enforcement, equal pay for equal work equally well performed, international relations, world peace and continuance of the home. The way women have "inherited" their politics and the way they go to the polls and think they have performed their whole duty of citizenship is humiliating, the speaker declared, observing that many women don't know the difference between a plank in a political platform and a plank of a white fish. On the equal pay question, Miss Stearns said, "There is no sex in intellect nor work and the sooner men are made to realize this the sooner will come justice to women."

Visitor Speaks

To secure peace, prepare for peace, she urged, in discussing internationalism and voicing her regret that the United States is not in the World Court. "The private home is the public hope," Miss Stearns went on. "Her desire for independence had taken the woman out of the old-fashioned home. She is living from can to mouth and in such cramped quarters that she hasn't even room for doubt."

Music for the evening was furnished by Miss Ruth Seaman, contralto, accompanied by Miss Anna P. Myers.

A NUMBER of attractive sounding affairs are promised members of the Woman's City Club for April. The first will be the "club evening" tomorrow for which the speaker will be P. J. Sunday Music

The musicale next Sunday afternoon will be given by Joseph Esposito, pianist, and Miss Helen Marquis, vocalist, with Mrs. Frank Martin Fisher as accompanist. On Saturday, April 19, the library committee will sponsor a luncheon that will be marked by some unusual features. There will be discussion of "Some Old Love Letters" and "Has Human Nature Changed?" illustrated with famous old love letters and old songs. A newly formed "troupe" of club members will be in charge.

The evening social committee is making its contribution to the month's gaiety by having a Japanese bridge party on April 24, which will be the last social event of the current year.

Paris Pays Tribute To Herrick Memory

PARIS, March 31.—(AP.)—The first memorial service for Myron T. Merrick, American ambassador to France, who died at his post here a year ago today, was held this forenoon at the American procathedral. The same prayers were said and the same hymns sung which were Mr. Merrick's favorites in his lifetime—"O Paradise," and the twenty-third Psalm, just as at the services a year ago before the French government sent his body home on the cruiser Tourville.

INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING THE GLAMOROUS EVENING GOWN

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 31.—If a dress wishes to be brilliant, it may stress strass. The black dress with strategically placed bands of sparkling embroidery will be quite popular this season, that is, providing the fashion is not overdone, in which case the glamor will be gone from the glitter.

But clever touches of brilliant embroidery on a frock that has not too lustrous a surface will create a frock of quite an exhilerating effect, and should lend animation to both the wearer and the occasion she may grace. Such frocks, should be worn without much jewelry or other embellishments, otherwise there will be a tinsel effect reminiscent of a Christmas tree trimmed by several people with a flair for the flamboyant.

TO illustrate as much as possible the charm exercised by a frock that scintillates with caution, we show a sketch of a new and striking Lanvin model. It is of black taffeta in a dull weave, and the close bodice is cleverly banded in strass. The cross band which outline the decolletage disappear at the waistline beneath a standing cuff-like band of strass attached to the lower edge only. Beneath this is a peplum cut in points. The very wide, sweeping skirt trails in a rounding wide trail behind.

EVERY day brings its new version of the ensemble, and every designer is striving to create a model that is different without being too outre. Such a model is the suit sketched at the atelier of Lanvin. It is of black rather rough-surfaced woolen and it is trimmed with horizontal bands of black satin.

AN ORIGINAL touch in this tailored ensemble is to be found in the fastening of the coat. A satin band, placed flat at the base of the neck and coming from across the back, ends in a loose piece which is passed beneath the belt on the frock and buttoned onto the skirt at one side.

CHICKIE

Chickie Is Disheartened And Barry Returns

CHAPTER XLVII.

IN THE middle of the page Janina had written: "So you've turned our brave Red over to Ila, and he's flying down South to settle it quick. Congratulations, my dear protege. Glad to see you're getting sense."

Chickie saw only that. She leaned against the bridge. Fogs that were thick and pulsed swirled about her. Her head grew light and cold.

Through the trees went the flash of bright summer dresses, young girls waving their letters, beckoning to one another, laughing. They seemed remote, drifting farther and farther from her. The sun, too, was passing, and she herself sinking into these gray, thronging mists that touched with such chill fingers on her face and in her thought.

Some one passed, said "Good-morning." She heard it dimly—gave no answer. Some one bumped against her—a laugh, and three girls surrounded her. Wanda Lent, teasing: "Must be a bear of a letter! Let's see the first line.?'

She was aware of smiling vaguely, stuffing the letter in her blouse, pushing them away; then of hurrying blindly along. She sat down behind a huge wall of sand that half blocked an old wagon road.

No thought came to her—only this fainting weakness stealing the life from her heart. She sat there a long while without impulse to move: to protest. She said to herself: "I must go, can't sit here." But she didn't stir.

A corner of the heavy envelope, stuck so hastily in her blouse, pressed against her flesh. Heat like guilt rose through her. She touched the letter, drew it out furtively, smoothed it slowly on a shelf of the rock.

Accuses Herself

Janina had more to say: "Met Tufts on the street just half an hour ago. He gave me the low-down, though he didn't know it. What a shock! I thought you were gone for fair on the boy. I had visions of walking slowly before you to the altar. Instead, away goes the groom."

It didn't occur to Chickie to doubt this. She let it sweep over her in rolling, desolate waves that bore her down and in their ebbing sucked the warmth from her veins.

In her mind there grew an image of him going with hurried steps down the path, twigs snapping; and of herself, crouching against the tree, listening for the steps to return.

Farther away now—steps growing fainter—no sound at all.

"Gone—" she said this aloud, and suddenly a frightened pulsing shot through her mind. "Gone, Flying South. Gone for good."

She got to her feet and began running down the road, a blazing in her thought. Stop him—call him back! That was it. Tell him not to go.

When she came in sight of the station her sudden wild courage flickered. In a whimpering misery she began accusing herself: "You sent him. You pushed him into it. You made him go."

In a way that gripped her so that she stood motionless, as though confronted by a living presence, that last moment with him returned. He was bending down to her. He was saying: "Chickie, you love me. Oh, say it! You won't? You want me to go? Chickie, it's too late now."

Puzzled by Letter

Too late now—her thought stopped at that, seized it. That was what he said. He cared too much. He couldn't let it end. "You don't want me to go, Chickie. Oh—look up, say it. After all we've felt? After all we've told each other—"

A trembling caught her. A sudden, piercing light seemed running through her mind, touching on all these words, these moments of shivering gladness; these promises, bringing them to her alive and glowing. Bringing him near, repeating them.

Oh—as though he had forgotten! As though four days could put it from him. And he would run away now and never think again—

Slowly, as one waking from a dream of torture, she said: "It's not true. He isn't going."

Telling herself this she became lucid. She thought of Janina's letter and grew hot with shame.

What did Janina know of Barry's thoughts; of the pleading eagerness in his eyes? What do she know of all these million threads that bound the two of them together?

But she had allowed Janina to crush her; to throw bitter doubt on him. He had gone from her, but no sooner had the echoes of his steps vanished than her hopes rose mightily, insisting: "He'll come back!" Now at a mocking sentence from Janina she had accepted his faithlessness; had seen him rushing off South to gaiety and Ila Moore.

She took out the letter and read it coldly. But even in this arrogant return of confidence kept creeping a little restless fear. Why should she write this? Janina wasn't vicious. Janina rarely lied. If she had met Tufts and he had said this—

It began again, stealing over her in these sickening, remorseless waves. He was gone. She had sent him.

When she said to herself—"Gone," it was as though a hand pulled her under black, struggling waters, held her there.

She fought back as one against drowning. She struggled against these doubts. And suddenly a plan shaped itself. She turned and walked swiftly to the station.

Telephones Barry

With action, an odd strength came to her. The thing she was to do now seemed clear, inevitable. Hope whispered: "Yes! Of course! He expects this! He's wait for it."

She would ring him up; tell him quietly, "Don't go, Barry. You don't need to. Come here."

In a flame she went into the station, put in her call—waited. Now her heart knocked with hope. She held herself blank and trembling, putting down this burning suspense.

The bell jangled. She sprang to her feet, took the hook down slowly. To the girl's impatient, "Well—hello—hello," she answered, shaking, "Mr. Dunne, please?"

Her thought collapsed at the crisp rejoinder, "Gone for the day!" Only a whisper came to her throat. The silence appalled her. She managed faintly: "Wait—wait a moment."

"Yes—well—"

"Will he be in tomorrow?"

"Just a moment." Now the girl has covered the mouthpiece, but her loud, "Nell, is Dunne coming back? Has he left yet? Dame wants to know," came roughly against Chickie's ears.

The girl said, "Call again at four, will you? I'm not just sure when he is to leave."

Chickie said blankly, "You mean for the South?"

An abrupt, "Yes. Mr. Tufts will be in at four. He can tell you."

She sat down on the bench, an icy stillness in her mind—a cold, hushed faintness all about her. She sat there limp, motionless in an absence of feeling, only this clammy weight pressing her heart.

And presently Charley came fumbling into the dingy station, pulled the grating of the post-office window. "Going to lock up now, Miss Bryce. You got your call, didn't you?"

Barry Returns

She got up quietly and went up the road. She stole cautiously past the cottage, went up the trail to the hill. She sat there staring at other hills. And suddenly she wished that she might die; she had a wish to creep under the shoulder of the mountain, hide beneath its quiet, impassive strength.

She began to cry. Her tears surprised her. They grew violent. As they tore through her, shaking her pulses into life, they wakened protests in a storming wildness. She locked her hands together. She said: "No! No!" She imagined herself rushing to the city, grabbing him by the arm, demanding in a fury: "Stay! Oh, you'll not go!"

She imagined him turning to her, smiling, saying: "Oh—you want me, Chickie?"

A terrible melting came softly through her. She put out her hand as though he were there to take it. She started, feeling almost that he had touched her shoulder. Oh—she would cling to him. . . .

All afternoon this storm beat her. She came down to the cottage feeling that her life was passing from her. She heard Jennie puttering about the kitchen, moving the kettle, and everything seemed tremendously remote from her.

As she came into the room that was hers, on the table was a book he had given her. She turned from it sharply. She went into the closet and hid her face in the green dress that he loved her to wear.

He had said to her: "Ah—so beautiful she is!" Gone now—she had sent him.

It seemed to her then that she would give up her life and gladly to hear that again.

That night she sat on the porch, huddled down in her big coat. She felt that she was dying. She hoped that she was.

Cold—stars, but no moon—silence. Then an automobile honked. She listened till the sound died. She stared into the shadows. One of them moved along the path. She watched it. She got up curiously and moved to the rail of the porch. The shadow came toward her. Overcome with fear she cried out. She saw a face emerging She said: "Barry!"

He reached up and caught her in his arms.

Fay King Points Out That Grimy Hands Symbolize Hard Work

GOOD CLOTHES AND WELL KEPT HANDS ARE OFTEN NECESSARY TO A CROOKED CAREER
WHAT AT FIRST GLANCE APPEAR TO BE SOILED HANDS ARE ONLY CLEAN STAINS FROM MACHINERY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

MANY honest young men are in a line of business where they must dress well and have well kept hands.

But girls who are too easily attracted by snappy clothes and smooth hands should make sure young men are all they appear to be. These also are the marks of cunning crooks.

Some foolish girls consider a man's hands "dirty" when they are only stained from worthy work.

Oil and grease are not easily removed from the toiler's hands, and are on the most interesting hands in the world. Aviators, engineers, explorers—men who achieve great things with machinery rarely have well kept hands.

Grimy hands are often skillful and accomplished in their work. When a girl appreciates this she is proud of them.

Junior Tells Highly Colored Tale of Burglary

KATHERINE was better than her word. It was less than the 30 seconds she had named when she swung open the door of her room. On the opposite side a door was shutting, and I knew that Katie had gone through it on her way to the kitchen, cajoled by Katherine into postponing the tearful interview which I knew my little maid felt was hers by right after the trying experience which had been hers.

But my eyes and thoughts were concerned with something infinitely more important than Katie's wishes or Katherine's thoughtfulness, much as I valued the latter. Through a wide doorway at the side I could see into my boy's room adjoining Katherine's, and from his bed a small figure in pajamas came so fast into my arms that flying seemed to be the only word appropriate for the locomotion. Two sturdy arms went around my neck so tightly that I could hardly breathe, while his equally strong little legs curled round my body in so vise-like a grip that if Katherine had not put a steadying hand on my elbow I should have fallen down beneath the affectionate onslaught of my small son.

She caught up her work basket from the table as she went out of the room, and I knew that she was bound for her favorite seat, a bay window in the upper hall, from which she could look out over the view of woodland and dipping meadow and the ocean in the distance which we all love so well.

"Mother!" Junior's excited voice blended with the sound of the closing door. "Do you know what happened here last night? Pirates got in!"

"Pirates!" I ejaculated, prepared to act the role of a surprised listener to a blood-curdling tale. "Are you sure? What did they look like? Did they hurt anybody?"

But Junior was ready with a counter question.

"Did Aunt Katherine tell you about it?" he demanded, and his voice was heavy with a tragic premonition of disappointment.

"She didn't say pirates got in," I rejoined truthfully, picking my words with care. "She said there was a lot of excitement, but that you would tell me all about it. I guess she has a lot of things to see to."

"It's a good thing you weren't here, Mums. They'd have carried you off sure, you're so pretty," he uttered the tribute with such naive sincerity that I felt a little glow around my heart; then I resumed my attention to his absurd farrage.

"They almost took Aunt Katherine," he went on, "but they dropped her for some reason or other. And they were going to make Katie walk the plank if she didn't stop squealing, but she stopped just in time."

"That was — fortunate — " I said banally, as my son paused and looked steadily at me, patiently waiting for a comment.

"You bet your boots," he assented. "I guess if it hadn't been for me, she'd have had to go. I told her to shut up or they'd send her over sure, and one of the men said, 'The little gamecock's right.' That's what he called me, Mums, a gamecock. Pretty nifty, huh?"

"Indeed, yes," I agreed solemnly, wondering, as I had done many times before, how I should deal with the highly colored fictional narrative which Junior substitutes for sober fact or even brings forth with no foundation whatever.

From the time when not yet able to speak plainly, he told me a tale of a kitty that made a cake for him and then ate it up, he has told us many weird tales of imaginary happenings in his life and colored so highly the real exciting happenings that no one could recognize them. Curiously enough, he is essentially truthful in all other respects, and never once has denied any mischief for which he is responsible, even when he knows punishment would follow. For that reason, and recognizing, as we thought, a certain rapt absorption in his own yarns on the little chap's part—he patently believed every word he is uttering—we never have curbed his imagination or spoiled his stories by pretending to doubt them.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

'Antidotes for Love'

LOVE, if you believe the Young Sophisticates, is an antique emotion which has breathed its last.

Like alcohol, it has been so diluted that there is nothing left of it but the synthetic imitations. Down with Romeo and Lochinvar! Away with Eros and Adonis!

In Russia all plays treating love seriously are debarred.

Over there you are expected to take your love casually, as you do your breakfast. "Waiter, bring me butter cakes and coffee. Well, this looks like a fine day. What say, let's get married?"

But that's nothing. The poor old Slender Passion is receiving what is technically known as "a sock in the eye" from all directions. Maybe it's the Russian influence.

"The abolition of courtship" and the cultivation of art, painting and music as an "antidote for love" were strongly urged in a recent questionnaire among the students of a well-known Eastern college, A MEN'S college, of course.

No doubt it would be a great relief to the average man to dispense with all the red-tape of courtship and wooing. Love-making has always been somewhere in the class with hat-tipping and finger bowls, in the opinion of some men. Just a foolish little formality.

But, granted that love can be abolished—which it CAN'T—and that art, painting and music can take its place, what will they SING about? And what will they PAINT? And what will they WRITE about?

Will the Rudy Vallee of this loveless millennium warble ditties to the dynamos and croon tenderly of riveters and stock-market quotations?

Will their artists desist from depicting Venuses and cupids and lovely ladies, and confine themselves to lining thrilling portraits of coal barges and ash-heaps and cheese sandwiches and skyscrapers?

And their poets! Will they pen sonnets to vacuum cleaners and sport cars and patent lawn-mowers, instead of to Myrtilla and Chloe?

Oh listen to the clatter and the clank, clank, clank
"Of the riveters pounding on our new water tank!"
Or—
"Sweet is the call of the wild whippoorwill—
"But sweeter far the rustle of a new dollar bill!"

Love has been the inspiration of all the sweet singers and of most of the poets and painters ever since the dawn of civilization! No great opera singer has ever sung his best until he has LOVED.

Great poets have nearly always been, first, great lovers—Keats, Byron, Browning, Whitman. Synthetic love may deaden the soul. But real love runs true to the compass and inspires the lover to follow his highest aspirations and the star of the genius.

There is no "antidote for love." And a world without love would soon be a world without genius, art or beauty!

The White House Gang

right, before you get to Massachusetts avenue—where the riding-stable is—and turn in fast. The rest of us'll just keep on going ——"

Q gave Dick the most explicit directions as to the rest of the plan and it worked famously. The mysterious rider passed the mouth of the alley, following Q and the Gang. Dick popped out and rode after him across Massachusetts avenue, and most courageously — it was not an easy thing for a boy to dare to do with a man—ran into him from the rear, and engaged him in argument, at the corner of P and Eighteenth streets.

Meanwhile the Gang had halted two blocks away, and was riding in and out of a side-street, so as to just remain in view of the man, and leading him to think Q was just around the corner.

But Quentin, riding frantically, circled four or five blocks, and came up behind Dick and the stranger.

"Just as I thought!" said Q eyeing the mystery-man with flushed recognition. "Why have you been hanging around?"

The man laughed. "I'm sorry, Quentin," he said, "but I'm under orders. I thought you wouldn't mind it, if I kept more or less out of sight."

Intruder Nabbed

"Well, that was nice of you," returned Q, "but the more the better. I don't like it at all! I know it's not my father's orders, and, certainly, not my mother's."

"You're right," the Secret Service man admitted, "neither of them ordered it——"

"By buzzard!" Q said, out of patience. "You fellahs think you can boss my father and my mother; but you can't boss me. I don't need any of your attention—not with this bunch trailing along!"

Officially, somebody saw Q's point and, so far as we were aware, never again was Quentin chaperoned, when out in Gang formation. But we knew little of the watchful care with which our movements—especially about the White House grounds—were followed. We knew there were electrical push-buttons in various strategic places, and signal devices, by which the guard was informed where to concentrate; but the most assiduous searching and persistent questioning failed to reveal to us one single piece of evidence, of the character of the mechanism, by which this invisible guardianship was controlled. It was, and is, a remarkably efficient, well considered system.

It worked well for us, just once, and that was when we had been chasing Q through the far limits of the south garden. Suddenly a man, whom we had been aware had watched us for some minutes, started to climb over the picket fence. We stopped short, and Q shouted, "Don't do that! Keep out of here!"

The man hesitated, and in an instant a figure darted out from beneath the south portico, calling to us, "Back this way, boys; let me attend to this. . ." and feet were heard pounding the pavement outside the fence. Two plainclothesmen, one from the east, one from the west, were racing around the curve of the walk, in the direction of the man. He saw the guard in the grounds and decided not to climb the fence. Then he saw the other officers and a despairing glance in the direction of the monument showed him half-a-dozen people crossing the intervening space, who certainly would intercept him, on shouted orders. He was collared, none too gently, and forcibly walked off towards the east entrance.

"Don't hurt him," Quentin pleaded. "Please! He couldn't have meant the slightest harm, at all—"

"No, we won't," answered one of the plainclothesmen. "He's probably just a crank. Don't worry, Quentin—"

We felt assured that the prisoner was treated as being harmless; but we never played so near the fence again.

"We don't want to serve as crank-bait," Q said.

This was expressed curiously, perhaps, yet it represented Q's recognition of our responsibility not to attract cranks to the White House or to TR and Mrs. Roosevelt. It was an almost imperceptible adjustment of his behavior to the commonly-accepted standards of protecting people in high position. The garden, now known by us to be properly guarded, enhanced greatly in beauty. We took ample time to go definitely about it, to observe and admire the pink dogwood in bloom, the buckeyes, the lilacs, and to remark upon the way the sun dazzled against the columns of the portico.

As a relief from all this—too much physical beauty overcame us—Quentin suggested the cellar and the domain of Eddie Norris. Hurrying there one day we encountered a number of unknowns in the oval room now used for diplomatic entrance, waiting—as an usher explained to us in a whisper—to be photographed along with the President.

Disapprove Visitors

"Stuffy business!" remarked Q, in a distinctly audible voice, greatly annoyed that this apartment should be filled with visitors. "The room should be closed," said Q, "and a chain put across the door, with a sign marked 'Private.' Because it's our Christmas Tree room and should never be used for anything else."

The usher agreed. Meanwhile, our way was blocked by the curious, who were observing us more closely than we cared for. So we filed out of the west entrance of the hall, and proceeded indecisively towards the Executive Offices and met TR on his way to the south portico to honor his engagement in the matter of the photograph.

"Where away, now?" TR asked the Gang, collectively.

"We don't know," Q admitted. "The whole darn place is full of people, who have no business there at all."

TR flashed his famous smile. "Oh yes they have," he corrected. "Every American citizen—about 76 millions of him—has a right here. You must remember that this isn't our house, at all, as is Sagamore Hill. All we really have here, is the second floor. We are fortunate, however, that all the people who have the right, don't choose to come to visit us at one time! Remember that figure—76. Remember it by remembering the date of the beginning, 1776 which, of course, nobody can ever forget. Fourteen or 15 years after that date, there were only about four millians in our country; think of that, too!"

"Golly!" said Q, genuinely astonished "We bred just as fast as guinea-pigs, didn't we!"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Gentleman's Letter Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly inform me as to the correct stationery—that is, the size and color—for a man? ROBERT.

MEN use for their social correspondence either a large double sheet which folds once into a square or oblong envelope, or a single sheet which folds twice into an oblong envelope. The paper should be of a generous size, larger than the sheet used by women. The double sheet is often nine or ten inches long and wide in proportion. The single sheet is 10 or 11 inches long and about seven wide.

Accepting Gifts of Jewelry

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Last Christmas a young girl I know gave the young man she has been going with some handkerchiefs, and in return he gave her a wrist watch. She has been wearing it since, as she was told by many people it was all right to wear it. She is not engaged as yet. She has since met a new young man whom she would like to go with. Is it necessary to return the wrist watch?

EVA.

HERE we have the same old difficulty about a girl's accepting this kind of gift from a man to whom she is not engaged. It almost invariably leads to some such embarrassment, especially if the girl has a nature that is sensitive to a delicate point of view. The wrist watch should, of course, never have been accepted—and then there would been no involvement now. However, having accepted the watch, the girl would now have to give some very definite reason for its return. If she wishes to terminate the friendship and wishes to make this the reason for the return of the watch, I suppose that this would be the most plausible thing for her to do now. But in no event that I can see will the return of the watch be as easy and simple and direct as if she had returned it when she should have.

Tracing Delivery of Flowers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My aunt died in another city, and, although I was unable to go to the funeral, I wired flowers to be sent. In my letter that follows, should I mention that I had sent flowers, to be sure that they received them? READER.

NO. I think that this would seem rather awkward, and I advise you not to do it. The chances are that the flowers arrived, and if you have any fears that they didn't, look them up through the florist through whom you wired them.

Household Hints

Jelly is improved if, in place of water, it is made with juice left over from either dried or fresh fruit.

To avoid the ugly "ring" which gasoline leaves when used to clean a delicate material, add a little salt when cleaning.

Wash and clean the celery. Cut the tender stalks in three or four-inch lengths. With a sharp knife cut the tone down about an inch or a bit more, then let stand in ice water to which you have added a few drops of lemon juice to whiten. In a little while the tops will curl.

In the lasting beauty of a bouquet there is a little secret. Flowers are quite human and cannot live in stale, discolored water, but if a small lump of common soda is added to the water when the blossoms are being arranged, they will stay fresh much longer. In spite of the fact that it is popularly supposed flowers like cold water, it has been found that they will hold their colorful heads up much longer if the stems are placed in tepid water.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

If Your Heart Misses a Beat

THERE are many people who are actually in pretty good health and yet who have irregular heart action.

DR. COPELAND

Of course, the normal perfect heart in a well person should be regular in its pulsations, quite deliberate in rhythm, going steadily along. If the heart drops a beat now and again, or even when it slows up perceptibly, you begin to worry about what's the matter.

Well, it is not apt to be anything serious. It is due to nothing probably but a condition that can be remedied.

The heart is a wonderful organ. It can adjust itself to many varying conditions. It was meant to be so. A person meets with some sudden obstacle, he may have to jump, or to run, or do almost anything in the way of vigorous exercise under stress and turmoil. His heart has an instant and severe strain. Perhaps some accident occurs. Hundreds of them take place every day. The heart has many extraordinary efforts placed upon it.

Much care should be given a child after diphtheria or influenza, or indeed after any fever. These diseases often leave damaged heart muscles. Fortunately these conditions are almost sure to clear up with restored health.

We need bodily exercise in moderation so as to keep the body muscles strong and the heart muscles as well. Many a disturbed, weak heart is strengthened by regular moderate physical exercise taken every day.

Of course, we are not talking now of serious heart troubles. Any violent exercise, when it is known that any organic lesions of the heart are present, is rank folly. If there is suspicion of any such condition, you should see a physician and have his advice.

We are living in an age which necessitates constant strain and stress if we are out in the world doing the world's work. It is incumbent on everyone to slow up and take stock of health once in a while. Be advised by your doctor what exercise, if any, you need. If people would have medical care often, many untimely deaths would not occur. Deaths due to heart disease are on the increase to a woeful extent.

If however, you live a sensible life, take all things in moderation, have plenty of sleep, proper exercise, have good, nourishing food—neither in excess, nor to be undernourished—then the chances are that any slight weakness of the heart will soon mend. Many a person has found that with care and common sense, the health can be built up to such an extent that these minor weaknesses disappear like magic, and life is made worth while.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

LITTLE Freckle-face had better rid herself of last years crop of yellow speckles before she submits her countenance to the summer sunshine that is on the way. It is all right to say that freckles are sassy and piquant, but the fact remains that those who have them don't like them. They should be laved over every night with a lotion made of equal parts of peroxide of hydrogen and witch hazel. A stronger bleach is made by combining one ounce of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerine and six ounces of water. Both of these preparations should dry on the skin.

There's talk and tattle about the return of the Grecian coiffure. A well-known hairdresser in New York is turning them out to the satisfaction of the cash customers. The hair must be a bob that reaches between the hair line and the shoulders. The whole rear section is done in fight ringlets, which are tied together at the back of the head just below the crown.

Beauty is not merely flashing eyes, curtained with long black lashes. Nor is it graceful lily-like figure or the magnificent canopy of lustrous hair. It is vitality, it is character, it is health, poise, grace, speech, tone of voice, intelligence and—most of all—what life has taught one. Nobody has been able to offer a definition of beauty. Whatever it is, it must have an appeal to the mind as well as to the eyes. And to the heart, too, for that matter.

After Five Years, Powell Breaks Friendship With Moustache

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

HOLLYWOOD, March 31.

HAVE you heard the new theme song dedicated without cost to supervisors? Fill your pupils with this 'un: "A Little Hiss at Sunrise."

William Powell has shaved his mustache. He's had it for five years. No funeral rites, though.

Back New York-ways the Paramount Long Island studio is preparing to put "Grumpy" starring Cyril Maude into production. Dorothy Arzner is expected to go East and manage the megaphoning. 'Twill be Miss Arzner's initial effort in Manhattan.

William Powell

Speaking of Cyril Maude. He has been a stage star these sundry years. Someone chanced to mention him to a producer out here. The producer was puzzled at the name. "Who's she?" he asked.

Which is why one gives up at times.

VISITING GOVERNOR

Gov. Reed, of Kansas, and other Kansas limelighters, visited the M. G. M. lot 'tother noon hour. They were initiated into the wiles of production by seeing 40 or more dancing girls rehearse what has the appearance of a "symbolic" dance for "Madame Satan." Sirens blow and horns toot. The girls were garbed in their rehearsal or "maybe" costumes.

Incidentally, I was that disappointed to learn for a fact that Cecil DeMille, in this flick, does not flash-back to an extravaganza episode laid in the Garden of Eden. It was such a good—er—story.

THE WHITEMAN FILM

UNIVERSAL previewed John Murray Anderson's Paul Whiteman review, "King of Jazz." Officials from other studios attended. The Whiteman celluloider is a humdinger. It's produced in the style to which many a star would like to become accustomed. A few of the "enemy" studio heads went into a huddle the morn following the preview. Indicating that the fleetness of absorption, via sight can make for more spectacular box office . . .

AND despite this, you still hear folks refer to Universal as the "rag time studio." They don't mean music, either . . .

MARY WEARS TRAIN

THEY'RE saying that Mary Pickford wore a train—minus cinders—to a party recently. Later in the evening, the dern thing goofed itself into knots and it required the patient efforts of Doug (Fairbanks) to restore stylistic order.

DAILY 5:30 OPENING IN NIXON; MUSIC PLAY IN ALVIN

During the engagement of "Strange Interlude" in the Nixon, beginning today, the curtain-time will be 5:30 daily, as was the case during the long runs of the play in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago. In order to keep strictly on the schedule of the play so that the dinner intermission will come at the prescribed hour of 7:45 p. m., the curtain rises promptly on the stroke of 5:30.

The Theater Guild announces that latecomers positively will not be seated until the end of the first act.

"The Merry Widow," light opera by Franz Lehar, opens a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight, with Beppie de Vries, comedienne from Holland, and Donald Brian in the principal male role, one he created in the original production of this operetta in America.

Tonight in the Pitt the George Sharp Players will be seen in "Two Girls Wanted," a comedy that was popular a few seasons ago.

JUNGLE DRUMS BEAT ON TALK SCREEN IN HARRIS

By MILDRED FILLMORE.

Jungle drums are beating a sinister tattoo on the Harris screen. The event is the presentation of "Vengeance," drama of the Congo.

It is an old story the film presents. It is the eternal triangle in tropical setting. There are two white men and a white woman. The woman is the wife of one of the men. But, to make the story better, the husband is not such a good man. The other fellow, however, who she loves and who loves her, has no apparent faults. Which is the movie way. Screen heroes must be perfect.

A great amount of gin, or whatever it is white men drink in the tropics, is consumed. A great number of extras, made up into ferocious-looking natives, dance and caper all over the screen. And there is the usual amount of jungle melodramatics before the rainbow shines for the hero and the heroine.

Jack Holt, Dorothy Revier and Phillip Strange are featured in the cast. And do we have to tell you that it is Mr. Holt who is the hero?

On the stage, Dick Ware, the M. C., is presenting "Then and Now." It mixes the old days and the new. The Floradora girls and boys get comical impersonation by the Harris Co-Eds and the stage band. Featured entertainers include dancers, comedians and Little Rose-Marie, heralded as local child prodigy. Mr. Mitchell plays the organ and short screen entertainment writes finis to the bill.

Stock and Orchestra In Mosque Tonight

The closing concert in the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association series will be given in Syria Mosque tonight by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under Frederick Stock. The works to be given include the Bach Concerto No. 3, in G major, for string orchestra; Brahms Symphony No. 3, in F Major; a choreographic poem, "The Waltz" by Ravel; and selections from Act III, of Wagner's "Siegfried."

"Exquisite Skin most Important Thing in making a Girl Charming," says Lewis Milestone, Director at the great Paramount Studios

SOFT, smooth skin! What an appeal it has for people! The motion picture director, who picks the girls who will win the hearts of millions of people, knows this only too well.

As Lewis Milestone says: "Smooth, exquisite skin is more captivating than anything else about a girl"—and sums up the experience of 45 prominent Hollywood directors.

"Lovely skin is the first essential for screen stardom," he goes on to say. "It takes velvety, super-smooth skin to defy the merciless close-up lights—no make-up can fake it. Beautiful skin is the treasured possession of every successful screen star."

And now the talkies have multiplied the close-up—the cruelest test any skin can meet! So that it is more than ever essential that a screen star's skin show flawlessly smooth under the glare from the giant incandescent lights.

Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap. The Broadway stage stars, who have long used it, are more than ever grateful to its gentle care of their skin since so many of them are now appearing in sound pictures. And in the European capitals, the screen stars are equally enthusiastic about this daintily fragrant white soap.

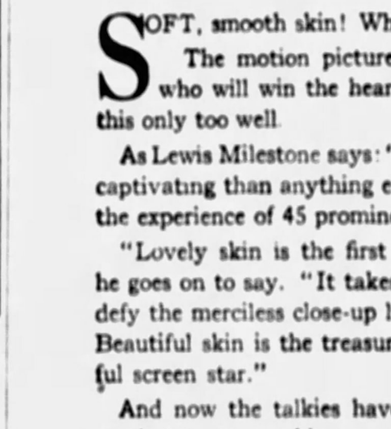
9 out of 10 lovely stars use it—
In Hollywood—on Broadway—in Europe

You can keep your skin lovely just as Mary Brian and these other famous Paramount stars keep theirs. By using Lux Toilet Soap.

You'll be delighted, too, to find how very generously it lathers, even in the hardest water. Use it for the bath—and for the shampoo, too. Order several cakes—today.

FAY WRAY, appealingly beautiful Paramount star, says: "Lux Toilet Soap helps give the skin a wonderful smoothness."

NANCY CARROLL, Paramount star, says: "It is a great help in keeping the skin in perfect condition."



BACLANOVA, Paramount's alluringly attractive star, has the fairest of fair complexions. She says "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin so wonderfully smooth."

RUTH CHATTERTON, lovely Paramount star, has perfect poise under the intense close-up lights—Lux Toilet Soap keeps her skin smooth as flower petals.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

THAT sector on the Greenwich Village rim where The Rubaiyat blazed for a brief time is spooky again since the gendarmes remembered that there was a law. The Rubaiyat, to be sure, was a departure in late-places, attracting large crowds of Broadway loafers who came to slum and to be startled by Jean, the star comic, whose songs and flippancies would have shocked Mr. Sumner, Mr. Capone and other censers.

Yet, the so-called "best people" made it an important port of call and the town dandies and their ladies wallowed in the refuse offered at the place, and when the dive was scored in this pillar, letters came from men and women who begged to know: "Where is it located and how can we get in?" The bluecoats have stifled The Rubaiyat, however, not because of its brazen disregard of this or that, but because a hospital across the way complained of the revelers and the cab sirens.

However, "Jean," the entertainer, who can be clever without being vulgar, is now the star of The Club Abbey, on the site where La Guinan made her last stand in New York. He is better described as a "Bert Savoy" in male apparel and probably will pack the Abbey with the Park Ave. and Sutton Pl. citizens and other tony trade, which prefers Maupassant to McIntyre.

IT DOES HAPPEN

SEVERAL columns ago, in fact in 1926, we kidded the postage-stamp size dance floors in the night clubs, observing that women in sleeveless frocks could get their arms scratched by the diamonds worn by other fox-trotters. Not until yesternight, however, did we hear that such an accident happened.

Miss Carola Kip, one of the better-lookers, was rushed to a doctor from the Mayfair Rooms in the Ritz the other evening, after one of her shapely arms was severely cut by a large diamond while dancing on the capacity-choked floor. The arm still is blemished by the scar.

This is news, indeed, for Miss Kip was a stranger at the Mayfair, and we were always under the impression that the stage, screen and pseudo celebrities who gather there cut only their liquor and their friends.

OFF-STAGE DRAMA

HIS major aspiration was to produce his own show, but he starred in an off-stage drama, instead. He is not young any more, although he is a frisky fellow and he finds his fun where the bright bulbs are. In his youth, he was a peddler and, then turned to stage carpentering. His association with a prominent musical producer ripened and after serving the producer as a stage hand for many seasons, the producer elevated him to one of his executive staff.

They say that when the producer put on a new attraction, this aide hungered for the opportunity to put on a show himself. "Oh," he is supposed to have said, "if only I could promote enough coin, I'd show them all how to do it. I have ideas too. I could produce a knockout instead of following the familiar formula."

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

EARLIER this season the opportunity for which he longed arrived. A man with a mess of coin who wanted to crash the racket, came to the dreamer and offered money to put on a show. He quit his job and proceeded to fashion a production. Heavy sums were spent freely on handsome decorations, costumes, entertainers and so forth, and the ambitious old gent was happy, indeed.

Then he got himself tangled up with a chorus girl during rehearsals. Although thrice her years he was "living" again, never realizing that the lass was hitching her wagon to a star role and was using him in the Broadway manner. No matter, he loved her and she said that she loved him. What does it matter when a man forgets that a slip of the foot isn't as dangerous as a slip of a gal?

The gal cooed until he agreed to make her a principal player, but the backer's girl didn't approve, and the old fellow whose life-long ambition it was to produce his own show walked out on the job and took his "heart" with him. The backer engaged another director, of course, and the show went on.

Did the chorus girl, over whom he lost his momentary prestige and power, stick by him after he so nobly defended her, you query?

Well, then, we'll ask you one. How low is down?

LILY DAMITA POSES

LILA DAMITA posed for two portraits by Olive Snell. Both were completed in less than two hours. One was called "Portrait of a Girl Who Is Good to Her Mother." The other was christened: "Portrait of a Girl Who Stays Out Late at Night." You could tell them apart . . . Lipshutz, the tailor from Philadelphia, who comes to a Manhattan hotel every Chewsday and takes the measure of the Broadway sports and other hifalutin fellers for smart suits . . . But he leaves town at 3, which is too early for some of us . . . If he will come to this office at 5:30 he will get an order for two suits . . . While they were raiding Dinty Moore's place again, stews were tottering out of the speakeasy on Forty-fourth street where a bluecoat was killed recently trying to prevent a stick-up . . . Gordon Trent, who is Arthur James in The Exhibitors Daily Review and Motion Pictures Today sheet, reports that Florence LaBadie, who was a screen star many years ago, is angling with Warner's to play a character role . . . As a matter of reportorial accuracy, Florence LaBadie died 15 years ago after a motor crash.

250 MILLIONS SPENT ON ART

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—An estimate that America spent approximately $250,000,000 on art during 1929 was announced by the American Art Dealers' Association.

The estimate is the result of a survey made by the business relations committee to determine the volume of sales made to Americans by both American and foreign dealers.

About one-third of the amount spent last year on art in this country went toward the purchase of old masters, principally from dealers in New York, Boston and Chicago, by museums and private collectors. The remaining two-thirds of the country's art purchases were of contemporary works, both foreign and American.

GREEKS HONOR WAR HEROES

ATHENS, March 31.—(AP.)—In the presence of all government officials, the President of Greece yesterday laid the first stones of a building to commemorate the heroes of the War of Independence. Every Greek city which took a distinguished part in the war sent a stone marked with its name for use in the structure. Commemorative postage stamps will be circulated next Tuesday in honor of the occasion.

Greece won her independence from Turkey in 1821-29 and became a kingdom under the guarantee of Great Britain, France and Russia. The present republic was established in 1924.

RUM CHARGES FACE PATRONS

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—Charges of aiding a felony may be placed against 34 men whose names were taken during a raid at the Serbian Orthodox Home in Steelton, a suburb, Deputy Prohibition Administrator Loos said. Loos said three men were arrested and a quantity of beer seized. It was the first time prohibition agents in this district had taken the names of patrons of a place raided. Since the 34 did not report the sales of liquor which Loos said they witnessed, charges can be brought against them, he declared.

Loos quoted some of the patrons as saying the party was being held "to raise funds for the church." Names of women patrons were not taken.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 31.—(AP.)—Officers of the Cunard liner Alaunia, bound from London to New York, reported when the ship docked here that she had been forced by icebergs to come to a dead stop for two hours on the main steamship track, near the Southern tip of the Grand Banks, on Thursday.

Eight icebergs, in a horseshoe-like formation, impeded the ship's progress.

A United States Coast Guard cutter broadcast the position of the bergs. Twenty-two more were reported drifting into ship channels southeast of Newfoundland.

Proud Mother!

Verner Wagner, 11, of 5541 Spruce St., Philadelphia, is the picture of health. No wonder his grandmother says: "I'm proud as can be of my little grandson. He's always bright, active, robust.

"I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his wonderful condition. I have used it with him for every little upset or cold. It always has him back to normal in a few hours."

When a child shows, by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or feverishness, that the little bowels are clogged, you know the system needs a prompt cleansing.

California Fig Syrup does the work quickly and gently. In addition, it helps tone and strengthen weak bowels and stomach. So it gives lasting help.

The word California marks the genuine; the pure vegetable product loved by children and pronounced safe and effective by doctors.

California Fig Syrup

Is Mother of Eight

"The first year after I got married I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so weak that the minute I would start to do something I would feel badly. It did me a lot of good. Since then I have taken the Vegetable Compound off and on whenever I needed it. I am now the mother of eight children and I still recommend this medicine for it makes me feel younger and stronger."—Mrs. Oreance Godfrey, 103 Cumberland Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

You too — on short notice, can have Hair that is Lovely and Alluring

A "Beauty Shampoo" in 10 minutes

Quickly, Easily, at a few cents cost—you can have a Real "Beauty Shampoo" that will give Your Hair a Loveliness, quite unobtainable by Ordinary Washing.

YOU CAN SAVE TIME, expense and inconvenience, by adopting this simple method of "beauty shampooing" which gives truly professional results at home.

The beauty of your hair, its sparkle . . . its gloss and lustre . . . depends, almost entirely, upon the way you shampoo it.

A thin, oily film, or coating, is constantly forming on the hair. If allowed to remain, it catches the dust and dirt—hides the life and lustre—and the hair then becomes dull and unattractive.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a glass or pitcher with a little warm water added, makes an abundance of . . . soft, rich, creamy lather . . which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing with it every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Only thorough shampooing will . . . remove this film . . . and let the sparkle, and rich, natural . . . color tones . . . of the hair show.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly; is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be so soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage, and how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store, or toilet goods counter, . . . anywhere in the world.

HERE IT IS!...

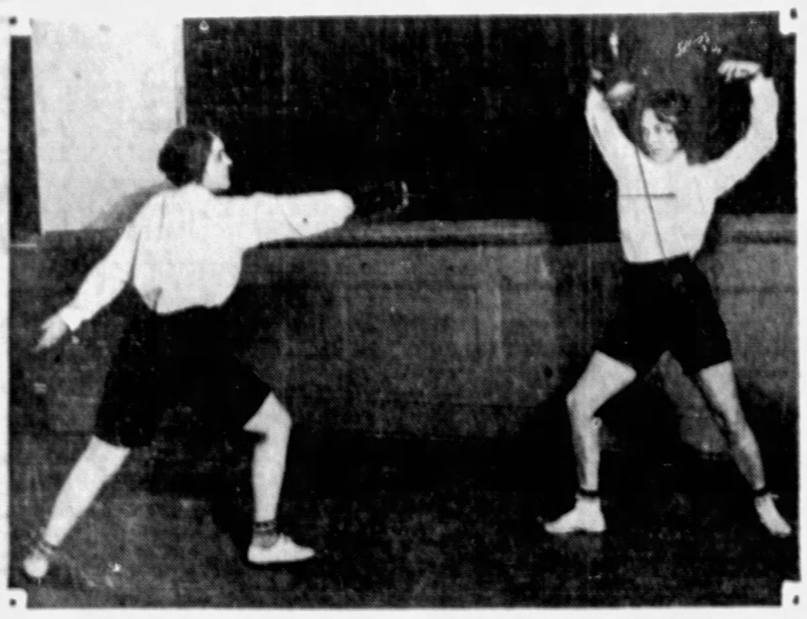
ART OF FENCING BECOMES POPULAR IN LOCAL SCHOOLS AND ATHLETIC CLUBS



Marian White

The ancient sport of thrust and parry known as fencing boasts many devotees in the Pittsburgh district, where it is taught by Capt. Marino Mannochia at the Keystone Athletic Club, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, Phipps Training School and King School of Oratory. Above is a group of Capt. Mannochia's fair pupils in the King School, Knoxville. At the left and right are two stages of the maneuvers. The one at the left is what is known as Attack and Parry of Prime (or first attack and parry), while at the right is the Attack and Parry of Tierce (or third).

SPORT COMMENT

NEW BUC PILOT PROVING WISE CHOICE:

WITH California left behind after five weeks of training there, and the Pittsburgh ball club visiting Tucson, Ariz., today for the first exhibition game on the Eastward trip, the gratifying state of Pirate affairs in general and the encouraging outlook for the year win the hearty approval and indorsement of the fans here at home for the manner in which things have been handled by Manager Jewel Ens. Spring developments have strengthened to the point of conviction the opinion formed last fall that the Buccaneer owners picked the right man for the job when Ens was appointed to fill the managerial vacancy caused by the resignation of Donie Bush.

Jewel Ens

The way Jewel has conducted the conditioning work and gone about the job of reconstructing the team in some departments has impressed close observers very favorably since the first day of training. Veteran players, coaches, scouts and critics who have gone through many spring practice campaigns are a unit in declaring that they have never seen a club work so hard or accomplish so much within a similar period.

THERE have been no loafers at any stage, and all hands have worked with a spirit and enthusiasm that speaks volumes for Ens' qualities of leadership and that can augur only success for the team. As the results of this hustling and smart handling, the club, according to all reports from the front, is unquestionably in the best shape it has ever attained at this date.

Moreover, the daily programs have made it evident even to fans at a distance that the players have been given more concrete instruction on various phases of the game than some previous managers have seen fit to try or even discuss. Ens knows the game and knows how to impart his knowledge of it to others. The players realize that he means business, they like him and are with him to a man, which constitutes a managerial situation that leaves nothing to be desired, and is vast in promise.

IT'S not only for the rather limited amount of twirling he is likely to do this year that Howard Ehmke is kept hanging around with the A's by Connie Mack. The veteran moundsman and dark-horse world series hero of 1929 is showing in the role of a coach that an old pitching head can be a valuable asset apart from actual work done on the hill.

By watching closely the work of the other Mackian hurlers, Ehmke discovered flaws in George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg. Earnshaw was telegraphing his slow ball by raising his left foot and holding it off the ground for a few seconds just before he delivered the sphere, and Walberg was using a jerky motion that lessened his effectiveness.

Howard Ehmke

EHMKE has set about to correct these defects and predicts that the two pitchers will win from six to 10 games for the world champions as a result. "Earnshaw's slow ball is a wonder, but it was worthless when the batter could tell from his advance motion that it was coming," said the veteran. "Just watch the difference this year when he cuts out the telegraphing. Walberg's action was sort of jerky and muscle-bound. I suggested that he try opening out a little to get a side-arm motion. By getting his shoulder behind his pitches and developing a follow-through he'll have all the smoke in the world and ought to be 50 per cent better."

THOUGH it was as a catcher that Roger Bresnahan became famous in baseball, he started his career as a pitcher. The change was a sudden one. It was made in the middle of a game. "It was while I was with Baltimore in the American League in 1901," relates Bresnahan, who is now a Detroit coach. "Wilbert Robinson and the rest of our catchers were out of commission except one who could not throw.

"I was getting no help from this catcher in a game that I was pitching, so I complained to Manager McGraw. 'If you're so smart,' McGraw responded, 'why don't you go in there yourself and catch?' 'I will,' I said, and then I put on the catcher's stuff while Joe McGinnity warmed up to take my place pitching.

"THE first ball Joe threw struck one of my fingers, which shows the marks to this day, but I went ahead and finished the game. I

TECH BEGINS SPRING GRID PRACTICE

By JESS CARVER.

Having proved that spring really is here by tossing the Christmas tree into the backyard, the brawny Scotties of Carnegie Tech will drive the clinching nail into the argument, if any, today by beginning spring football practice in their own little bowl.

Jeff Carlin.

Although the suggestion that Buddy Overend and Der Maxie Hannum don moleskins and take the place of Advisory Coach Wally Steffen and Dr. W. L. Marks, neither of whom will be here for the vernal drills, has been vetoed by both Buddy and Der Maxie, the Skibos expect to benefit greatly during the three weeks or more of strenuous practice. Head Coach Bob Waddell will see to that. That will be that.

Judge Steffen will be unable to come over from his home in Chicago for this year's early practice, due to the urgency of his duties as a judge of Chicago Superior Court, and Dr. Marks, the line coach, is with the Pittsburgh Pirates in California. In the absence of the latter, Al Irwin, assistant graduate manager of athletics, will direct the work of the linemen.

As sort of an incentive to the freshmen, Graduate Manager Overend has announced the yearling football schedule for next fall. Six games will be played by the Plebes, three here at home and three on other people's lots. Here 'tiz:

September 27—Indiana State Teachers at Indiana; October 4—Wash-Jeff at Pittsburgh; October 11—Kiski at Saltsburg; October 18—Pitt at the Stadium; October 25—West Virginia at Morgantown; November 1—Bellefonte at Pittsburgh.

IT MAY BE SO

I have been told by one of the boys who should be in the know, that Ray Ride, newly signed as coach at Case School of Applied Sciences of Cleveland, will take a former teammate and W. and J. star along as backfield and assistant coach. This gent will be none other than the famous Jeff Carlin.

Jeff had been coaching at Far Rockaway High School, of Long Island, since graduating from Wash-Jeff. He was a star of the first magnitude while cavorting for the Red and Black, and knows enough football to be of real aid to any coach.

Nick Altrock Says:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 31.—The Boston Braves are the spring champions of the world. They beat the Athletics four straight in Florida and are liable to commit other atrocities before the cocaine wears off. It is getting so exhibition games don't mean any more than the labels on gin. I don't know what is the matter with the A's this season, but they have been celebrating April Fool's Day right along. If I owned a club in the National League, I would take out accident insurance in case the Braves are as good as they seem. I would get a set of shock absorbers, too.

LOCAL DOCTOR TO TREAT PIE'S AILING EYE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 31. — Heading Eastward and towards home after completing their long training jaunt to California, the Pirates today were saddened by the absence of Capt. Pie Traynor. Pie was ordered to Pittsburgh to have his infected left eye treated by a home specialist.

Pie Traynor

The decision to order Traynor back home was made by Manager Ens after consulting with Vice President Sam Dreyfuss and the club physician. When the team reached Los Angeles, Pie went to a specialist who was recommended by the doctor who treated him in Oakland. This latter specialist also gave Traynor the name of a Houston physician with whom he was asked to consult, but Ens, after due deliberation, concluded that it was wiser for Pie to take treatment from a Pittsburgh specialist for a week or so.

HOME WEDNESDAY

Traynor left Los Angeles last night and is due to reach Pittsburgh Wednesday night. He will consult with the specialist on Thursday, according to present plans. Ens says he thought it better for Traynor to stay with one physician than to be moving around the country getting different treatments from different specialists.

Neither Jewel nor Dreyfuss were unduly alarmed over Traynor, who, they think, may be able to take his post in the opening game in Cincinnati two weeks from tomorrow. In the event that he responds to treatment in Pittsburgh, he probably will be ordered to rejoin his team.

On the other hand, there seems to be an undercurrent of feeling

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—The National public parks tennis championship tournament, to be held this year at Washington, D. C., will include a section for women players, it was announced by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Decision to include a championship for women in the tournament this year was made with the idea of increasing the interest of women in public parks tennis.

ARGENTINES WIN

YANKEES BEGIN TO HIT BALL

DALLAS, Tex., March 31.—(AP.)—If Manager Bob Shawkey was beginning to view with alarm the fact that his New York Yankees were doing very little hitting this spring he should be feeling a bit relieved now.

In their last two games the Yanks have pounded out 29 hits, a fair share of them for extra bases. Babe Ruth pounded out four safe hits in Saturday's game and then went hitless against Houston yesterday.

WESTMORELAND GETS WOMEN'S TITLE PLAY

VERONA CLUB TO BE WEST PENN HOST

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Western Pennsylvania women's championship will be played over the beautiful fairways of the Westmoreland Country Club, near Verona, sometime during the latter part of August, it has been learned on good authority. Emilie Roseburgh, of the Oakmont Country Club, will defend her championship against one of the strongest fields ever to compete in the event, early evidence of enthusiasm in women's golfing ranks indicates.

In preparation for the gala event, the Westmoreland Country Club is making extensive clubhouse improvements, especially in its women's quarters, which are being enlarged and completely remodeled. New showers, larger dressing rooms and new, modern conveniences are being installed to give its members and their guests the greatest comfort.

HOLES BEING LENGTHENED

Bob Smith, Westmoreland's greenkeeper, has the layout in splendid early-season condition. He is supervising the work of lengthening three holes — the thirteenth, eleventh and tenth. In each instance longer tees are being constructed.

Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland's pro, has given up his indoor instructing, and is on the job again, set for the season. Paul Tampsen, manager, and C. Cohen, secretary, also are on the job, predicting one of the biggest seasons in the club's history.

Tee to Green

"Gosh, but you're ham-fisted," was a common greeting for Dave McKay at the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday. With his brother, Willie McKay, pro at Longue Vue, Dave has just returned from a Southern tour. Willie also is back on the job again.

Women golfers are taking advantage of the largest, lighter ball that is slated to be the official pellet for next year. They find it much to their liking but it helps them bring down their ... ...

Stanley Horn, local St. Mungo agent, tells us the professionals are laying in a larger stock of larger, lighter balls than the smaller, heavier ones for this season. And Stan knows, if anyone does.

PROS TO MEET

The Tri-State Professional Golfers Association will hold its annual meeting within a fortnight. One of its notable businesses, part of respect for its honored deceased member, Charley Rowe, will be to elect a new vice president.

The McKay brothers, by the way, ran their Rowe's grove while in the South.

The Bob-O-Links driving ranges in Aspinwall, on the Freeport Road, and in the South Hills, in Pindast avenue, will be officially opened tomorrow. Frankie Brennan and Francis McNamara will be the pros in attendance.

Ray Steinfirst, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports-writer, will be in charge of the National golf championship of the International Typographical Union here in August.

The annual W. P. G. A. meeting likely will be held April 17 instead of April 14, as indicated yesterday.

Practice links were crowded at virtually every country club yesterday.

Sport Vignettes

The world's "dumbest" story has just come to light in this department. . . . It is related by an inmate, who refuses to tell where he picked it up. . . . "Why is an elephant like a can of tomatoes?" It goes. . . . And the answer is, "Because neither one can ride a bicycle." . . . Pin a rose on that one. . . . The Shreveport team ought to go far this season, blessed as it is by fortune. . . . In a game with the Cleveland Indians' second team on Saturday, Shreveport won, 6 to 5. . . . Why? Because its catchers were Luckey and Starr. . . . Primo Carnera is a very original young heavyweight. . . . Denying that he is fighting only setups, he defends himself with the crack: "I will fight any man in the world—provided the financial arrangements are satisfactory." . . . It seems we have heard that one before. . . . We once knew a promoter who contracted to pay 105 per cent of his possible gate to the boxers on the card and then, when the show was over, wondered why he hadn't made some money and couldn't pay the rent. . . . He would suit Carnera's circus to a T. . . . The Pirates now are safely out of California, even if they had to go through a 14-inning siege with the Chicago Cubs to make the riffle. . . . National League season opens two weeks from tomorrow, with the Pirates playing the Reds in Cincinnati. . . . That's when the boys go on the payroll for six months. . . . Saturday's tough tussle was merely a dress rehearsal. . . . Wouldn't it be great if Catcher Al Bool, who hit that homer with two on in the eighth, should turn out to be the hitting Wild Boot of the National League circuit? . . . Eddie Munson, veteran timekeeper for the New York Boxing Commission, who died the other day, was famous for his words to the knockdown timer near the end of each round—"Ten seconds, and he can't go out." . . . Max Zeugschmidt, local timer, has been pulling that one for years with this variation: "Ten seconds—no knockout!" . . . By the way, Bill Schuster, who has succeeded Ray Eberle as the announcer at the local boxing shows since the passing of Ray to become matchmaker at Junction Park, is making a good job of it. . . . Lacking the natural theatrical manner of Eberle, he has a direct way of making his announcements in a good, clear voice, sans flourish, that puts him over. . . . With Eberle, he represents the new school of boxing announcers and is rapidly becoming a favorite with the crowds. . . . Dr. M. R. Goldman, who succeeds the late Dr. Briney as the regular commission doctor at the ringside of the local clubs, is a former Central High School athletic star with a lot of friends in the sports realm.

Chief of Western Pennsylvania's golf professionals is Fred Brand, of the Allegheny Country Club, who is president of the Tri-State Golfers' Association. Brand, father of one of the greatest of local youthful stars, Fred Brand, Jr., former West Penn amateur and junior titlist, now at Penn State, has been with Allegheny since 1903, save for four years when Jock Hutchison and Eddie Towns were on that job. Brand was brought to the United States by Allegheny officials from Carnoustie, Scotland, home of orthodox golf, and, aside from his present affiliation, has been pro at Butler, Highland and Eagles Mere country clubs. MELLOW BOXES GOODMAN TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

Two out-of-town lightweights, Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, furnish the windup excitement in the Motor Square Garden ring tonight, meeting over the 10-round route. Both have done their training for the battle here at Flynn's gym, downtown, Mellow working with Billy Shaw, Detroit featherweight, a stablemate, and Goodman with Phil Goldstein, of the Hill, a recent addition to the string of the veteran Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, who also handles Goodman. Goldstein is prepping for a bout with Andy Andrucci, of the East End, at the Moose Temple next Friday night, after an absence from the ring of some five months.

Joey Goodman

Both Mellow and Goodman are well and favorably known here oy past performances. Goodman has scored knockouts over Henry Perlick and Eddie Brannon and taken a decision over Maxie Strub in three local appearances, while Mellow has boxed our best lightweights at Motor Square, McKeesport and Duquesne.

A red-hot battle looms in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden between Mickey Duris, of Johnstown, and Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, who recently fought a sizzling six-rounder at the Moose Temple, with Duris winning, after which Duris defeated U. S. Carpentier in the only show held in the Coliseum. Duris impressed the local fans with his clean-cut punching with both hands.

Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, and Young Joe Walcott, Negro welterweight, of Washington, Pa., box the second bout and Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, and Johnny Morgan, of Beaver Falls, meet in the opener.

Between Rounds

The Duquesne Garden A. C., sponsored by Nate Leff and Johnny Ridge, has closed an agreement with the Duquesne Garden management whereby it will transfer its activities from the small upstairs arena to the capacious downstairs quarters of the Oakland sports plant, staging its first show there Wednesday night of next week. There will be no show in the Garden this week. Matchmaker Leff is arousing around for a notable card. Duquesne Garden has the largest capacity of any indoor arena in the city, not even excepting Motor Square Garden, and Leff and Ridge plan to operate there all summer with the aid of the ice-making cooling system.

Paul Oger and Young Rudy top a card of battles in the Coliseum at Washington, Pa., tonight. Battling Gizzy vs. Dominic Midget Mike O'Dowd in the main bout of a show in Wheeling, with Tommy Hellman, of Detroit, boxing Charley Baxter, sensational young Aberdeen-Hattiesburg welterweight, at Cincinnati, in the semi-final, and Tommy Crawley, local lightweight, meets Maurice Holtzer, the Frenchman, at Holyoke, Mass.

Some boxing futures: Eddie Mack vs. Gaston Charles, Jimmy Goodrich vs. Eddie Murdock and Mickey Cohen vs. Buster Brandon, 10 rounds each, Dayton, Thursday night; Billy Jones vs. Jimmy Bradock, 10 rounds, Philadelphia, next Monday night; Jack (Kid) Berg vs. Irish Tommy Jordan, 10 rounds, New Haven, April 11; Jimmy Goodrich vs. Tommy Speelman, 10 rounds, Cleveland, April 8; Pete Sandini vs. Johnny Morley Lee (Kid) Roy vs. Sammy Hackett and Roger Bernard vs. Jackie Cohen, 10 rounds each, Montreal baseball park, June 11.

Frankie Palmer, of Cincinnati, bested Lonnie Bowden, of Huntington, W. Va., in a six-round bout at Cincinnati Saturday night.

OLDTIMERS IN COMEBACK

Two oldtimers are in comeback rules tonight, Memphis Pal Moore boking Bobby Allen and Ever Hammer meeting Ed Coss in six-round bouts in Chicago.

Jackie Rodgers' suspension is not a suspension, it seems. It is officially announced that it is a mere technicality and that there is nothing to prevent his going through with his match with Aurelio Rodi at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, for which he has been training since last Saturday. In other words, he never was suspended at all, but merely placed on the suspension list to aid the public, which took a dim view of the match with Henry Hart at Motor Square Garden last Monday night on the idea that he had such a lame ankle that he couldn't fight.

CUBS DUST OFF BUC BATTERS

By Staff Correspondent.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 31.—The Pirates and Cubs played to more than 40,000 people in their gripping four-game series in Los Angeles. The natural rivalry of the teams developed to such a point yesterday that the dangerous dustoff ball was in evidence. Gussie Suhr was knocked down twice in one time at bat—in other words he had to hit the dirt to keep out of the way of shots at his head. The Cubs seemed so anxious to win one of the games they went to extremes. However, the Pirates are not always innocent of the dust-off practice, which is a bad thing for the game.

Chillysauce

The onlookers at the big series sensed the aggressiveness of the play and they seemed to be almost evenly divided in their sympathies. Hack Wilson was a top-heavy favorite with the multitudes, although there were big outbursts of cheering for Paul Waner, Gus Suhr and other Coast favorites.

Brame's homer was a lofty clout, but it was matched by the blow propelled by Cuyler. Leo Hartnett also connected for the full distance. In the previous period previous to the game, the brilliant outfielder drove the ball around the bases with much of his old abandon. The zephyr makes the Bears a better ball club.

Ens used Stroner, Erickson and Sanders on the mound after Brame departed. Maybe Joe called upon Guy Bush, who gave everything he had to stop the rush of the Bucos. Guy pitched six rounds of runless ball after he entered the contest.

George Grantham spent yesterday in Phoenix with his family. Charley Engle was attached to the club in his absence. The Memphis shortstop played clever ball defensively.

Charles (Chuck) Deal, Wilkinsburg star of years ago, came down to the Pirate dugout before the Brame game with the Cubs. Chuck was one of the best around the hot corner when he performed.

The Bucos are slated to continue their long jaunt to Texas after today's game. The Beaumont Texas Leaguers will be met Wednesday.

SINGER TO BOX MANDELL

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP.)—Al Singer, sensational young New York lightweight, will meet Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., lightweight champion, in a 15-round title bout at the Yankee Stadium July 17, Madison Square Garden officials announced today.

Negotiations for the match were completed today with the signing of Singer to a contract, Frank Bruen, general manager at the Garden, announced. Mandell agreed to the match some time ago, he said. The terms were announced as the regulation 37½ per cent of the gate receipts for the champion and 12½ for Singer, the challenger.

Singer, whose rise to the top of the 135-pound challengers has been sensational during the past year, will meet the last opponent before the championship match Friday night in the Garden. He is scheduled to box Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino veteran, who scored a surprise knockout over Singer over a year ago.

Bill Tilden Annexes Two More Crowns

CANNES, France, March 31.—(AP.)—Two more tennis titles fell into the hands of Big Bill Tilden in the Cannes tournament here yesterday. With Cecile Aussen, of Germany, Tilden won the mixed doubles championship, defeating Elizabeth Ryan and Tamio Abe, 6-1, 7-5, and with Wilbur Coen the tall Philadelphian won the men's doubles, beating Lytleton Rogers, of Ireland, and Gallepe, of Monaco, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Ryan and Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., won the women's doubles, defeating Senorita Lili de Alverez, of Spain, and Mrs. Owen, of England, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Y. M. H. A. FIVE DEFEATED

NEWARK, N. J., March 31.—The Philadelphia Y. M. H. A. quintet retained the National Y. M. H. A. basketball championship when it defeated the Borough Park branch team of Brooklyn, N. Y., by a 29-28 score here last night.

Pittsburgh's Y. M. H. A. was set down by the new champions, 37 to 26, in a semi-final round game in the afternoon. The strain of its opening hard game, in which the Steel City five trimmed the Washington, D. C., Y. M. H. A., 44 to 38, Saturday night, was visible as the Pittsburghers relaxed their vigilance after the first period against Philadelphia yesterday. The Pittsburgh lineups:

FLOOR ACE, 17, IS MINISTER

BRIDGEPORT, O., March 31.—The unusually successful season enjoyed by the Bridgeport, O., basketball team is in part due to the efficient work of Carl Bennett Justis, 17, guard on the team.

Carl Justis

In addition to his athletic activities, Justis found time to preach at various churches in the district during the same period. He does not confine his attention to basketball and preaching alone, being also president of the Bridgeport High School graduating class.

The young man discovered his ability as a preacher about six months ago as a result of a visit to Bridgeport by a band of college students who conducted revivals in his home church. Impressed with the importance of the ministry as a calling, he added sermons to his work and made good along that line when called upon to preach in neighboring churches. He plans to attend college and study for the ministry upon completion of his high school course.

The youth is a native of Iowa. He resides with his mother and stepfather, C. L. Cotton, at Bridgeport.

COUNTY CHAMPS OUT TO RETAIN LAURELS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

All hopes of the J. J. Veronas to win the championship of the Allegheny County League rest on the outcome of tonight's battle with the Duquesne Lafayettes in the Duquesne High School gym. This contest is the second of the Allegheny County League playoff series and if the Lafayettes win the decision they will have clinched the laurels for the fourth successive year.

Soundly thrashed in the opening contest, played last Tuesday night in Columbus Temple, the J. J. Veronas find themselves with their backs to the wall, but nevertheless confident they will prove equal to the task that confronts them tonight.

VERONAS EAGER

The Lafayettes, displaying the same brilliant form that has characterized their work on the floor during their long career as a basketball team, completely outclassed the Veronas in the opening battle and if they flash the same brand of basketball tonight the series will be brought to a close.

The Veronas, despite the drubbing they received in the opener, feel certain they will even the count tonight and thereby force the series into a third and deciding contest. As has been the case in all games involving the Veronas the local team will be accompanied to Duquesne by a large delegation of rooters.

STARS TO PLAY

Two players, chosen on the All-County League team by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which was announced yesterday, will take part in tonight's fracas. Peck Minnick appearing at forward for the Lafayettes and Ski Twyman at center for the Veronas.

Chipper Cholly Hyatt and his collegians will appear in Beaver Falls tonight, marking the opening of another busy week for the former Pitt star and his excellent supporting cast. Tomorrow night Hyatt's Collegians play in Canonsburg.

Real Estate Savings and Trust and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, winners in the C. & I. League race, are on edge for the opening of their playoff series, scheduled tomorrow night at the South Side Market House. The Trinity Cathedral Tritans meet the Trinity Trimmers in a midget preliminary game.

Kaye Don Plans Trial Run Today

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 31.—(AP.)—A trial run, and perhaps an official attempt to lower the world automobile speed record, was planned at low tide at 2:37 p. m. today by Kaye Don, British driver.

Impatient at delays occasioned by unfavorable beach conditions, Don said he would take his powerful Silver Bullet to the ocean speedway today and make a trial run.

"I'm not going out there and kill myself by taking a chance," he said, "but if I run over it at 130 or 140 miles an hour and find it looks all right, I'm going to shoot for the record."

SAVED BY BELL, DIES LATER

Oliver Horne, captain of the University of Pennsylvania boxing team, died Saturday night from the effects of a bout in the Intercollegiate championships in the Penn ring a week before. Photo shows the finish of the bout, with Horne on the floor, saved by the bell at the end of the third round. His opponent was Bill Struble, Penn State middleweight. Horne's death was the second in three days in Pennsylvania from ring injuries, Billy Hatch, a Negro professional, succumbing shortly after a bout which he finished in McKeesport last Thursday night.

COACHES LAUD SHARON FIVE

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 31.—(AP.)—After four consecutive years of Eastern supremacy, the basketball championship of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association reposed at Sharon, where it was taken by reason of the Northwesterners' 18-14 victory over Lower Merion at the Palestra in Philadelphia Saturday.

In addition to winning the large silver trophy emblematic of the state schoolboy title and the gold individual medals, the Sharonites carried back with them consistent praise from Eastern coaches and officials. All agreed in describing Coach A. W. Dickerson's quintet as a great high school team which had established itself clearly as the outstanding team in Pennsylvania.

Among the first to pay tribute to the Dickerson combination was Coach Bill Anderson, who had just seen the 1930 P. I. A. A. champions wreck the title aspirations of his Lower Merion team and put an end to its record of 25 straight victories. The youthful coach who had led the first Philadelphia suburban high school team into the state final was quick to praise the skill and endurance of the Sharon boys.

"That shot by Crompton, Sharon guard, in the closing minutes of play, was the key to the whole situation. You saw him break free and casually sink that field goal. When they do that, that's experience and training," Anderson said.

Coach Hughie McGheehan, of Hazleton, whose teams won the 1928 and 1929 state titles, was another to laud the Northwesterners, as was Frank P. Maguire, East Stroudsburg coach, who was one of them.

From the entire tournament, no player emerged with more praise than did the tall, heavily built Sharon center, Jimmy Murphy, who netted four of his team's six field goals and was the only player in the court more than once. Murphy did not handle the ball as much as did Carl Deems, the shorter, stocky forward, but he covered the length of the court throughout the evening.

HOOVER RECEIVES CHAMPS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(INS.)—The Sharon High School basketball team, which on Saturday night became Pennsylvania state champion, was presented to President Hoover today by Secretary of Labor Davis.

There were 13 boys in the group. They were brought to Washington by Coach Dickerson and Faculty Manager Howard Gilmore.

After the informal White House reception, the boys were photographed on the steps of the temporary executive offices and taken to lunch by Secretary Davis.

Pittsburgh Pointer Wins Show Honors

CHICAGO, March 31.—Pittsburgh's most blue-blooded canine, Champion Herwithem J. P., owned by Robert F. Maloney, added another ribbon to a large collection late yesterday by being named the best animal of the pointer breed competing in the Chicago Kennel Club's annual dog show.

The dog was named the best animal exhibited at last year's show, and at that time was awarded a year's custody of the John Eastman cup. This year, however, top honors went to a tiny Scottish terrier, Ardmore Keepsake, owned by Robert McKinden, of Detroit, and the cup passed from Maloney's possession.

Champion Herwithem J. P. is by Stylish Mac, out of Herewithem Mustn't, and was bred by I. Sharpe.

In asmuch as the dog is a former champion, it was not required to compete in the minor classes of the show, but was merely entered in the championship competition.

STRUBLE HELD IN RING DEATH

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—(AP.)—William Struble, Pennsylvania State College boxer, was held without bail today by a magistrate to await action of the coroner on a technical charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Oliver Horne, former captain of the University of Pennsylvania boxing team. Horne died Saturday night in University Hospital.

After the magistrate's hearing, Struble was taken to the district attorney's office where, it was said, he probably would be permitted to enter bail.

Horne, according to a statement issued by three hospital physicians, fell while boxing with Struble in the intercollegiate boxing tournament here Saturday, March 22. In the fall he struck his head against Struble's knee. He completed the bout, but later developed evidence of brain injury and was operated upon for a blood clot. Pneumonia, the statement said, followed the operation and caused death, rather than the brain injury.

BURIAL TOMORROW

NEW YORK, March 31.—(INS.)—Oliver Horne, captain of the University of Pennsylvania boxing team, who died Saturday night after he was injured in an intercollegiate championship bout with William Struble, of Penn State, in Philadelphia, will be buried tomorrow afternoon from his home here.

TITLE SCHOOL MEET TODAY

All of the meets will get under way at 4 o'clock, junior and senior schools from each section using the same pool, with Section 1 in the Allerdice tank, Section 2 at Fifth Avenue High, and Section 3 at Oliver.

Allerdice, Baxter, Peabody, Gladstone, Liberty, Schenley and Westinghouse, in Section 1; Fifth Avenue, Herron Hill, South, Allegheny, Arsenal, in Section 2; and Carrick, Langley, Latimer, Oliver, Perry and Knoxville, in Section 3, will participate in today's junior title event.

Allderdice, Peabody, Schenley and Westinghouse will be in Section 1; Allegheny, Fifth Avenue, South and Ralston, in Section 2, and Carrick, Langley, Oliver, Perry and South Hills, in Section 3, of the senior competition tomorrow.

Entries for Carnegie Tech's first interscholastic swim meet, to be staged in the Skibo pool Saturday, will close tonight.

Hyatt Five Plays Beaver Falls Quint

Tonight Charley Hyatt and his all-star five will appear in Beaver Falls, there meeting one of the best teams in the Ohio Valley. Tomorrow night Hyatt will lead his five into Canonsburg to oppose in the high school gym an all-star array of Washington County floor artists. Thursday the scene of action will shift to Petrolia, Pa., while Friday has been set aside for Leadville, Pa., enthusiasts. Due to a late cancellation Wednesday night may be open. Any team desiring to negotiate should call Lafayette 4297.

SHARON RETURNS HOME

SHARON, Pa., March 31.—The Sharon High School basketball team, crowned state champion in Philadelphia Saturday night as a result of its victory over Lower Merion, returned home yesterday accompanied by hundreds of supporters who attended the game. The team will be taken on an educational tour as a reward for its fine showing.

DREYFUSS, BACK FROM SOUTH, OPTIMISTIC

By JAMES J. LONG.

Greatly improved in health, President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, was back at his desk at Pirate headquarters today after a vacation of six weeks, spent in Hollywood, Fla. Mrs. Dreyfuss accompanied him on the trip.

The local magnate says he found Florida weather conditions disappointing. Heavy rainfalls and strong winds marred the greater part of his stay. "Give me one county in California in preference to all of Florida," said the Buccaneer owner, which might be taken to mean that there is little likelihood of the site of the Buccaneers' training camp being changed next spring.

Optimistic letters from Manager Jewel Ens and Vice President Sam Dreyfuss awaited the Pirate head. Both expressed complete satisfaction with training results and the manner in which the club shapes up.

REGRETS INJURIES

"The only drawback appears to have been a run of injuries or ailments," commented President Dreyfuss, "but it is better to have these things happen wo than after the season starts. That applies to Pie Traynor, in particular. Traynor left Los Angeles yesterday for Pittsburgh and will be placed under the care of an eye specialist as soon as he arrives. He will be out for 10 days or two weeks, possibly. There is no telling about iritis. But it is far better to have him out now than to be deprived of his services after the championship games begin.

"Manager Ens says he is well satisfied with the condition of things otherwise, and that the club looks great in his eyes. I am equally well satisfied and hopeful. I think we are strong in every department and that the club will be in the race from the start."

NO WORD FROM GRIMES

The Buccaneer chief had no comment to offer on the Grimes case.

"I have not had any communication with Grimes," he said. "No word had been received from him at the time I left Pittsburgh in February, and what conferences he had with the club later were carried on through the local office. I have not heard from him in any way in the meantime."

The hearing in Grimes' suit for divorce will be called tomorrow in Canton, O. The general opinion in fan circles is that Burleigh will come to Pittsburgh shortly afterward for a conference with President Dreyfuss and that terms for 1930 will be agreed upon at that time.

BASKETBALL CHAMPION.

With the college basketball season entirely over, there is a distinct absence of that intense emotional hysteria so typical of a football season.

Knute Rockne.

To tell an alumnus of a certain school that his football team was not so good is generally equivalent to a challenge. However our alumni take their basketball more sanely.

On account of a lack of tangible contacts, it is impossible to say what college in the country had the best basketball team. If you are an Easterner you might be inclined toward Pittsburgh, but the Panthers were beaten by Syracuse, Syracuse was defeated by Columbia, while St. Johns, of Brooklyn, an undefeated team, took the measure of Columbia. However, St. Johns did not meet either Syracuse or Pittsburgh, and to crown it champion would be unfair.

Purdue was the best in the Middle West, and yet they were beaten by Butler and Montana State.

Missouri, Alabama and Arkansas were the champions in their sections, but their schedules did not give them any opportunity for real comparison.

Montana State, which made such a phenomenal record a year ago, made an invasion of the East and lost a few games, being beaten by Loyola, Butler and Pittsburgh. What the results might have been if the Montana State team had been fresh is hard to say.

Comparison of Pacific Coast basketball with the rest of the country is not possible, but the chances are that Pacific Coast basketball is right on a par with the high caliber of football and track athletics that have made that section stand out so prominently.

FALL RIVER SMOTHERS CLEVELAND BOOTERS

BRUELLS LOSE NATONAL CUP TILT, 7-2

By E. G. DONAGHY,
Referee of Cleveland-Fall River Game.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Twelve thousand fans saw the Bruells of Cleveland defeated, 7-2, by Fall River in the national cup championship series at the Polo Grounds here yesterday. The Westerners were outclassed at every angle of the game. The opening exchanges were all in favor of the Easterners.

J. McAuley scored for Fall River after one minute of play and followed with two more before Cleveland found its bearings when Reder saved from Wilson, but McArthur handled while clearing in the penalty area and G. Caraffi struck the crossbar from the spotkick.

McNab increased Fall River's total to four. Nilsen, subbing for Patenaude, distinguished himself by scoring the fifth, sixth and seventh for the Easterners. Just before the interval R. Caraffi struck the upright.

FALL RIVER PRESSES

The second half saw Fall River doing most of the pressing, but the Cleveland defense time and again prevented them from scoring. Ramsay saved from Gavin Gonsalves and McNab in succession.

Wilson scored for Cleveland on a pass from G. Caraffi after 20 minutes' play and shortly after Gross' shot passed when well-placed Ramsay conceded a corner on a hot-shot from White. Dickie, subbing for Gross, was fouled by Priestly in the danger zone and Wilson scored the penalty.

Fall River made every effort to increase its total shots by each of the five forwards failing to find the mark. The end came with the Massachusetts eleven on the long end, 7 to 2. The lineup:

Reder	G	Ramsay

PLAY TO 1-1 TIE

Playing a typical Chartiers Valley League game, the Heidelberg Eagles and Thoms Run played to a 1-1 tie before a large crowd yesterday afternoon. The local rivalry between the clubs brought out a big crowd, and they were rewarded by seeing one of the fastest games of the seasonn.

Both teams made changes, Johnny McCosky coming into the Eagles lineup. The game was fairly evenly contested, but the Eagles scored first. A good movement on the part of the front line found Andy Savage with the ball, and he defeated Darkus easily.

This stirred up scoring and Chappell, who always seems good for a goal, tied up matters. Half time arrived with the score tied.

The second half found both clubs going at it hammer and tongs, but there was no further scoring.

Heidelberg—1.		Thoms Run—1

Predominating play was kick and rush, and the Gallatin boys were faster on their feet in rushing the ball. The lineup:

never pitched again. From that day on I was a catcher.

Lefty Grove

"I never thought catching was hard. I liked it. Some pitchers, of course, were easier to catch than others. You could catch Mathewson sitting in a rocking chair. McGinnity, too, was easy. Leon Ames and Dummy Taylor were hard to catch. Ames had a great curve that was difficult to handle. Bugs Raymond, Bob Steele, Bill Doak and Larry Cheney were tough putters to catch.

"PITCHERS of the past did not throw a ball any harder or faster than those of today. Lefty Grove is as fast as any man who ever pitched. Present-day hurlers, too, have just as much stuff as the old boys had. Remember, the modern pitchers have a harder time. The ball is faster and they are restricted in what they can do to it. And these new balls. Why many times we played a whole game with not more than two baseballs. There was none of this new ball for every batter stuff. No one would have thought of handing a new ball to the umpire for him to see if it was just right to be continued in play. The pitchers in the old days were better off than they know."

THE McKeesport Public School system is among those following the commendable policy of athletics for the many, instead of merely for the few. The high school has its representative teams, of course, but activities do not stop here, by any means. On the contrary, they are extended down through the student body by a general competitive plan that embraces even the grade schools.

If a boy in high school possesses sufficient ability to win a place for himself on one of the upper teams, all well and good. If not, he is given an opportunity for healthful physical exercise, anyway. There are representative junior, sophomore and freshman class teams offering further openings, and below these there are junior, sophomore and freshman leagues. In addition, there are departmental and grade school teams and leagues to put the benefits of athletics within the reach of all.

THIS broad policy of the McKeesport schools with the idea of sports for all predominating, was applied particularly to basketball during the season just closed, and the results obtained were most gratifying. No fewer than 725 boys played on 98 teams, participating in a total of 337 games, as follows:

	Players	Teams	Games
Varsity team	10	1	17
Junior class team	12	1	12
Sophomore class team	10	1	3
Freshman class team	10	1	4
Junior league	35	9	18
Sophomore league	123	18	20
Freshman league	120	19	20
George Washington freshman team	16	1	2
Electrical department	32	4	6
Literary sections	16	2	3
Section rooms	30	5	8
Noonday league	72	12	24
Sixth grade	120	13	110

BARNUM could not have done a better job at ballyhooing Primo Carnera than the wily gents who have the big Italian in tow are doing on his clean-up tour. They sure know how to attract attention and hold it, and if they're omitting a thing from their exploitation stunts it isn't perceptible to the unclad optic. It's like a circus coming to town when Carnera lands anywhere along the dollar-strewn road. The caravan includes 14 persons, headed by Leon See, Primo's French-Jewish manager who holds the fighter's contract, and Billy Duffy and Walter Friedman, who are styled his American representatives.

Primo Carnera

SEE keeps the files and scrapbooks, talks to the newspapermen and is chief adviser to Carnera in the ring. Duffy arranges the bouts, accepts or rejects opponents when he doesn't actually suggest or dictate them, fixes the dates, watches the box office and collect the gelt. One of Friedman's various duties is to lead the fighter into the ring.

Then there are Frank Paccassi, manager of Buck Weaver, an American heavyweight, who acts as advance man, going ahead of the troupe and carrying with him for advertising purposes immense shoes and gloves said to have been worn by the giant and a life-size silhouette of Carnera; Maurice Eudlane, trainer and care-taker; Ivan Laffinau and Jean Baureaux, boxers who sometimes appear on the same card with Primo, and Adrian, a Senegalese valet who controls the fighter's wardrobe. The remainder of the outfit is made up of publicity men, dieticians, sparring partners, rubbers, etc.

ABE ATTELL has been dropped, probably at the suggestion of some boxing commission, though they said it was done "to cut expenses." Primo having gathered in ONLY about $125,000 for 13 American appearances against set-ups.

You can make your own guess as to how much Carnera gets out of what he earns after all the wise boys who are in on the racket have collected their shares.

LINSLY PLAYS OPENING TILT

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP.)—John Regan High, of Houston, Tex., and Linsly Institute of Wheeling, W. Va., will open the University of Chicago's twelfth—and probably its last—National interscholastic basketball championship tournament at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Pairings were made by Coach Nels Morgan yesterday, immediately after the entry of Casper (Wyo.) High was accepted bringing the number of teams to 36. The tourney final is to be played Saturday night.

Athens, Tex., the defending titleholder, which earned its tournament expenses by playing exhibition games with high school teams along the route to Chicago, will make its opening bid for 1930 honors Wednesday night at 7 o'clock against Lankin (N. D.) High. Lankin, champions of North Dakota's consolidated high school league, made the journey to Chicago on money raised by popular subscription.

LOCAL MATMEN WIN TITLES

ERIE, Pa., March 31.—Many defending champions in the A. M. A. wrestling meet held at the Boys' Club here Saturday night retained their crowns, but new titleholders were established in the 112 and 126-pound divisions in which A. Innes, Jr., and Bob Craig, did not compete. They held the titles last year and injuries prevented them from entering this season.

LOCAL BOWLERS COP PENN-OHIO EVENT PRIZES

YOUNGSTOWN, March 31.—Pittsburgh bowlers carried off the big end of the $1,766 prize money hung up in the second annual Penn-Ohio duckpin tournament, which came to a close at the Grand alleys just before daybreak Sunday. The event attracted 76 teams, 201 doubles and 402 singles, who paid in a total of $2,368 for fees, 75 per cent of which was returned in prizes. GIANTS' PLAY RAGGED

DALLAS, Tex., March 31.—(AP.)—The New York Giants may be pardoned if they hope the opposition in the National League is no tougher than that provided in spring exhibitions by the Chicago WhiteSox. The two teams have played nine games so far. Each has won four and one was tied. The Giants had a seven-run lead in yesterday's battle and then just barely managed to win, 10-8.

FRIBERG LAUDED

WINTERHAVEN, Fla., March 31.—(AP.)—Barney Friberg, utility man with the Phillies, is the most valuable player in the National League, Manager Shotton declared today.

"I said the same thing last season," Shotton stated, "and I still think so. He can play any position on a team and play it as well if not better for a time than any other man in the league."

DANGEROUS FOR BASEMAN TO TAG RUNNER WITH KNEES ON GROUND
MAC
DON'T TAG RUNNER. HOLD BALL SO HE TAGS SELF
FAILURE TO HOOK BAG ON INSIDE CORNER WITH TOE MADE PUTOUT EASIER FOR BASEMAN
EDDIE

NO. 7—TAGGING THE RUNNER.

MAC, trying to tag a runner, had the same fault that most young players have. He tagged his man too high.

By that I mean he tried to put the ball on the runner instead of holding it and letting the runner slide into it. The good baseman doesn't really tag the runner at all. He simply holds the ball and lets the runner tag himself.

In tagging a runner there are two things you've got to look out for. You've got to cover your bag in such a way that you're protected from the runner's spikes. And you have, at the same time, to hold the ball in such a position that the runner can't slide into the bag without tagging himself out.

Most basemen stand at the back of the bag and almost astraddle of it to take the throw. Then they're in a position to shift in whichever direction the runner may make his slide. Ed didn't do a very good job of sliding in this picture. Instead of hooking the bag he came straight in—making it easy to tag him out. If he had hooked the bag on the inside corner with his right toe as he slid past he would have been a lot harder to tag.

A lot of the trick of tagging a man off base depends on the catcher or whoever makes the throw. The perfect throw is one that reaches the baseman at his shoetops. He can take the ball and just hold it in the position in which it was caught to get his man. Throws that are high or wide necessitate a lot of waste motion that will let a smart runner get to base safely.

The first thing to remember in learning to tag a runner is "Don't be spike-shy." Just remember that if you stand astraddle of the bag and let your hands do the blocking there's not much chance of being cut. But when you go down on your knees, as Mac did in this picture, or get directly in front of the bag so that the runner can't get in, then you're taking a chance of getting your legs laid wide open.

WEDNESDAY—THE PIVOT.

ENS ORDERS PIE HOME

to the effect that the club captain and star performer will be absent from the inaugural. Traynor doubtless would require a day or two of limbering in the event of an early cure.

Stuart Clarke is the logical choice for the job if Pie is out.

Traynor, by the way, was quite confident that the treatment he received in Los Angeles was beneficial. Pie remained in the hotel most of the time, but he did this on the advice of his doctor, who wanted to give the optic every chance. Pie's general health was fine when he departed.

TUCSON TODAY

The Pirates are scheduled to play the Tucson team of the Arizona State League here this afternoon. Skipper Ens was not sure of his slab selection, but he said he would probably use Jess Petty at the start of the contest.

The Pirates yesterday had to yield decision to the Cubs in the last game of the big series in Los Angeles. Almost 20,000 people gathered at Wrigley Field, where they saw the Bruins cop, 13 to 7. The Buccos thus won three out of four games played.

The day was cloudy, it being the first time the Pirates have sported themselves without sunshine in almost two weeks.

The holiday gathering had plenty of chance to cheer, what with homers and other long hits falling in profusion. Ervine Brame and Charley Root were both shelled from the mound early, but not before the Kentucky giant had caused a wild scene with a three-run homer into the center field bleachers. The blow, struck in the second, gave the Buccos a three-run lead, but they lost it in the third when the Bears scored seven tallies after a double play had missed fire.

BRICKELL INJURED

Dick Bartell and Charley Engle thrilled the populace as they endeavored to reel off the two-ply putout which would have retired the side. Engle, however, missed the bag by a small margin as he made the pivot of the play, and only the runner at first was retired. Seven tallies followed, a three-run homer over the center field by Kiki Cuyler being the high spot of the inning.

The Pirates came from behind to a deadlock in the third with a spunky drive, but in the three succeeding rounds the Cubs scored six markers and clinched the victory.

More casualties were added to the Pirate hospital list during the day. Centerfielder Fred Brickell, who has been subbing for the ailing Lloyd Waner, wrenched his right ankle in making a circus catch in the ninth inning. Brick robbed Lefty Grimm of a hit by his diving capture of a short fly, but as a penalty he had to leave the contest in favor of Ira Flagstead. The young outfielder, however, was able to leave with the others, and he is expected to be O. K. in the course of a week.

Adam Comorosky was out of action in the finale with a lame leg. Commy's injury gave Jim Mosolf a chance for leftfield action.

CHAMPS AFTER HONORS TODAY

CLEVELAND, March 31.—(AP.)—Two individual bowling champions, Joe Falcaro, of New York, world match game titleholder, and Adolph Unke, of Milwaukee, back to defend the singles crown he won last year, headed the list of luminaries in the American Bowling Congress competition today.

In addition, Harry Gerloski, of Detroit, former all-events champion, and Freddie Tocco, of Detroit, who shared the doubles' title in 1926, were back with championship aims.

An almost hopeless task faced the singles aspirants. The A. B. C. record of 774, hung up by Larry Shotwell, of Covington, Ky., not only was expected to stand for the tournament, but for some time to come.

The team event standing remained unshaken after an overnight attack. Yesterday M. Halter, of Minneapolis, rolled 714 to place second in the singles and E. Benton and J. Benton, of Detroit, totaled 1,294 to tie with Hyke Thoma and Frank Kartheiser, of Chicago, for fifth place in the doubles. The standings:

Five-men event—Schwartz Ballroom, Hartford, Wis., 2959; Spartans, New York, 2939; McGrath's Plumbers, Libertyville, Ill., 2934; Erie Paint Company, Erie, Pa., 2884; Dyers, New York, 2881; Merchants Oil, Cincinnati, 2948.

PRIMO SIGNED FOR DEMPSEY GO, REPORTED

DENVER, March 31.—(AP.)—The Denver Post said yesterday that Primo Carnera, the huge Italian heavyweight, signed a contract Saturday to fight Jack Dempsey somewhere in the United States some time in September of this year. Dempsey's signature, however, is not yet affixed to the contract, according to the Post.

Mique Malloy, Chicago and St. Louis promoter left here yesterday afternoon for Chicago with the contract signed by Carnera, the newspaper will say, and he expects to get Dempsey's name on the dotted line.

Carnera and his party of managers and trainers has left here for Los Angeles.

Terms of the contract, the Post said, have not been divulged, but Malloy announced he was ready to guarantee a $1,000,000 purse for the battle, which would probably take place in Soldier Field Stadium, Chicago.

"NEWS" IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP.)—Sources close to Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, said reports from Denver that Primo Carnera had signed a contract to meet Dempsey in the ring, were "news to them."

They declined to comment further on the possibility of the Italian boxer meeting the former champion.

KELSEY-HAYES OPERATIONS EXPAND

Present Rate 25% Ahead Of Last Year; Chevrolet, Ford Contracts Larger

DETROIT, March 31.—Operations of Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Corporation since March 15 have been at a rate of 25 per cent in excess of a year ago. Up to March 15 company operated at the same rate as in corresponding period last year.

Renewed Chevrolet contract for 1930 as well as heavier schedules for Ford have materially increased Kelsey-Hayes' volume for the current year. Company now supplies all of Chevrolet's wire wheel requirements and is turning out for this account approximately 100,000 wheels a month, compared with only about 60,000 Chevrolet wheels for all of last year.

MORE FORD BUSINESS

The company's contract with Ford calls for 50 per cent of the Ford passenger-car wheel requirements, compared with 25 per cent last year.

While Kelsey-Hayes retained all its customers for 1930, production for companies outside of Ford and Chevrolet has been on a comparatively limited scale. During the past two weeks, however, releases on this "other" business have been on the increase. During the past three years company has expended approximately $8,000,000 for expanding and modernizing plants, with the result that capacity has been doubled and company is now in position to turn out 50,000 wheels a day.

NEW DETROIT PLANT

A new Detroit plant was completed early this year which added 120,000 square feet of floor space and increased the stamping division's capacity about 50 per cent. All stamping activities of the company now have been concentrated in this plant. Additional wheel capacity will be provided shortly at the Memphis plant where preparations are being made for production of Ford wheel.

Kelsey-Hayes is also supplying about one-third of Ford's brake requirements in addition to miscellaneous stampings.

Current wheel production is about 34,000 a day.

Big Gain Noted in Refrigerator Sales

NEW YORK, March 31.—Sales of mechanical refrigerators, especially of household units, have thus far in 1930 made striking gains as compared with results in the like period of 1929, according to a current survey by the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, which follows in part:

"Reports released by most of the leading producers indicate that output and sales, on an average, are running some 40 to 50 per cent ahead of this time last year. This condition in the refrigeration trade is in marked contrast with the slow recuperation of industry in general, apparently indicating that the growing demand for the most modern methods in fresh food preservation is such as to be little affected by a widespread recession in numerous industrial fields."

SILK IMPORTS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, March 31.—In a period when most imports into the United States are declining in quantity, shipments of raw silk are notably on the increase. Customs records for February disclose that American purchases of silk amounted to 5,896,000 pounds, against 5,742,000 pounds in the same month last year. The nation is exhibiting the rather odd spectacle of extending its intake of a luxury product during a period generally regarded as one of business depression.

The apparent reason for the advance of the silk shipments is furnished by the decline in silk prices. At about $5 per pound, raw silk is now at one of the low peaks in its history. The imports of last February, while about 150,000 pounds more than those of the same month last year, actually cost the importers $2,000,000 less than they paid for the smaller quantity of imports which came in during February, 1929. Silk is obviously demonstrating one of the orthodox economic tendencies, by which falling prices are expected to result in increasing consumption.

Indian Territory Oil Offers Rights

NEW YORK, March 31.—Holders of Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, have been given the right to exchange their stock for newly created class "B" stock of the corporation, share for share, and holders of new class "B" stock of record April 15, who shall not have previously waived their right thereto, are further offered the right to subscribe at $17 a share for one share of newly created class "A" stock for each four shares of class "B" stock, or old stock held. Subscription rights expire April 30. This plan is expected to produce approximately $30,000,000 new capital.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce market in Pittsburgh. There were slight changes in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese markets remained steady, demand good, supply moderate, without changes in quotations.

Car lot supplies were nominal with 334 cars on track. Arrivals included 3 cars of beets, 78 potatoes, 6 onions, 47 lettuce, 8 sweet potatoes, 18 carrots, 41 tomatoes, 23 cabbage, 21 celery, 13 cauliflower, 17 spinach, 1 strawberries, 1 rhubarb and 14 radish.

3 COKE PLANTS TO RESUME

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 31.—Approximately 1,000 men will be given employment within 10 days when the three Oliver plants of the Oliver and Snyder Steel Company are put into operation by the Pleasant Valley Mining Company, newly organized with a capital of $1,000,000. The officers of the concern are C. S. B. Ward, of Pittsburgh, president; P. J. Duncan, of Trotter, vice president; Leo Duncan, of Uniontown, secretary, and Michael A. Machkev, of Leisenring, treasurer. W. Calvery, of Pittsburgh, will act as general superintendent.

Coal is to be mined and approximately 500 ovens put into blast.

The plants have been idle for several months, but the signing of an indefinite lease gives reason to believe that the region is due for an industrial boom.

A. D. 19 with interest thereon from the date hereof at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4.25%) per annum, payable semi-annually (1.06 1/4) on the first days of March and September in each and every year hereafter specified without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. Any one or more of the coupon bonds of the series of which this is one may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same aggregate principal amount, in denominations of One Thousand ($1000.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, but exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, to be surrendered to the said coupon bond or bonds with coupons attached to the office of the City Controller of said City.

This bond is one of a series of bonds amounting in the aggregate to Two Million Eight Hundred Fifty Thousand ($2,850,000.00) Dollars, issued by the City of Pittsburgh, pursuant to and in full conformity with and in pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to limit the power to borrow money for the purposes of the same," approved April 20, 1874, and the several supplements and amendments thereof, and to pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act for the government of cities of the second class," approved March 7, 1901, and the supplements and amendments thereof, and an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act authorizing the issue of certificates in the name of and for the use of the several counties, cities, boroughs, townships, districts and poor districts of this Commonwealth, in payment of subscriptions to the capital stock of railroad companies, and for the payment of debts incurred for railroad purposes," approved May 1, 1913; and in pursuance of an Ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh entitled, "An Ordinance authorizing and directing the issue and sale of Funding Bonds of the City of Pittsburgh, and fixing the aggregate amount of Two Million Eight Hundred Fifty Thousand ($2,850,000.00) Dollars for the purpose of funding existing unfunded indebtedness of the City, consisting of contractors' claims, claims for damages arising from the opening, widening and improving of streets and other construction of sewers, and other floating indebtedness, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon, duly enacted by the Council and approved by the Mayor on the day of March, 1930, and duly recorded and published in the manner required by law.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing an Agreement between the City of Pittsburgh, Mt. Oli

"Be My Husband!"

KEENE'S CORNERS is a pretty little hamlet—in the summer.

Almost any little hamlet in New England is pretty in the summer.

Aside from the natural beauty of the little place there was Sylvia Keene, who lived with her uncle and aunt and sang in the church choir.

The hamlet had been named for Sylvia's ancestors. Sylvia, an orphan, was the pride and joy of her childless uncle and aunt.

And while Sylvia was very beautiful she wasn't in the choir solely for ornamental purposes. The girl had a wonderful voice. It had been trained first by Mrs. Tucker of Keene's Corners, who had a generation before, taken lessons in Boston. Then she went by train three times a week to Concord to take singing lessons.

"She ought to be in grand opera," this teacher truthfully said. "Two years abroad and she could make it, and you can afford it—"

"Grand opera!" gasped Aunt Gusty. "Sinful play-acting. I'd rather see Sylvia dead."

Uncle Joe agreed.

This gives one an idea of how narrow they were up in Keene's Corners.

"At least" stammered the teacher who had come up to honestly say that the girl had gone as far as he could teach her, "she could sing in high-class concerts."

"Well, perhaps but travelin' around and meetin' temptations in the wicked world—I guess Sylvia will stick to choir singin' in churches and marry some nice local boy," Aunt Gusty said.

Aunt Gusty and Uncle Joe would have been surprised and troubled if they could have known of the nights Sylvia cried over this decision. Her heart was set on getting out into the world and making a good living with her voice. But uncle and aunt had taken her, alone and penniless as a babe and given her everything. She couldn't leave them against their wishes.

Hetty's Visit

So she continued to sing in the choir and make young native lads think of matrimony and old men think of their youth, and she managed to gently refuse a number of proposals.

This was the summer that Hetty Sonberg came back to Keene's Corners to visit her grandmother. Hetty used to live there and was a small girl chum of Sylvia's. Her people had moved to New York.

Hetty arrived Saturday night. She went to church with her grandmother and saw and heard Sylvia in the choir. Hetty was wise, modern and clever, in her way, but her eyes popped when she saw Sylvia's beauty and heard her beautiful voice. She was thinking to herself, "Oh, boy, if I had her looks and her pipes I'd be starrin' in all the swellest musical revues on Broadway!"

Hetty was wise enough to be quiet and not spill too much of the Brooklynese type of chatter. But she accepted Sylvia's invitation to dinner, after services and to stay over night with her.

How they talked that night!

"What I could do for you if you could only break away," Hetty kept saying over and over.

Sylvia explained why she couldn't go, and wept a little in the telling.

"Hot dog—I got a scheme!" Hetty suddenly exclaimed.

"Nothing would work," Sylvia moaned.

"Listen, I sing in Church's—"

"Hetty—you told me you were singing and dancing in a cabaret!"

"The name of the cabaret is 'Church's.' The man who owns it owns a string of them in many cities. His name is Church. Mr. J. J. Church. We've never seen him; he inherited them from his father—but here's the idea. When I get home I'll write you that I have a chance for you to sing in churches — get me? Your aunt will think I mean big city churches——"

"Oh!" said Sylvia, hugging Hetty, and then, "Oh, auntie has often said she would like to see me singing in a big city church where my voice could inspire so many more to good ——"

Both girls giggled.

Suggestion of Job

Next day Hetty spoke to Sylvia in front of her uncle and aunt about knowing some lovely ladies who sang in church choirs and of knowing a man, a retired minister, who secured singers for churches. She dropped the subject then.

But Hetty hadn't been back home two weeks before she wrote to Sylvia telling her that she could get her plenty of work singing in "churches" and the pay would be at least thirty a week.

The upshot of it was that Aunt Gusty and Uncle Joe Keene decided that it was really providential and that Sylvia might go.

Sylvia went.

So Sylvia Keene went to work—singing at Church's famous so-called cabaret, which was open afternoons and nights until one, hence it was out of the night club class.

Sylvia got $0 the first week and was going to run right to Manager Hendricks and tell him he had made a mistake and given her two weeks' salary for one, but Hetty kicked her quiet and when she saw Hendricks she said, "Lissen, because she came from th' sticks she's no hick. The Unger dame gets $5 and Sylvia can sing circles around her!"

"In a couple weeks," he promised.

So Sylvia sent home pictures of various churches. She didn't say that she was singing in these churches, but her letter seemed to indicate it. She started sending home 20 a week but she was too wise to tell that she was then getting 75. And Aunt Gusty was saving the money for her because uncle and aunt weren't in need of money.

Everything went serenely for weeks and weeks.

Wise Kid

They wanted to sign Sylvia up for all the next season. Hetty tipped her. "Lissen, Sylvia, you'll be a headliner in a revue next winter. Old Bledgar, the producer, has already been watching you."

Then came a thunderbolt—uncle and aunt thought that Sylvia ought to come home. She had been doing good work singing in churches, but they were lonesome and Sylvia didn't have to have money as they had plenty. She must come home.

"I can't," sobbed Sylvia, "and I can't hurt their feelings. I know. I'll write as though I was surprised they hadn't got my letter telling about my marriage!"

"Wow!" howled Hetty, "you're a wise kid. They'll think you're married and they know they won't have any more right to order you home."

Sylvia did that. It hurt her; she loved the uncle and aunt, but they didn't understand her love of singing or the money.

A surprised but nice letter came from Aunt Gusty. She didn't know what the government was thinking of—she had lost letters before, but not to have got that—and who was he and all about the husband and was Sylvia happy and was the husband a nice God-fearing man, et cetera?

So Sylvia wrote again, explaining that her husband was in a financial business and doing well and she continued to sing at "churches" and again she ignored sending the name, since she couldn't think of a suitable name for a make-believe husband, or rather, a husband who never was.

Things went along for some weeks. It was then beautiful Indian summer. Great last-of-the-season crowds were down to the beach and Church's Cabaret was constantly crowded.

Startling News

Sylvia went on at six for the dinner show and again at 10 for the supper show.

At five, when she went to get ready, she found a telegram. Uncle and Aunt had to come to New York on important business about a legacy and they would call on Sylvia and her husband, at where they boarded, as they supposed they hadn't changed their address or Sylvia would have notified them.

Sylvia looked at the date—uncle and aunt would call in about an hour — Sylvia lived with Hetty's people.

Sylvia wept—she would have to go back—her life would be discovered—she was desperate.

They might direct her uncle and aunt to this cabaret!

Sylvia ran out to see. A fine-looking chap in cap and leggins such as taxi men wear was hanging around. Sylvia had seen him several times recently. She went up to him.

"I'll pay you $25 dollars to be my husband—just for this evening," she said.

"Make-believe, of course," said Sylvia, turning very red. Then she explained everything to him.

"You're Sylvia Keene who sings in there. What's your real name?" he asked her.

"Sylvia Keene. And yours?"

"Jack, and I'm going to help you. We'll drive to where you room, pick up the uncle and aunty and take them out to my place. I'll telephone to have a lot of my sister's junk—no, you can tell—Oh well, we'll fix it, hop in."

Sylvia stared at a long, low car.

"Oh, I thought you drove a taxi-you're a private chauffeur!"

"Yes, sort of private. Look here, Sylvia, you can introduce me as Jack, or John, Jardine—remember?"

Sylvia remembered.

Relatives Impressed

Uncle and Aunt were deeply impressed with Sylvia's "husband."

The place they drove to was a handsome estate.

Sylvia thought the owner must be away.

Uncle and aunt never suspected that Sylvia and her "husband" occupied separate rooms that night.

And when uncle and aunt were in the city finishing their business next day Sylvia was really married. Her husband's full name was John Jardine Church—he had inherited the Church cabarets and had come on from the West to size them up. The big estate he had also inherited.

Sylvia doesn't sing in Church's, or churches or any cabarets, for that matter. She has been married several years now and lately she's been busy singing lullabys.

Expedite Street Work—Men Need Employment

The street repaving and improvement schedule for the current year calls for a total expenditure of $337,000, according to agreement reached between Council and the Public Works Department engineers. Amounts for specific jobs range from $7,000 to $50,000, the larger sum being the estimate for improving Bellefield avenue, Fifth avenue to Forbes street, all three streets bounding the site of Pitt's Cathedral of Learning, work on which is progressing.

Such work, which necessarily is seasonal, should be expedited, not only because the improvements are necessary, but because it will mean paydays for many men throughout the limited working season.

Not Quite Perfect

A Letter to William Shakespeare.

A stage producer in Toronto, Canada, saw the motion picture version of "The Taming of the Shrew" and thought so well of it that he wrote a letter addressed to William Shakespeare, in care of the postmaster, Stratford-on-Avon.

The stage producer offered to buy rights on anything the author had tucked away, and to read and consider anything Mr. Shakespeare might do in the future. It is an amusing story, but it will not quite suit stage people in general. The story would be so much better if the letter had been written by a Hollywood film magnate.

Money Isn't Everything

And Some Believe It.

Work was started on a dam out West the other day. The contractor advertised for labor and 300 men applied for jobs—as timekeepers. Every one refused to handle a pick and shovel.

The contractor thinks this sheds light on the unemployment situation, and maybe it does. But it sheds more on human nature.

Many men and women would rather starve on a white collar job than prosper as manual laborers. And a good many do. Which makes you wonder if the "economic interpretation of history" is all that it's cracked up to be.

The Kaiser Never Expected This

Royalty Paints Democracy.

ON THE LEFT, FANNY HURST. LOOK WHO IS PAINTING HER.

Since he moved from Germany, into Holland, ceased to be a kaiser and became a retired German gentleman, William Hohenzollern has witnessed the shock of many surprises.

This picture probably would surprise him as much as any of the other surprises.

It shows his daughter-in-law, Princess Alexandria Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, painting a portrait for money.

The Kaiser's daughter-in-law is on the right.

The lady on the left, being painted, is none other than the brilliant and versatile Miss Fanny Hurst, whose stories you doubtless have read in COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, and whose talent you have admired in her "movie," called "Humoresque."

Miss Fanny Hurst does not seem excited about the honors showered upon her. She acts like a lady that has daughters-in-law of kaisers painting her every few minutes.

She even looks bored, as one saying, "What does this amount to in the life of one whose own job is painting life as it is, with words that burn and blister? I ought to have had the ex-Kaiser himself do it."

The picture shows two things—first, that in the long run ability counts. Miss Fanny Hurst has the ability. Therefore she can hire the daughter-in-law of the ex-Kaiser to paint her picture. And it shows that women have courage. The former Kaiser's daughter-in-law, choosing to work for a living, utilizes her talent as well as she can.

She has painted here a portrait that looks a little more like Miss Elisabeth Marbury than it does like Fanny Hurst. But she will sign her name to the picture, and Fanny Hurst will be able to say, "Get a load of that; the ex-Kaiser's daughter-in-law did it," and her husband, when he drops in for breakfast, will be immensely proud.

But the Kaiser—he didn't expect this.

The Only Catch

Drawn by Nelson Harding

Our fisherman is out of luck,
His chances hardly fair,
No fish worth while are being caught
Because they aren't there.

The only catch that may result
Is trouble, as we see,
For foreign waters are no place
For unskilled hands to be.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Our Tex

OUR old boy friend, Tex Guinan, left Chicago when the shooting started.

Tex was hoofing the Grand March when one of the neighbor's children unparked his artillery and started to give out dotting lessons.

"Bugs" Baer

Tex said, "I will not be the target for such criticism."

The cotillion leader was clipped three times by Chicago jumping beans.

When the lead corn started popping, Tex remarked, "Ain't we got fun?"

A lady should be a lady under all circumstances. Even when she ain't.

Nothing bothers Tex. When trouble starts she looks as natural as a sailor on a gangplank.

Miss Guinan was just closing a successful season among the nocturnal browsers in the Lake City. Eight hundred friends were there for her touring party. Suddenly, a stranger walked in and looked shyly around like a leopard.

Yanking a revolver from his hippo pocket he plugged an innocent jay-walker three times. It was like the real estate firm of Bing and Bing. Both brothers sounded as one.

The man didn't like megaphone singing. He wanted his ballads in the rough. Either that, or he had heard Tex's gags before.

In the panic that started, nobody was out of step.

Some of those marathon dancers haven't even slowed up for dangerous crossings. Tex has quit Chicago. She didn't want to get paid off in war medals.

We know that the referee of a dog fight should wear rubber boots. So does Tex. But in our diplomatic circles a war never starts until we hand the alien ambassadors his portfolio.

Tex may have to go back into court to rest up.

She is in a lucrative business but we don't like the office hours. Tex feels very badly about it all. She was not struck by the bullets. But the man who was had not yet paid his check.

Well, into all lives a little rain must fall.

Isn't It So?

A woman's club is a formidable weapon to hold over a husband's head.

Enough is as good as a feast. When a man is his own worst enemy he doesn't need any others.

THE ANTIDOTE OF DOTAGE

By Herbert Kaufman

THE fool theory that men appreciably lose mental and physical vigor as they enter fifties, will please note that George F. Baker is "doing business as usual," on his ninetieth birthday and with no apparent loss of hair or anything UNDER it.

The field on the other side of Dr. Osler's ridiculous deadline is just as fertile as the first half century of life.

Germany's two greatest field marshals, Von Moltke and Hindenburg, didn't show best lines of goods until they were past three-score-and-ten.

No one has YET observed any body creaks or rattling bolts in the nonagenarian decisions of Supreme Court Justice Holmes. And the brainpan of Thomas Edison is sizzling as hot with original ideas as when first fired by inspiration.

The increasing weight of responsibilities has neither bent Mr. Baker's back nor judgment. He remains active captain of one of the mightiest banks and private fortunes in the world. His eye-sight may be failing, but the panic of '29 disclosed an undimmed financial vision.

APHORISM and experience concur in the opinion that it requires a more alert wit to RETAIN wealth than CREATE it.

But the popular presumption that money is a SELF-PERPETUATING force and will indefinitely reproduce in kind, without the same cultivating energy that earned it, ISN'T SO.

Shrewdness, vigilence and verification of fact are the ONLY locks to hold property intact from the thieving fingers of dissipation and mismanagement.

Players who retire from big games, and relinquish stacks and seats to substitutes, always RISK their chips.

The heirs of going concerns are apt to subject their assets to speculative risk and gambling chances.

Which explains why so MANY of our rich men's sons wind up in grand fathers' shirt sleeves.

THE Vanderbilts and Astors are such EXCEPTIONS to that general rule that their unaverage example CONFIRMS it.

And the secret of their continuing affluence is revealed by the presence of family members in the executive personnel or directorships of every corporation in which their funds are heavily invested.

Thorough jobs are never done by PROXY. Stick to your knitting as long as you can hold the needles. Hired fingers inevitably drop SOME stitches.

Fundamental training and hard sense are not easily ENTAILED.

Paul Morton, when president of the Santa Fe, changed his mind about the qualifications of a possible successor after a certain inspection tour with that promising young man.

They were riding through Kansas during a late spring snowstorm. Morton pointed to the blanketed fields and asked his companion what he saw out there.

THE other official answered, "I see snow."

"I see unexpected moisture AND THE PROBABILITY OF BUMPER GRAIN CROPS," said Morton.

Most of us never look below the surface and consequently can't estimate what's likely to happen.

Mr. Baker is also a student of storms and root action. His thoughts are full of cause and effect, instead of RETROSPECT.

He stays fit by exercising with a DRUM MAJOR'S baton, while thousands of his juniors prematurely wither on the SIDE-LINES of action.

Ponce De Leon went off on the WRONG scent; had he searched HIMSELF, he would have discovered the fountain of youth bubbling above his NECK RUFF.

The antidote for dotage lies in "keeping EVERLASTINGLY AT IT."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

WHY does the average wife believe that her husband owes her a perpetual debt because she married him . . . and feel that everything she does for said husband is a favor which he can never sufficiently repay?

You haven't conferred any more of a favor on the Big Boy by marrying him, sister, than he has conferred on you. You wanted him as much as he wanted you and worked as hard to get him. Maybe harder!

And he sacrificed as much for the deal as you did. It's a serious thing for a girl to put her life in a man's keeping—but it's just as serious for a man to put his life in a girl's keeping. And girlish dreams are not a particle more precious than boyish illusions. A boy can think as much romantic nonsense in a second as a girl can in a year, and it hurts him just as hard to be jarred out of it. Tradition to the contrary, it's the groom who is usually all in a twitter, not the bride. She knows what she's all about, but he's betting on a couple of deuces. If anyone should wear the tulle and rosebuds, he should!

"But I sacrificed my freedom for my husband!" you cry.

Well, how about HIS freedom? You gummed up his liberty quite so much as he gummed up yours. And, in addition to giving up liberty, he acquired the upkeep of another healthy human — plus possible additions.

"See how hard I worked for him!"

See how hard he worked for you. And why, at any rate, should you regard your work as such an amazing performance? Wouldn't you have had to work even if you hadn't married him? And wouldn't you have had to endure the normal amount of snubs, bad temper and bachache incident to any job? Then why consider yourself an uncrowned martyr because you've elected to earn your living keeping house instead of typing letters or selling notions?

WHY SHOULD A GIRL WHO COULD NEVER QUALIFY FOR MORE THAN A TWENTY-DOLLAR JOB WHEN SHE WAS SINGLE EXPECT MILLION DOLLAR SERVICE AFTER SHE'S MARRIED . . . . AND BEEP EVEN WHEN SHE GETS THAT?

"But I gave him the best years of my youth!"

You did nothing of the sort, sister. Your youth passed. You didn't give it to him—it just vamoosed. As all youth vamooses. Growing old is nobody's fault. Why put him in the dog house because time passes?

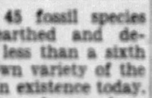
THE SCIENCE OF LI

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

BUT in Pliohippus the elaborate pattern has been back into the milk-tooth stage, and from now onw the grinders at every stage of life share equally in ev vance made in the grinding machinery.

The ninth genus is Plesippus, which comes definit the last of our four main stages. So far, only one spec been discovered, from the Upper Pliocene (V D3), but one species the anatomy is known in full detail.

These creatures were very much like a smallish horse, but the hoofs, as in Pliohippus, were still much smaller than in a modern horse, and the teeth show but little advance on those of Pliohippus. The splint-bones representing the outer toes are very interesting, for they are longer than those of living horses and more expanded at the tip.



H. G. Wells

The fifth digit of the forefoot, which, as we saw, became useless in Mesohippus, hung on for a long time as a remnant, and was apparently loth to disappear, for it is still represented in Plesippus by a tiny nodule of bone. Indeed, in living horses, though usually wholly absent, it is still to be found in a few individuals as a still smaller nodule.

The shape of the skull is like that of our modern horses.

From this type to Equus, the true horse, is but a small step, which was taken at the turn from Pliocene to Pleistocene (V E). Even among the various species of Equus, however, evolution can be seen at work, for many of the earlier species are both smaller and more primitive in tooth-pattern than any existing modern horses.

On the other hand, one or two recently extinct forms considerably exceeded any living wild species in size, and were probably even larger than our domestic draught horses; their size is perhaps to be correlated with their living in an interglacial period when the world was warmer and richer in vegetation than it is nowadays.

As many as 45 fossil species have been unearthed and described, so that less than a sixth of the total known variety of the genus Equus is in existence today.

Thus has the change been brought about from the tiny, furtive, forest-hunting, browsing Eohippus to the swift, strong, grazing Equus of the ope try.

But the study would complete without a men certain side branches whi out, turning aside from t trend of horse evolutio sooner or later came to n We have this evolution extinction, step by step.

The first of these b started in the early Eoce A1). Some of the Old four-toed forms wandered their own, but beca e extir ed in the Lower Oligocene after advancing a certai parallel with the main stock.

Palaeotherium, three-toe somewhat heavy and tapi was the best known, but were lighter and better a to swift running. Over 20 were evolved in these side- what brought their career close is uncertain.

The next divergent branch gan at the close of the Mio (V C). Its peculiarity con in its retaining three good on each foot, very much sp out, and teeth, less well ad for grinding grass, but st for browsing leaves.

While some species of Mio pus form a connecting brid Parahippus and the rest of main horse-stock, others con equally insensibly with the ba this side-branch. The tend first revealed in them, run course through a couple of gener culminating in the early Pliocen (V D1) in Hypohippus.

In this branch, with at least known species, we can trace progressive adaptation to fore life, the animals apparently ea ing more juicy food and suppor ing themselves on softer groun by the aid of their spreading te Here we have, so to speak, a of quitters, of animals wh shirked the more arduous life the open plains that was the g of their race and turned back i the woods.

For a time they throve only for a time. It was not this direction that the horse-s was destined to win through.

Those of us whose memories are of a wad scowling and flat-footed ne hood cop are a trifle ama the modern Chesterfield wh trols in New York. The co once the natural enemy of boy. Today he is young, trim athletic. On the East Side a pal of lads who play in streets. This morning I saw in an abandoned lot helping b choose sides for a game of ba ball. That is perhaps not in th police regulations but should be.

An excellent novelist for yea made from $15,000 to $20,00 yearly writing interesting but dignified books. For a change of pace he wrote a swiftly moving sex novel under a pseudonym. At the talking pictures. It strikes me, the audience does most of the talking. I have left two in a huff recently and may continue the pout until another George Arliss picture comes along.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you arbitrary at home about the kind of entertainment rad brings into the house?

Because you enjoy certain features do you insist that they sh be the only ones that shall be tuned in while you are listening?

Not often do the whole family enjoy the same kind of entertain ment.

When one member of the family tries to monopolize radio production and variety that shall be received, the others of the circle are not pleased.

You know that you dislike certain numbers that others enthu over.

Why not be a good sport and avoid unpleasant comment as you would have the rest do when you run the machine and get your particular favorites?

Radios are built for pleasure, not to cause disputes.

Radios should bring the family closer, not break up the peace at home.

When there are quarrels over certain programs, or because one wants it loud and another wants it softer, or as to who shall manipulate things at any time, it is a sign of selfishness somewhere.

There is a fair and square deal in radio by which each memb of the family gives and takes on a fifty-fifty basis, and it should n be necessary to discuss about it till the real thrill and beauty of t thing is lost.

The only danger is that the farmers may be eliminated before overproduction.

Spring is awakening the Filipino poets. Only a moment ago the jaunty mailman minced in with an envelope which contained the following surprise:

My job I quit—no longer work for hire
My boss he say it save him trouble to fire;
I go to park where write some pome
But am worry when dog think my leg is bone.

—J. Katata.
